Cotton Leads Drive to Obey Recovery Act

Hearing on Its Code of Fair Competition Set for June 27.

(Associated Press).

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, industrial control and public works administrator, last night announced that the cotton textile industry had swung in at the head of the line of march under the national recovery act and that a hearing on its already submitted "code of fair competition" would be held on June 27.

Sweeping in its application, the code submitted by the industry fixes minimum wages of $10 a week in the Southern industry and $11 a week in Northern mills, with a maximum of 40 hours work a week.

Johnson described the projected new scales as representing an approximate increase of 30 per cent in wages in an important part of the industry and a reduction of around 20 per cent in weekly working hours.

Johnson Names Aids.

A short while before, word was given out that road building and ship construction would lead the way in the public works division of the national recovery drive.

A total of $638,000,000 has been put aside for these activities, of which $400,000,000 will go as grants to States for highways, and the remainder for constructing Navy ships.

Driving ahead at full speed, Johnson also announced last night the formal appointment of aids to round out his organization. In addition to those previously named, he listed Dudley Cates, Chicago insurance executive, and Edward F. McGrady, legislative representative of the American Federation of Labor, as assistant administrators for industry and labor, respectively.

All Concerned Invited.

Listing it as "notice of hearing No. 1," Johnson summoned to a conference at the Department of Commerce a week from today to discuss the textile industry's "code of fair competition" virtually every one interested. In fact, the invitation included:

"Any person or group who can show a reasonable interest in the effect of any provision of the proposed code, whether it is as a worker in this industry or a consumer of its product, or as an employer in this industry who does not agree with the subscribers to the code or in any other capacity."

Both President Roosevelt and Johnson are hopeful that all of the ten major industries of the Nation will submit their codes with all possible speed. After hearings the regulations

Congress 3.2 Beer Bill For Oklahoma Is Signed

The bill permitting the sale of 3.2 per cent beer in Oklahoma whenever the citizens repeal a State law forbidding its sale was approved by President Roosevelt before he left for his cruise, it was announced yesterday at the White House. The bill passed Congress during the closing days of the session.

A statement by Senator Gore (Democrat), Oklahoma, explaining the need for the bill, was also made public by the White House. The statement pointed out that when Oklahoma was formed from Indian Territory, the sale of beer was forbidden by Congress. For this reason, the old law had to be repealed before any change in the present State prohibition law would become effective.

Westward World Flight Set Today

Oakland, Calif., June 19 (A.P.).—Capt. Charles T. P. Ulm, copilot of the Southern Cross in its Oakland-Australia flight five years ago, will take off from Sidney, Australia, tomorrow on a westward flight around the world, he cabled today to James H. Fort, of San Leandro, near here.

Fort aided Charles Kingsford-Smith and Ulm in 1928 in their preparations for the flight to Hawaii, the Fiji Islands and Australia.

He said Ulm, flying an Australian-built monoplane, with three American-made motors, will attempt to set a new record from Sidney to London. He then will hop the Atlantic to New York, where Fort will join the crew for the remainder of the journey. He said Ulm estimated he would be in New York in about ten days after his take-off.

$20,000,000 MORE WILL BUY FORESTS

President Transfers Fund to Purchase Eastern Lands for Camps.

For the purchase of Eastern forest lands to be improved by the Civilian Conservation Corps, President Roosevelt has transferred $20,000,000 from the old public works appropriation to the funds of the corps, it was learned yesterday.

The money will be sufficient to buy from 6,000,000 to 8,000,000 acres of timbered lands, it is estimated. The average price to be paid will be about $3 per acre. All purchases will be made near existing national forests or in areas where it has already been planned to establish such forests.

While the terms of the Executive order transferring the funds provide that the purchases may be made in any of the 42 national-forest purchase areas, it is expected that most of the lands bought will be in the east. Additional Eastern lands are needed to utilize the horde of Eastern unemployed enrolled in the forestry army. The West already has extensive national forests and because of a smaller industrial population has comparatively fewer men in the corps. For this reason existing forests in the West will be sufficient to employ all men enrolled in the Western States.

The President also has transferred an additional $5,875,200 from the public works appropriation to the Corps funds to pay for work done on Indian reservations. These funds shall be disbursed by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs. The funds for buying land are to be disbursed by the Chief of the Forest Service on direction of the Director of the Conservation Corps.

Clemency Refused Gin Party Slayer

Anderson, Ind., June 19 (A.P.).—Judge B. H. Campbell today refused to release Virgil Kirkland, Gary youth, from the State reformatory, where he is serving one to ten years for alleged assault and battery on Arlene Draves, who died following a gin party at Gary in 1930.

Attorneys for Kirkland sought his release on a writ of habeas corpus. They contended Judge Grant Crumpacker had no authority to sentence Kirkland for a lesser crime than that for which he was indicted. Kirkland was indicted for first-degree murder following the death of Miss Draves, his 18-year-old schoolgirl sweetheart.

Attorneys for Kirkland said an appeal would be taken to the Supreme Court.

Macon Scheduled to Go To Lakehurst Thursday

Akron, Ohio, June 19 (A.P.).—The U. S. S. Macon is expected to leave Akron for Lakehurst, N. J., at sundown next Thursday, weather permitting, it was announced today by builders of the giant Navy Zeppelin.

Chinese Shippers Seek Protection From Pirates

Nanking, China, June 19 (A.P.).—As the result of increasingly frequent piracies along the seacoast, which have taken heavy toll of shipping during the past six months, Chinese shippers appealed for assistance today to the national government.

AUSTRIAN EDICT OUTLAWS NAZIS AS 46 ARE HURT

Swastika and All Party Activities Banned; Troops Called.

The action came shortly after receipt of a report from the City of Kerms saying sixteen Fascist auxiliary police had been seriously wounded and 30 slightly hurt by hand grenades thrown at them from the woods.

Two bombs were exploded in front of the courthouse at Leoben without damage. Near Graz six telephone lines were cut.

In order to avoid possible demonstrations, the Austrian football league decided not to send a team to Frankfort-on-the-Main, Germany, for a scheduled Austria-German contest Sunday.

Martial Law Is Declared.

Martial law was declared at Krems and troops, police and gendarmes concentrated there.

The decree made any Nazi activity, including wearing of the swastika (emblem of the Nazi party), punishable by a fine of 2,000 schillings (approximately $284) or six months in jail.

The auxiliary police, 56 in number, were marching toward Krems from target practice when unidentified persons hidden in the woods tossed the grenades. Sixteen of the group were taken to a hospital, where it was said three of them may die. Thirty others were slightly injured.

Bombings Traced to Nazis.

Minister of Security Emil Fey informed the cabinet that police had definitely established that the recent Vienna bombings were the work of Nazi storm troopers and that the Krems incident apparently was the same.

The cabinet then decided upon dissolution of the Nazi party and all affiliated organizations in Austria.

Minister of Justice Schussigg next made public the decision, in which he said:

"We have warned again and again we do not want blood and we do not want battle; we want peace. And now bombs have exploded in Vienna and other provinces. The police have established beyond a doubt that the Vienna bombers were members of the Nazi party. The government therefore has no choice but to act."

5 Injured as Woodin's Car Crashes in Flushing

New York, June 19 (A.P.).—Five persons were slightly injured in a collision of four automobiles, including one owned by Secretary of the Treasury Woodin and operated by his chauffeur, in Flushing late today.

Lawrence Redmond, 48, the chauffeur, was held in $500 bail for a hearing tomorrow in the magistrate's court in Flushing on a charge of reckless driving. Redmond, alone in the car, was driving to the residence of Mr. Woodin's son-in-law, Joseph McKee, a letter carrier and a driver of one of the other cars, lodged the complaint against Redmond.

Boy Saved From Fire By Throw Into River

Omaha, Nebr., June 19 (A.P.).—Howard Selden saved the life of his son, Robert, 10, today by throwing him into the Platte River near here. The family was returning from a fishing trip when their car caught fire as it crossed a bridge. Robert's clothes were ignited by flaming gasoline.

The father after vainly trying to smother the flames dropped the lad, who could not swim, into the river. He fell where the water was only two feet deep. The fire was extinguished.

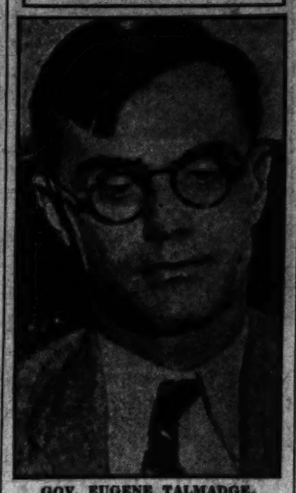
O. L. Bodenhamer Dies of Gas Burns

Shreveport, La., June 19 (A.P.).—O. L. Bodenhamer, of El Dorado, Ark., former national commander of the American Legion, died in a Shreveport hospital at 7:20 o'clock tonight of burns suffered in a gas explosion in the east Texas oil field near Henderson today.

After being taken to a Henderson hospital he was later brought here, where further efforts were made to save his life by means of a "heat bath."

The explosion was set off when Mr. Bodenhamer struck a match to light a cigarette in the oil field. He was about 150 yards from the nearest well. R. C. Cook, a lease tender, who was with Mr. Bodenhamer at the time of the accident, suffered burns on his hands and face. They were preparing to open the wells after a three-day shutdown.

ACTS IN FEUD



GOV. EUGENE TALMADGE, of Georgia, who yesterday placed the State capitol under martial law in his feud with the State highway boards.

CAPITOL OF GEORGIA UNDER MARTIAL LAW

Governor Acts in Dispute Tying Up $2,500,000 in Highway Funds.

Atlanta, June 19 (A.P.).—Gov. Eugene Talmadge today placed the State capitol under martial law and ordered removal of Capt. J. W. Barnett from the Georgia Highway Board. The action was the governor's reply to a civil action that had tied up funds he impounded. He has been engaged in a feud with the State highway board.

The governor issued a martial law proclamation soon after he returned today from New York and learned that the highway board had tied up $2,500,000 in highway moneys, now under guard in the capitol.

The proclamation specified that the highway department, its officials, employes, equipment and convict camps supervised by the department, is under martial law. It also decreed martial law for the capitol and adjacent buildings and also employes and officials of other executive departments, including the treasurer, comptroller general and secretary of State.

The decree provides that all civil action now pending in the controversy between Talmadge and the highway board shall be transferred to a military court.

Jud Wilhoit, of the highway board, the only member who stood by the governor in the controversy, was directed to take charge of the department. Adjt. Gen. Lindley W. Camp was ordered to establish military control over the capitol and a few minutes later he marched to the office of the highway board and read his orders.

The controversy started several months ago when Talmadge ordered the highway board to discharge five engineers and effect other economies. The board declined to fire the men. The governor refused to approve the department's budget and all highway moneys were tied up.

The board then notified the State it was returning to the State's care more than 500 convicts who have been under supervision of the highway department. Talmadge then impounded all highway funds, deposited them in the State treasury and threw a military guard about the vaults.

The board went into civil court today and got a temporary injunction, tying up the funds. Then Talmadge ordered martial law.

Gangsters Slay Former Cafe Owner of Chicago

CIVILIAN SLASH AT WAR OFFICE DUE IN SAVINGS

Heads of 10 Departments Trying to Keep Staffs in Budget Cuts.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Administrative officers in ten executive departments yesterday were whipping budgets into shape to conform with White House slashes under congressional appropriations.

With but ten days remaining of the current fiscal year, departmental chiefs were studying the problem with an eye to personnel shifts, furloughs, retirements and some actual dismissals.

Although Federal personnel will bear the brunt of savings planned, not one department has mapped a comprehensive program affecting all employes. Several have announced partial plans and many know in a general way how they intend to cope with the situation.

Limited to $60,000,000.

Developments yesterday were:

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace announced his department will be limited to $60,000,000 of the $75,000,000 appropriated by Congress. He will abolish the market news service of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Rotative furloughs will take up much of the slack throughout the department, but no systematic plan has been determined upon.

Furloughs of from fifteen to twenty days appear in store for Bureau of Standards workers, it was learned at the Commerce Department.

Beginning July 1, the department must cut its expenditures from the $41,000,000 appropriated by Congress to a $20,000,000 limit fixed by the President. From 700 to 800 more employes must be released, or the equivalent ordered in furloughs.

10 Per Cent Civilian Slash.

War Department chiefs studied a possible 10 per cent reduction in civilian personnel as one means of effecting the $50,000,000 savings ordered by the White House for that department. As in the case of the Agriculture and Commerce Departments, no detailed plans have been worked out.

At the Treasury Department, a two-week furlough was said to be under consideration, and at the Postoffice Department officials were at work on regulations affecting departmental personnel, after announcing a nine-day furlough for postal service workers during the first quarter of the new fiscal year. Other departmental programs were incomplete.

Announcement yesterday by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace of a $15,000,000 savings program was significant from the standpoint of reorganization as well as immediate economies.

It was learned the $15,000,000 figure included approximately $3,500,000 in economies expected to be derived from 25 per cent cuts in agricultural extension activities ordered

Last Victim Identified In Fair Plane Crash

Chicago, June 19 (A.P.).—Mrs. Eugene Gollup, of New York, today identified the ninth victim of the amphibian plane crash June 11 as her husband. Called from New York to attempt an identification, she became hysterical as she recognized the charred body at the morgue.

Gollup, an office manager, had come to Chicago to visit the World's Fair and was one of the nine passengers in the last flight of the sightseeing plane.

Body Found by Canadians Not That of Capital Youth

Mr. and Mrs. Gibbs Report Dental Work Fails to Tally With Son's; Wide Search Renewed and Appeal Is Issued by Parents.

Proof that the body of a youth, found some time ago in a Canadian river, could not be that of their missing son was announced last night by Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Gibbs, of 1821 Newton street northwest.

Dental work failed to tally, Mr. Gibbs declared, convincing him that the dead youth is not his son, Henry Huntington Gibbs, who disappeared last January from the University of Pennsylvania.

Although outward appearances at first indicated the body might be that of the missing student, authorities at Winnipeg, Manitoba, produced X-ray photographs which in no way corresponded to dental work done in Washington for young Gibbs.

The young man, a sophomore at the university, dropped from sight after sending a note to his parents stating that his body "would never be found."

With conclusive proof that the body found in Canada was not Gibbs, the Nation-wide search, conducted since his disappearance, was again resumed.

The family last night issued the following statement:

"Mr. and Mrs. Gibbs do not seek to compel their son's return home, but they do request that as wide publicity as possible be given this notice in the hope that if it comes to his attention he may be prompted to advise them he is safe, even though he may be unwilling to disclose his whereabouts."

Moley Goes to Parley, Leaving Baruch Here; Stabilization Is Snag

Gold Bloc Proposes Adjournment Pending Settlement.

Paris Delegates Say Uncertainty Must Be Removed.

London, June 19 (A.P.).—With plans for currency stabilization at a standstill, unofficial advocacy of the adjournment of the World Economic Conference until this question should be settled was advanced today by representatives of European gold standard countries.

The French delegation, leader of the gold bloc, insisted that virtually nothing could be accomplished by the conclave until uncertainty over currency values were ended.

A month to six weeks was mentioned as the probable length of the suggested adjournment.

France and her "gold allies" took the position that the next decision with regard to efforts for fixing the dollar and the pound at a given value was up to Washington and that it was useless to attempt to continue the London deliberations until President Roosevelt has issued his final instructions upon stabilization to the American group here.

Views Are Conflicting.

While persistent adjournment talk went on in the conference lobbies, the two principal commissions of the conference toiled in a labyrinth of opposing viewpoints on a multitude of problems.

Outstanding developments of the day as the conference began its second week included:

1. Assertion by the French that only through government agreements for the control of production and markets of raw materials is it possible to strike at the roots of the depression, and that until such action is taken it is impossible to consider reductions in tariffs and other import restrictions as have been urged by Cordell Hull, American Secretary of State.

2. Presentation by Senator Pittman, of Nevada, as a subject for discussion of his proposal to provide a new monetary basis for currencies with the optional use of silver as currency reserve up to one-fifth of the total reserve and reduction of the coverage to 25 per cent instead of 40 per cent.

Cousens States Views.

3. A statement by Senator Cousens, of Michigan, the only Republican on the American delegation, that nationalism seemed to overshadow internationalism at the conference, and

3 Drowned Girls Found In Southeast Missouri

Fort Scott, Kans., June 19 (A.P.).—The bodies of three girls, drowned while swimming yesterday in the Marais des Cygnes River southeast of Amoret, Mo., were recovered today.

The victims were Vera Hamilton, 11; Freda Hamilton, 9, sisters, of Amoret, and Ina Bain, 11, Kansas City. Search was started when their clothing was found on the river bank late yesterday.

Mattern Rescuers Still Held by Fog

Seattle, June 19 (A.P.).—Weather Bureau reports of foggy conditions at Nome, Alaska, and in the Aleutian Islands indicated today that two Navy fliers stationed in the Pribilof Islands were still prevented from starting an aerial search for Jimmy Mattern, missing on a transpacific flight.

Mattern left Khabarovsk, Siberia, last Wednesday on a 2,500-mile jump to Nome and has not been reported since.

The naval wireless at the Puget Sound Navy Yard, Bremerton, had heard nothing from the old troop ship Argonne, the base of the naval fliers, Ensign William A. Moffett, jr., son of the late Rear Admiral Moffett, and Lieut. John Vest.

The Coast Guard vessels Alert and Shoshone, based at Unalaska, were steamed up awaiting better weather conditions to look for the missing young Texan.

'PRETTY BOY' CALLED KANSAS CITY KILLER

Kansas City, June 19 (A.P.).—Charles (Pretty Boy) Floyd, Oklahoma desperado, sought in a score of murders and other crimes, was identified today by Mrs. Lottie West as one of the machine gunners who slaughtered four officers and their prisoner at the union station plaza Saturday.

"That's the man I saw fire on the officers with a submachine gun," Mrs. West told Sheriff Thomas Bash, as she selected a photograph of the notorious bank robber and killer from a group of pictures.

"I noticed him first sitting at my desk in the union station as early as 7 a. m.," continued the Travelers' Aid worker, a witness to the barrage which killed Frank Nash and four of the seven officers returning him to Leavenworth Prison.

Mrs. West's desk is at a point in the station lobby which commands one of the two doors through which train passengers enter the station.

"The man left immediately when I stepped up," she said, adding that he walked out the east door of the station.

She then repeated how she had seen this same man, who had lounged at her desk 30 minutes before the killing, walk calmly from the shelter of a loading dock outside the station and launch his deadly attack.

"The man with the machine gun was about 30 years of age," Mrs. West continued, relating how she had seen his stealthy approach from ambush as the officers grouped about their automobile.

"He had a round face, ruddy complexion, wore a dark blue suit with a white shirt and a turned down panama hat. I would think he weighed nearly 200 pounds."

Mrs. West was not familiar with the appearance of Floyd, and was not

Idaho Beer Sale Awaits Acceptable Taxing Plan

Boise, Idaho, June 19 (A.P.).—The Idaho Legislature, meeting in special session today, passed a bill legalizing 3.2 per cent beer in this State. Gov. C. Ben Ross, however, said he would temporarily withhold his signature from the measure. "I will sign the bill," the governor said, "but not until an acceptable revenue-raising measure is passed along with it."

The vote for the beer bill in the House was 48 to 14, one absent, and in the Senate, 35 to 8, 1 absent.

Lower Postage Order Is Signed by Farley

(Associated Press.)

An order restoring the 2-cent local rate on first-class mail on July 1 was signed yesterday by Postmaster General Farley.

On July 1, postage on letters and other first-class matter, except postal cards and private mailing or post cards, mailed for local delivery at postoffices having city, village or rural letter carrier service, will be at the rate of 2 cents for each ounce or fraction thereof. The rate on letters mailed to other cities or villages remains at 3 cents. The rate for cards remains at 1 cent.

Denies Emergency Is Cause of Departure for Conference.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Assistant Secretary of State Raymond Moley, the closest of the President's advisors, left here last night for New York to board the steamer Manhattan tomorrow en route to London and the economic conference. In his absence Bernard M. Baruch will be at the Department of State without official designation and merely to advise in an informal way on the negotiations as they are proceeding in London and in the preparation of instructions here for the delegates.

Mr. Baruch was at the department yesterday and will have the use of Mr. Moley's office there. He declined to discuss for publication his new job, but Prof. Moley intimated that the collaboration of the famous New York financier and economist might be continued after his return, as the President highly esteemed the cooperation and advice of the man who had assisted at the peace conference after having been chairman of the famous War Industries Board.

Emergency Is Denied.

Prof. Moley himself deprecated the suggestion of emergency in his sudden decision to sail tomorrow. The official statement from the department declared that the President last May intended to send his Assistant Secretary of State to the conference some time after its opening. However, the underlying reason for his departure at this time is believed to be the sudden split in the ranks of the American delegation at London and which threatens to grow wider.

At the present time the members of the American delegation seem to be in violent disagreement. There is the first and most important schism—affecting stabilization of currencies. There the spirit of revolt is rife and it is probably to heal this incipient outbreak that Prof. Moley has decided to make his dash for London to avoid more serious consequences.

Split on Stabilization.

The delegates to the London conference were prepared to discuss stabilization, as part of the agenda they had been working on but to their great surprise, all negotiations relative to stabilization were handled far from the Geological Museum, where Secretary of State Hull and his delegates were working and instructed to the direction of George Harrison, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and the Treasury's economist, Prof. Oliver Wentworth M. Sprague, who were conferring with representatives of the Bank of England and the Bank of France at the offices of the Bank of England.

When the American delegates heard

SUGAR RELIEF PLAN CONFERENCE CALLED

Efforts Will Be Exerted to Apply Farm Adjustment Act to Commodity.

(Associated Press.)

Efforts to apply the farm adjustment act to sugar, long depressed by low prices and overproduction, will be undertaken at a conference called yesterday for June 27 at which representatives of growers and refiners of this country, Cuba, Hawaii, Philippines, Puerto Rico and Virgin Islands will gather.

The effort to improve the position of sugar growers will be made under provisions of the act authorizing Secretary Wallace to enter into trade agreements with domestic and foreign producers and processors. He has authority under this provision to approve agreements setting minimum prices and to enforce them by refusing licenses to operate to those refiners who fail to carry out the edicts.

Year of Investigation.

Coulter, former president of the North Dakota Agricultural College, is an authority on sugar and has directed the Tariff Commission's exhaustive investigation into duties and production costs in the various growing areas during the past year.

The commission had intended to report publicly on its tariff inquiry and recommended changes, but upon the suggestion of the Roosevelt administration it has delayed this presentation.

The tariff question is of major importance in the case of sugar and will be recognized in negotiations for a trade agreement which may take the direction of fixing maximum quotas which each of the major sources of American supply may provide in the future.

Every effort will be made in the conferences to achieve agreement on a program which could be put into effect in time to effect this year's production. The new crop will begin going to market in August.

Sugar Men Are Eager.

Charles J. Brand, coadministrator of the act, under whose general direction the sugar plan will be worked out, said that sugar interests, including producers, processors and handlers, have been pressing for an early conference.

Many of them have held informal conferences with Coulter during recent weeks and substantial agreement on some of the fundamentals of a plan was reported to have been reached.

An invitation to representatives of Cuban producers has been issued. This marked the first time since the farm act became effective that producers outside of United States boundaries have been considered in the preparation of the plan.

Cuban producers have made a persistent effort over a period of more than two years to gain a reduction in duty on raw sugar, now placed at 2.5 cents a pound less 20 per cent because of the Cuban reciprocity treaty of 1903.

Marylander Jailed On Speed Charge

George E. Goode, of Riverdale, Md., was committed to Marlboro Jail for ten days yesterday in default of a fine of $10 and costs imposed by Judge J. Chew Sheriff in Hyattsville Police Court.

Goode was charged with reckless driving, June 8, when his auto and a car operated by Laurence W. Nelson, collided in Riverdale. Nelson received minor injuries and his car was demolished.

The court also committed Milbert Keith, of Relay, Md., to jail for 10 days when he was unable to pay a fine of $10 and costs for operating an automobile without a license. W. N. Bennett, Brentwood, Md., was fined $5 and costs for reckless driving. His car was in collision with the car operated by Frank M. Plager, 2000 Jackson street northeast, in Riverdale on June 14.

Monetary Plans Sent From Here to Parley

(Associated Press.)

The monetary resolution put forward at the London Economic Conference last night by Senator Pittman, of the American delegation, was worked out in Washington and included in the instructions sent the delegates late last week by the administration here.

The move was hailed here as an indication that the conference was getting down to fundamentals and a search for means of ending the world depression.

The metallic monetary backing of 25 per cent was described as entirely in line with President Roosevelt's general program both domestic and international.

Under the proposal, with money backed by 20 per cent gold and 5 per cent silver, it was predicted that a betterment in silver prices would follow.

Whether it was intended that such a proposition be put into effect at an earlier date or not was not made clear. This point was considered important in view of the expressed opposition of the administration to any stabilization of currencies until rising prices in this country have accomplished the purpose of putting the unemployed to work.

MRS. NELLIE B. LEE FUNERAL IS TODAY

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Funeral services for Mrs. Nellie Bernard Lee, widow of Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, who died at her home in Alexandria Sunday, will be conducted at 11 a. m. today in St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Alexandria, by the Rev. Percy Foster Hall, rector. Interment will be in Hollywood Cemetery, Richmond.

The pallbearers will be Henry Landon Cabell, John Stewart Bryan, Dr. Stuart McGuire, Hugh Antrim, Charles Patterson Cardwell, Charles U. Williams, jr., Eppa Hunton 4th, and J. R. A. Hobson.

Mrs. Lee was Miss Ellen Bernard Fowle, daughter of the late George DeShield and Sarah Hooe Fowle, and was a native of Alexandria, where she has made her home with her daughter, Mrs. J. C. Rhea, for many years. Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, son of Admiral Sidney Smith Lee and a nephew of Gen. Robert E. Lee, was a distinguished cavalry leader of the Confederate Army; governor of Virginia from 1886 to 1890; consul general at Havana, Cuba, in 1898, when the destruction of the battleship Maine startled the world and precipitated the Spanish-American War. As a major general in the United States Army, he commanded the Seventh Army Corps in the Army of Cuban occupation, was later governor general of Cuba, and at the time of his death in 1905 was president of the Jamestown Tercentennial Exposition.

Two sons, Col. Fitzhugh Lee and Lieut. Col. George Mason Lee, are carrying out the family traditions by serving in the Army, and three daughters, Mrs. Lewis Brown, Mrs. John C. Montgomery and Mrs. J. C. Rhea, all married Army officers.

Takoma Council Budget Adopted

A tentative budget of $45,000 for the fiscal year beginning July 1 was adopted by the town council of Takoma Park, Md., last night. It was explained that the amount is about the same as that of last year, but the expenditures will be less owing to the fact that under the new law the State and county must maintain the roads. Actual expenditures will also be limited to $40,000 during the year, as 10 per cent surplus is required.

Karl D. Loos, of Chevy Chase, Md., was named corporation counsel for the town, succeeding E. Barrett Prettyman, who recently was appointed general counsel in the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Royal G. Sherburne was placed in charge of police and Col. John R. Conger in charge of the fire department.

This was the first meeting of the council since the election of the two new members, Maj. C. Leonard Boyer and Millward C. Taft.

STATESMEN ADVISED TO HEED GOD'S WORD

Statesmen have failed in establishing world peace because they have failed to follow God's teachings, the Rev. F. C. Gilbert, evangelist, said yesterday at the camp meeting in Takoma Park of the Potomac Conference of the Seventh Day Adventists.

Speaking on "The Rise and Fall of World Empires," Mr. Gilbert stated that all kinds of promises have been made by industrial and political leaders about the future success of the economic structure, but that only when each individual recognizes and follows the teaching of God would it.

"Everyone who has any intelligence can see that the problems of statesmen are becoming more perplexing every day, and while their efforts are to be commended, they, along with all others, should seek light and wisdom from the source book of all wisdom, where they can learn that the course of human events is just about ended. Satan is making his last stand, and humanity's only hope is in redemption through Jesus Christ," he stated.

The Rev. M. E. Kern gave an address before the clergymen and other conference workers at their daily session, and the Rev. C. L. Bond spoke to the young people yesterday morning.

At the home missionary meeting Walter S. Mead, C. L. Palmer, Clarence Lacey, E. A. Manry and J. Adams Stevens, secretary of the home missionary department of the general conference, addressed the gathering.

Republicans Start Area Conferences

(Associated Press.)

In one of the first formal announcements to issue from Republican national committee headquarters here since the inauguration, Chairman Sanders made known last night he had held during the day the first of a series of regional conferences with party leaders.

A group of Republican leaders from Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina and the District of Columbia met with Sanders at the committee headquarters. He said other such meetings would be held in various sections of the country during the next few weeks.

An announcement from Republican headquarters said:

"Mr. Sanders stated that the meeting was most enthusiastic and was a vehicle for a very full and intimate discussion of the political situation existing in each State; that no greater encouragement could have been offered than the assurance of the undiminished ardor of our party workers throughout the region represented and the reiteration of the wholehearted support in the work he was carrying on.

"He stated that he would announce the other conferences as they were arranged from time to time."

3 of Movie Colony Killed As Plane Plunges in Lake

Bodies of Harry Sweet, Claudette Ford and Hal Davitt Taken From Wreckage in 20 Feet of Water.

San Bernardino, Calif., June 19 (A.P.).—The bodies of Harry Sweet, Hollywood film director; Vera Williams, movie "extra" player, and Hal Davitt, screen writer, were recovered today from the wreckage of a plane that fell into Big Bear Lake yesterday.

Constable E. L. Standefd reported that salvage crews found the bodies when the ship was raised from the bottom of the lake, which is in the mountains above here.

The plane fell in about 20 feet of water, a quarter of a mile off shore. Fifty men, aboard a barge equipped with a crane, succeeded in raising the craft.

The plane, owned by Sweet, was flown away from a Los Angeles airport Sunday afternoon. Witnesses said the ship failed to come out of a dive and plunged into the lake.

Sweet, 32-year-old director of many comedy films, was regarded as an experienced pilot.

Miss Williams was known in Hollywood under the screen name of Claudette Ford and was an extra and "bit" player. Davitt, a screen writer, had been associated with Sweet for the last two weeks in preparing a comedy.

Sweet was known in the film colony as one of the few men experienced in all fields of production and had the distinction of writing, directing, producing and acting in several films.

10,000,000-ACRE CUT IN COTTON PLANNED

Wallace Launches Vast Test of Process Tax Plan to Raise Prices.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Wallace yesterday called for the destruction of 10,000,000 acres of growing cotton in a long-limbed experiment to curb production and reduce the potential surplus of the South's big money crop.

The Secretary announced that maximum processing taxes—about 4.1 cents a pound on the basis of present price relationships—would be levied, beginning August 1, to finance the program under which growers will be asked to plow up portions of their crop in return for rental benefit payments and the right to obtain options on Government-owned cotton.

A campaign will be started in the South next Monday when growers will be asked to sign contracts to rent cotton lands at from $6 an acre up, depending on the average past yields and estimated production of the farm this year.

Outright Cash Payment.

The farmer can either offer to take an outright cash payment for plowing up portions of his crop or can take a smaller rental and obtain in addition an option on about 2,400,000 bales in an amount equal to the estimated output of the land he retires from production.

These options will be offered him at 6 cents a pound or nearly 3 cents below the current market price. He may order these options exercised at any time up to next January, his profit being the difference between the 6 cents and the price cotton is selling for at the time he sells.

Wallace said operation of the whole plan was contingent upon the degree of cooperation shown by growers during the week's campaign to obtain contracts.

Wallace Confident of Success.

Unless Wallace is certain that he can take a large amount of cotton out of production, equivalent to at least 2,000,000 bales production, he is not prepared to proceed further with the plan.

However, he indicated that he was confident of the success of the campaign, and his associates said there was virtually no doubt but that the plan would be employed and that about $100,000,000 would be distributed in rentals to growers in the next few months.

Wallace will use about $54,000,000 from the $200,000,000 made available by the farm act and subsequent laws to acquire full title to cotton on which Government loans were made by the Farm Board and other agencies. He is making settlement for the cotton, which is under the control of the new farm credit administration, at the rate of 9½ cents a pound.

Wallace, in whose name the pool cotton will be held, may sell any portion of it he desires up to March 1, 1936, when the law requires that he must complete disposition of it.

Children to Take Blooms to Patients

Bearing flowers to brighten the hearts of suffering little patients at Children's Hospital, three elementary school students of Washington will visit the hospital this afternoon.

The flowers they will carry will be from the school gardens of local public schools. Each child who has a part in the making of these gardens will contribute a plant or flower to the floral gift to the hospital.

Mary Louise Turner, from the Brightwood School garden at Thirteenth and Nicholson streets northwest, and Warren Barwell, from the Brookland School garden at Tenth and Monroe streets northeast, will represent young gardeners in the white schools, while Stanley Carter, from the Giddings School garden, will represent the colored.

Workman Severely Hurt By Fall From Building

Louis Schmincke, 30, 405 Seward square southeast, a workman, suffered a fractured pelvis and severe bruises yesterday when he fell from a second-story height of the central heating plant building at Eleventh and C streets southwest. He was treated at Emergency Hospital.

Five Indictments Found in Arlington

Only five indictments were returned by the grand jury at the opening of the June term of the Circuit Court of Arlington County yesterday, declared by officials to be the second smallest docket in the history of the court. The smallest was at the February term, when but two indictments were returned.

Those indicted are William Godfrey, charged with assault upon Raymond Smith and taking from him the sum of $10; Lee Harrington, charged with an assault with a knife upon Hugh Thomas; Enda Earl Spradlin, bigamy; Louis C. Hodges, charged with setting fire to an unoccupied dwelling said to be his own property, and Benjamin Neal Gary, charged with stealing an automobile from Herbert Marcey valued at $450.

Godfrey pleaded guilty to the charge of grand larceny and was sentenced to serve one year in the penitentiary by Judge Walter T. McCarthy. Harrington plead not guilty to the charge of assault and was acquitted by the court.

Arlington County Board Pushes Sewerage Project

With many conferences planned for the week on the question of the installation of a county-wide sewerage system in Arlington County, Harry A. Fellows, chairman of the county board announced last night that the board hopes to have the matter in shape to present to the people of the county for a vote in the very near future.

The board at its meeting last Saturday voted to ask the Federal Government for a loan not in excess of $2,350,000 in accordance with the provisions of the national industrial recovery act.

Freight Violation Draws Fine.

The first arrest for violating the Alexandria ordinance recently passed regulating the route for freight traffic was made on Sunday by Policeman McClary, and the offender was fined $2.50 in police court yesterday morning.

The driver gave the name of Frank Taylor, 58 years old, and his address as Washington.

WILLIAM HAMM, JR.

HAMM LEADS HUNT FOR HIS ABDUCTORS

Reward for Gang's Capture Is Nearing $50,000 in Concerted Drive.

St. Paul, Minn., June 19 (A.P.).—Spurred by heavy rewards and aided by the ready cooperation of the victim, search for the five or six abductors of William Hamm, millionaire brewer, released early today after payment of an undisclosed ransom sum, tonight was in full swing.

St. Paul business men during today raised reward funds totaling $30,000 for the apprehension of the gang, one of whom Hamm believed might be Verne Sankey, notorious kidnap suspect. The fund was expected to be swelled later to $50,000.

M. F. Kinkead, Ramsey County attorney, received Hamm's assurance of cooperation in bringing the abductors to justice.

"I will gladly cooperate by giving any information I have," Hamm told Kinkead. "Although it was a trying experience I was treated with utmost respect and courtesy, but like the old adage, home, sweet home is the best place after all."

Kinkead declared "every law enforcement body, including the police department and my office, will go the limit to clear up this outrage.

"This man hunt will never let up until all those responsible are brought to justice," he added. "Every law enforcing agency in the State—city, State and Federal—has joined in the hunt for the criminals who took Mr. Hamm and robbed St. Paul of its safety."

Hampered by the slimness of adequate clews and the fact Hamm was forced to avert his face from the kidnapers when he was not wearing goggles lined with cotton and a white hood, authorities nevertheless pressed their investigation with the utmost possible speed.

Held prisoner in a house located, Hamm believed, in northern Minnesota, he saw his captors only dimly, but declared, however, one of them resembled Verne Sankey.

Sankey is under indictment for the Charles Boettcher 3d kidnaping in Denver, and the abduction here of Haskell Bohn, son of a refrigerator manufacturer, about a year ago.

Hamm's release was effected after he had signed four ransom notes, of which only three were used. The sum of $100,000 was asked at first but only a part of this amount actually was paid.

The abductors contacted negotiators, H. C. Charles, Hamm Brewing Co. attorney, and W. W. Dunn, the former city sales manager and close friend of Hamm, several times by telephone after he was seized near the brewery shortly after noon last Thursday.

Subsequently Hamm was freed at Wyoming, Minn., about 45 miles from here, the kidnapers disappearing after saying "If there is anything we can do to help you, Mr. Hamm, just let us know." He telephoned his home from a farmhouse and authorities came and brought him home.

4-H Club Dances After Varied Day

A dance last night at the United States Chamber of Commerce, with music by the Marine Band, concluded the day's activity of the young people at the 4-H Club encampment.

Other events of the day included an address on the value of club work in the present agricultural situation by Frank W. Peck, commissioner of cooperative farm loans.

The 150 delegates also visited the White House and Bureau of Engraving and Printing. The encampment will end tomorrow.

Nose Tweak

Of Patron by Lobster May Cost Cafe $100,000 in Damages.

But if de Costa's declaration in superior court today is sustained, it was quite a tweak.

A lobster is correspondent in the case with Nick Cretan, proprietor of a cafe where de Costa dined June 10. Just to be sure the lobsters were strictly fresh, he said he challenged the waiter to prove it. In came a tray of live lobsters, and—read the legal document filed by de Costa:

"The defendant did then and there carelessly, improperly, willfully and maliciously raise said tray of lobsters too close to the nose of the plaintiff so that the lobster did grab hold of and seize the nose of the plaintiff."

To the extent of $100,000 de Costa asserts he was damaged in embarrassment, doctors' bills and impairment of his sense of smell.

NAME 6 DRY STATES, SHOUSE CHALLENGES

(Associated Press.)

Jouett Shouse, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, yesterday challenged "any dry leader" to name six States that will not ratify repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

"The prediction that the vote on repeal of the eighteenth amendment will be delayed until 1934, and further that the requisite number of States will refuse to ratify, does not disturb the forces working for repeal," Mr. Shouse said in a statement. "It is merely a confession of weakness by the opposition.

"The leader of the prohibitionists, Bishop Cannon, said last February that 30 States would refuse to ratify. As one State after another gave an overwhelming majority for repeal, apologists for the eighteenth amendment pinned all their faith on Indiana, claiming that it would represent the sentiment of the country.

"The rout of the dry forces there compelled them to fall back upon the South, and now utterly discouraged there, they are basing their forlorn hopes upon the possibility of obstructing the popular will until 1934.

"The American people are not going to tolerate this attempt at delay any more than they are going to permit the eighteenth amendment to remain in their Constitution. They have made up their minds to be rid of it once and for all. They are equally determined to be rid of it immediately. • • •

"The damage that would ensue from such delay is incalculable. The attempt to enforce any sort of national prohibition is daily becoming more impossible and the Federal Government is losing at least $2,000,000 a day at a time when every cent of revenue is most urgently needed.

"Repeal is inevitable. I defy any dry leader to name, not 13 States which will not ratify, but to name six. Their one remaining hope is to keep 13 States from voting."

Kuhn, Loeb & Co. Quiz To Open Next Tuesday

Fletcher said the opening had been postponed because Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, would be unable to be in Washington Monday.

Edward Folliard Wed in Bay State

News of the marriage of Edward T. Folliard, former member of The Washington Post staff, to Helen Liston, artist, of Newton, Mass., at the Church of Our Lady in Newton, was received here last night.

Mr. Folliard, who has been away from the city on a vacation since last week, completely surprised his friends and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Folliard, of 2500 Woodley place northwest, with whom he made his home.

Mrs. William Kennedy, the bride's sister, was matron of honor, according to a dispatch from Boston, while her husband was best man. The Rev. Lawrence J. Slattery officiated.

The couple will make a honeymoon trip to Washington along the coast. Mr. Folliard met his bride in 1928.

Three-Year Chase Ends in Rum Raid

Following a hide-and-seek chase lasting more than three years, E. P. Kirby, of Fairfax County, Va., yesterday captured his man.

Yesterday Sheriff E. P. Kirby, accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Henry Magarity, paid a visit to the home of John Doyle, located near Penn Daw, on the Washington-Richmond highway, and in the rear of the house found about 3 quarts of alleged liquor and 96 bottles and a small keg of so-called home brew.

Doyle was arrested and held at Fairfax under a charge of violation of the Virginia prohibition law by possession of ardent spirits. He will be tried this morning before Judge Paul E. Brown of the County Trial Justice Court.

Banquet to Honor Witts On Shad Bake Success

W. Crosdale Witts, who, as chairman of the 1933 shad bake of the Washington Board of Trade at Bay Ridge, Md., a month ago, was responsible for the success of the event, will be tendered a dinner by the organization at the Manor Club at 6:30 p. m. today.

Many of the entertainment features of the shad bake outing will be duplicated. Claude W. Owen, president of the board, will give an expression of gratitude to Mr. Witts.

BARUCH ASSUMES MOLEY'S POST HERE DURING PARLEY

that their powers for stabilization of currency had been taken over by the Federal Reserve Bank officer and the Treasury official, their resentment was loud and repeated. The London newspapers seized on the incident, and its effect on the entire American delegation was said to have been very depressing. The authorities here tacitly admitted the diversion of authority from the regular American delegation, and cited the intervention of Mr. Harrison and Prof. Sprague as another case affecting the authority of the Treasury and the Federal Reserve Board.

The prospects for stabilization are still as remote as they were on the night of the President's departure. Nothing has been done at London to bring the prospect of agreement any nearer accomplishment. The United States has, if anything, reinforced its opposition to stabilization at anything like the British proposal of $3.40 until the internal recovery program of the administration has proceeded along more definite lines.

Stabilization will follow this general evolution, according to the views of a prominent administration official. There will be first a tentative stage called the de facto stabilization, but which Prof. Moley prefers to call the experimental stage of stabilization. The present negotiations have not gone beyond this present stage. After that will come the definitive period of stabilization, when it is expected, the unemployment figures of the country will have been reduced, the banking situation will have been liquidated, a public works program started and commodity prices will have reached a plateau of comparative improvement.

Prof. Moley will stay in the American Embassy as the guest of Ambassador Bingham and will probably return to this country after a fortnight; stay there. He does not intend to go to Paris for conferences, but may make the trip over and back by plane. Herbert Bayard Swope, former executive editor of the New York World, will accompany Prof. Moley in an advisory capacity. The State Department declared yesterday that Mr. Swope has had experience during the war as a correspondent, was a member of the War Industries Board and was later chairman of the American press delegation at the Peace Conference. He is regarded by the President, of whom he has been a friend for more than twenty years, as possessing a wide knowledge of national affairs.

No Change on Debts.

The object of the Assistant Secretary's departure at this time was explained by the department as to apprise the delegation of the state of the public mind here, as well as to give the delegation the President's impressions of the domestic situation, both with respect to the actions of Congress, the developments of administrative policy and the general economic situation. Herbert Bayard Swope, jr., a student at Princeton, will accompany his father as secretary, and J. Arthur Mullen, jr., of the Department of State, will accompany Mr. Moley.

Before his departure, Prof. Moley talked with Belgian Ambassador Paul May and French Ambassador Andre de Laboulaye. There has been no change in the debt situation, as it appeared here on June 16. A tentative schedule of debt conversations has been drawn up after a consultation between Mr. Moley and Acting Secretary Phillips. It is believed that on this list Finland, the only country to meet its debt payment in entirety, was first to be accorded a hearing. The average time for the individual hearings will not be more than three or four days, although it was believed in other circles that a debt delegation, such as the British and Italian governments intend to send, will require considerably more time. The French and Belgian governments are still in the debt impasse, and probably nothing will be done until the French chamber, which meets today, has taken a step toward the payment of the deferred annunty, due last December 15.

Departure Is Delayed.

Originally the departure of Prof. Moley was scheduled for June 16 but changes in boat schedules and more imperative requirements here prevented his going then. Now, with the present acute stage of the proceedings at London, his presence there is believed doubly necessary. In addition to the other incidents that have marked the course of the American delegation, the confusion over the horizontal tariff reduction of 10 per cent threatened to have very serious consequences. This proposal had been submitted as a perfunctory matter of form by Dr. Herbert Feis, economist of the State Department, to the league officials handling the machinery of the conference's details. It was merely to be a talking point, but some of the members of the American delegation protested and Secretary Hull was forced to clarify the incident by cabling a statement to the Department of State last night. The statement said:

"Press reports that American delegation has proposed 10 per cent all-around tariff cut. We have made no such proposal, but have merely listed various topics on the economic agenda for discussion which does not in the least constitute a statement of our position."

ROOSEVELT'S YACHT TAKES GALE REFUGE

Nor'easter Threat Chases Amberjack II Into Quaint Nantucket.

Nantucket, Mass., June 19 (A.P.).—Threats of a dreaded nor'easter, with its fog and gales, brought President Roosevelt into this quaint harbor town today and held him here tonight, with the loss of a day in his sailing cruise to Campobello Island, New Brunswick.

While headed into the heaving seas off the elbow of Cape Cod early this morning Mr. Roosevelt's rolling 45-foot schooner, Amberjack II, was wig-wagged back to a course that brought her here. Fresh weather reports from accompanying destroyers caused the change.

Full of sea knowledge, "Skipper" Roosevelt recognized the weather signs and himself changed the course.

"That's right," growled Capt. Gus West of the Comanche, carrying the newspapermen. "It looks like a nor'easter. The wind is following through. It was southwest yesterday, north now and heading toward northeast. There isn't a port between here, Handkerchief Shoals and Provincetown around the cape, and he could not reach that in the face of head winds before midnight.

"It's a shame. A man has only two weeks a year for vacation and this comes up. But there is something above that controls all that. We can't help it."

So, tonight in a harbor nestled with cottages and an overtowering gilded dome of the courthouse, Mr. Roosevelt and his crew of five friends rode it out waiting for the weather to break. All time was spent on board. Through Stephen T. Early, a secretary aboard one of the two watchful destroyers lying outside the harbor, the President kept bare contact with national and international affairs, but he was bothered only with the most urgent messages, and these were very few, indeed.

2 Killed in London By Freak Storms

London, June 19 (A.P.).—Two men were killed during a series of freak thunder storms which struck London and nearby districts at noon today. The men were standing under a tree in Epping Forest when lightning killed them and injured a companion.

Many houses suffered smashed chimneys and broken roofs as a result of the lightning. A stationary tram car was hit but there were no casualties.

The Thames valley near Richmond experienced a heavy fall of hailstones and rain fell in most London districts.

Former Alicia M. du Pont Bride of Briton in Nevada

MRS. VICTOR A. I. LLEWELLYN, stepdaughter of Alfred I. du Pont, who was married yesterday in Glenbrook, Nev. She is the divorced wife of Harold S. Glendenning, New York attorney.

Mrs. Glendenning Is Won by Former Officer of Welsh Guards.

Mrs. Alicia Maddox du Pont Glendenning, step-daughter of Alfred I. du Pont, wartime munitions manufacturer, and Victor A. I. Llewellyn, of London, England, were married yesterday in Glenbrook, Nev., it was learned by The Post last night.

Mrs. Llewellyn, who during the past year has made her home in Washington, returned only last week from a visit to England. The couple plan a three weeks' wedding trip through the Canadian Rockies, and following a brief visit in Washington will return to England to live.

The first marriage venture of Mrs. Llewellyn ended in the Reno divorce courts in 1926. Her London wedding in 1922 attracted Nation-wide attention when she married Harold S. Glendenning, a Rhodes scholar at Oxford.

Daughter of Alfred du Pont's second wife, she was later legally adopted by her stepfather and met Glendenning while he was employed as a chemist at the du Pont munitions factory in Wilmington, Del.

Their friendship grew, and when Glendenning sailed for England to attend school, the then Miss du Pont was aboard the ship. They were married a short time after reaching London.

The marriage added another chapter to the romantic history of the du Pont family. When adopted by du Pont, Alecia was the daughter of his secretary, George H. Maddox, former Washington attorney. Mrs. Maddox became Mrs. du Pont after divorcing her first husband.

The Glendennings had one son, Alan. When Mrs. Glendenning sought a Reno divorce in 1926 her husband fought to effect a reconciliation "for the sake of their child."

Charging jealousy and cruelty, Mrs. Glendenning finally won her decree and custody of the son. Her husband held the divorce "fraudulent, invalid and worthless."

Glendenning, the son of a Norwalk, Conn., letter carrier, remained in New York to conduct a law practice. His divorced wife traveled extensively and spent much of her time in Washington.

Her marriage yesterday to Mr. Llewellyn came as a surprise to society and their friends both here and abroad.

Mr. Llewellyn is the son of the late George Ernest Llewellyn and Mrs. Llewellyn, of Bryngwran, South Wales. He was educated at Harrow and Sandhurst, and at one time saw service as an officer in the Welsh Guards. He is a nephew of Sir Charles and Lady Wright, of London.

SWIFT ACTION SET IN VETERANS' CASES

(Associated Press.)

A swift accomplishment of the aims of Congress to liberalize the benefits to former soldiers was the aim yesterday of Veterans' Administration officials as they set out to wade through the wide stretch of details before them.

Boards are to be set up to review the records of veterans who are receiving compensation on the presumption that their disability originated in the service. Bureau officials hope that these will be ready early in July.

Under the economy law, the majority of these presumptive cases would have gone off the rolls July 1, but under the liberalization voted last week they stay on the compensation lists until October 31 at 75 per cent of the payments being made on March 20, when the economy law went into effect.

Should the boards decide their cases earlier, the date would be the time at which they would be removed from the rolls or detained permanently. Should cases be pending before the board and not settled on October 31, the President might extend the time in which the veterans could receive payments until a decision was handed down.

The presumptive cases are so-called because the veterans law of 1924 provided that veterans having certain types of diseases at that time, such as tuberculosis and neuro-psychiatric afflictions, were presumed to have incurred them in wartime service. Regulations issued under the economy law nullified most of this provision.

Although yet not positive of what they would do, Veterans Administration officials said they "anticipated these rating boards will be set up in July," and that it would not be necessary for a veteran to ask the board to review his case, but that the board would do it anyway.

Whether boards would be set up in each State, or whether one board would handle several States or a geographic area has not been determined. President Roosevelt is authorized by the law to establish as many boards as he considers necessary, with the stipulation that the majority of board members shall not have been employes of the Veterans Administration.

Funeral services for Col. William H. Clendenin, 60, U. S. A., retired, who died Sunday from a heart attack at his home, Clifton, Paeonian Springs, Loudoun County, Va., will be held today at 11 a. m. from the Fort Myer chapel. Interment will follow in Arlington National Cemetery.

Col. Clendenin, who was active in the Regular Army and the Organized Reserves, retired in 1931. He served with the Eighth Massachusetts Infantry during the Spanish-American War and also in the Forty-sixth, Seventeenth and Twenty-ninth Infantries. During the World War he was a staff officer with the Fourth and Twenty-eighth Divisions in France. After the war he was on detached duty with the Organized Reserves in St. Louis, Mo.

Shortly before his retirement, he was in charge of military training at the Oklahoma A. and M. College. Col. Clendenin is survived by his wife, a son, Edward H. Clendenin, of Cranford, N. J., and a daughter, Mrs. E. C. M. Stahl, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Col. J. M. Field Rites Tomorrow

Funeral services for Col. John M. Field, U. S. A., retired, will be held tomorrow at Fort Myer, followed by interment in Arlington National Cemetery at 2:45 p. m. with full military honors.

Col. Field died yesterday morning at Fort Meade at the home of his daughter and son-in-law, Capt. and Mrs. Herman O. Lane, of the Thirty-fourth Infantry.

Col. Field was born in Toledo, Ohio, and entered the Army as a private in December, 1878. During the War with Spain he was commissioned first lieutenant in the First District of Columbia Infantry and later served with the Puerto Rican Regiment of Infantry, reaching the grade of colonel during the World War. He was retired for age December 8, 1922.

J. B. Jaques Dead; Once With G. P. O.

John B. Jaques, retired employe of the Government Printing Office, died yesterday at Westchester Apartments, where he had been residing with his daughter, Mrs. William C. Fowler, wife of the District health officer.

Mr. Jaques was retired from the printing office in 1922. He was born in New York City June 23, 1850, and moved to Indiana when a young man, coming to Washington in 1895. He was an ardent prohibitionist and engaged in the dry movement in Indiana in the 80's and early 90's.

Mrs. Fowler is the only surviving member of his family of six children. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m., at Hysong's chapel. Burial will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Burial at Arlington For Mrs. Kennedy

Funeral services for Mrs. Marguerite Kennedy, 44, wife of Lieut. Col. John T. Kennedy, U. S. A., who ended her life yesterday because of ill health, will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. in the chapel of Fort Myer, Va. Interment will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

Mrs. Kennedy, the mother of three children, was found beside the gas range at her home, 4484 Greenwich parkway. All jets were open. The body was discovered by her husband, who was awakened by the odor of gas. A certificate of suicide was issued by Acting Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald. A note was left which gave instructions for the disposition of her personal effects.

Besides her husband, she is survived by her children, Marguerite, Kathleen and Elmer Kennedy, all of Washington.

MAJ. MAXWELL KIRBY.

VETERAN FLIER HURT IN LEAP FROM BLAZE

Maj. Maxwell Kirby's Parachute Fails to Open Fully in Descent.

Maj. Maxwell Kirby, formerly on duty in the office of the chief of Air Corps here and at present stationed at Langley Field, Va., as post operations officer, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon when he jumped from a burning airplane near Great Mills, Md., a small settlement 8 miles from Leonardtown. He was en route to Bolling Field here from his home station. Dr. J. B. Dean, of Leonardtown, said that the flier suffered a fractured skull.

When Maj. Kirby leaped from his plane this ship was so close to the ground that his parachute did not have time to open fully. A crowd attracted to the scene of the accident found him unconscious several hundred feet from the wreckage of his ship, which had apparently caught fire in the air.

As soon as Air Corps officials here heard of the crash they dispatched an amphibian airplane to the scene of the accident hoping to bring Maj. Kirby to Walter Reed Hospital. It was found, however, that there was no airport close enough to Leonardtown and the ship returned here. The Bolling Field Hospital ambulance was then sent to the scene and brought Maj. Kirby here last night.

The well known Air Corps officer is a native of Nebraska. He is 46 years old, married and lists Roseville, Calif., as his home. He enlisted in the cavalry, August, 1904, transferring to the aviation section of the Signal Corps in November of 1915.

He trained at various fields in this country and in September, 1918, was attached to the Ninety-fourth Aero Squadron in France, serving there under Col. Eddie Rickenbacker. He was decorated with the Silver Star for bravery in action, bringing down a German balloon unassisted.

He has recently been on duty here and at the University of Illinois at Urbana.

H. W. Slater Dies At Pelham Manor

Harris William Slater, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Isaac C. Slater, died at his home in Pelham Manor, N. Y., yesterday after a brief illness.

Mr. Slater was born here in 1873. After being graduated from Central High School, he took his degree in law from Cornell University.

He practiced law for a short time in New York City and was later associated with the National Machine Co., of Mamaroneck, N. Y. For the last twenty years he has been with the Singer Manufacturing Co. and at the time of his death was a vice president.

Mr. Slater is survived by his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth House Slater, and his son, William House Slater, and his sister, Mrs. William J. Mallory, of this city.

Funeral services will be conducted at his late residence in Pelham Manor tomorrow.

Fairfax Rounds Up Foreign Auto Tags

State and county police are conducting a campaign in Fairfax County, Va., against nonresidents who are staying in the county and operating automobiles without registering with the county clerk as required by the State law.

Saturday 18 persons fell victims to the campaign. They were summoned to appear before Trial Justice Paul E. Brown, who warned those who expect to stay in the county from 30 days to six months to register.

Under the Virginia law any nonresident who expects to operate a car in the State for the period allowed under reciprocity agreements between Virginia and their home State must register with the county clerk, giving their local address. If a person remains in the State longer than the reciprocity period they must obtain Virginia license as of the date they came into the State.

'PRETTY BOY' CALLED KANSAS CITY KILLER

informed by the sheriff that she had identified the Oklahoma outlaw.

Her description of the "man with the machine gun" tallies with that of Floyd in police records, Sheriff Birch said.

Prior to Mrs. West's identification, T. J. Higgins, chief of detectives, expressed doubt that Floyd was involved, although the Oklahoma gunman released Killingsworth and Walter Griffith, of Clinton, near Lees Summit, 20 miles from Kansas City, Friday night.

While Federal, State and city officers conducted a grim search for the slayers of Nash, Chief Reed, Raymond J. Caffrey, Federal agent, William J. Grooms and Frank Hermanson, city detectives, two armed robbers carried out a $5,000 holdup on a busy downtown street corner today.

They kidnaped W. H. Duncan and G. C. Ginnis, comanagers of an amusement park, boarded their automobile in front of a bank, robbed them and released them a dozen blocks away.

GOLD HOARD TESTS ABOUT TO BE MADE

Justice Department Intends to Make Example of at Least One.

(Associated Press.)

Refusal of 183 persons to return $1,148,945 of gold and gold certificates to the Government yesterday gave rise to indication that the Department of Justice shortly would begin prosecution of one or more of them.

The department announced that its agents, in interviewing persons known to have withdrawn gold prior to the Nation-wide bank holiday of last March, had found nearly 200 who had turned down a formal request to turn in the metal.

Previously Attorney General Cummings had stated that in contacting persons suspected of hoarding gold his agents were directed first to call their attention to the law requiring the metal to be turned over to the government and then to ask that the law be obeyed. He declared that when the time came to prosecute he did not want the person charged with gold hoarding to claim ignorance of the law.

Example to Be Made.

Although there was no official statement yesterday that prosecution of the hoarders was imminent, Cummings and Secretary Woodin previously had said an example would be made of persons deliberately holding gold to the harm of their country.

The statement by the department yesterday said that 3,011 persons had been interviewed and 160 of them had returned $285,894 of gold or gold certificates at the request of the Federal agents.

It added that 2,868 persons reported they had returned $19,591,467 of gold since the President barred its use as currency in this country.

The agents have verified the return of $14,838,408 by 1,763 persons, but have not completed checking the stories told by 905 persons who are supposed to have held back $4,753,063.

$850,000,000 Returned.

Since the President began his drive last March to force all of the gold of the country into the Treasury where it could serve as a base for two and a half times as much currency, a total of $850,000,000 in gold has been returned. On last Wednesday the Federal Reserve banks of the Nation held $3,532,790,000.

While exact figures were not available yesterday as to how much gold actually was held in this country, the total supply was figured at $4,318,000,000. In all, the Treasury knows the whereabouts of approximately $3,775,000,000 in gold, leaving approximately $543,000,000 unaccounted for. Some of this, officials say, has been taken out of the country and the Department of Justice agents are busy tracing the remainder of it.

10 PER CENT CIVILIAN CUT DUE IN WAR UNIT

in the President's $25,000,000 reorganization program.

This indicated definite intention to go ahead with the agricultural extension cut, despite the tacit understanding in the Senate that the President would accede to its objections to the reduction being made at this time. It was pointed out that the Interior Department must make the decision affecting vocational education and land grant colleges, also involved in the cut.

About 50 offices of the Agriculture Department's market news service must be closed by June 30, under the $15,000,000 economy program announced yesterday by Secretary Wallace. This involves dismissal of 400 employes, some 100 of whom work in Washington.

400 Who Live in Washington.

Agriculture Department Bureau chiefs will be called together today with the department's budget officer to discuss how the proposed saving will be spread. Dismissal of some workers and the furloughing of others in rotation is known to be under consideration.

Meanwhile departmental officials were variously interpreting the statement by Postmaster General Farley that President Roosevelt soon will issue a general order for furlough of Government employes.

Some executives, while favoring the rotative furloughing of workers, said they did not see how the lay-offs could be distributed uniformly in all of the departments and in the field.

If the War Department definitely decides to dismiss 10 per cent of its civilian personnel, in line with plans for absorbing the $50,000,000 slash in that department, it would mean release of 5,000 workers, about 400 of whom live in Washington.

District Personnel Board In Night Parley on Cuts

The District personnel board at a 3¼-hour session last night threshed out all the major problems of the economy act as it relates to the municipal government and paved the way for the submission of recommendations to the Commissioners via the board.

Auditor Daniel J. Donovan, chairman of the board, said that all general questions relating to rotative furloughs, the 30-year involuntary retirement provision, the application of the marriage clause, and the dismissal of employes on efficiency or disability grounds were discussed.

No details as to the amount of furloughs which will be necessary in the several departments will be revealed until the departmental reports are made. This will be done before July 1, however, Maj. Donovan said.

Representatives of all the District departments were present at last night's meeting. Practically all departments will need to apply administrative furloughs, and many will refrain from filling vacancies.

Only three departments will make any large-scale dismissals. These are the municipal architect's office, the building inspector's office and the department of vehicles and traffic. There probably will be a scattering of dismissals in other departments.

It was revealed last night that Howard Baker, director of construction, may defer the dismissal of about half of the municipal architect's office until the first of the calendar year instead of releasing them July 1.

DR. BROWN AGREES TO RUN IN ARLINGTON

Mass Meetings to Be Held Tomorrow Night to Pick Delegates.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 309. Clarendon, Va.

Dr. William Mosley Brown, who carried Arlington County as the Republican standard bearer against Gov. John Garland Pollard in the 1929 campaign, has agreed to become a candidate for the House of Delegates, it was announced yesterday by County Republican Chairman L. C. MacPherson. Party leaders predict that he will be the unanimous choice of the county convention when it meets in Lyon Park Thursday night.

With Brown in the race it becomes a three-cornered affair, with William D. Medley, the Democratic nominee, and John Locke Green, the independent candidate, running.

Tomorrow night there will be mass meetings in each of the eleven voting precincts to name delegates to the county convention which meets Thursday night at the Lyon Park Community House at 8 o'clock.

There will be 112 delegates named from the eleven precincts as follows: Arlington, 15; Balston, 11; Carne, 10; Cherrydale, 13; Clarendon, No. 1, 10; Clarendon, No. 2, 16; East Falls Church, 5; Glencarlyn, 3; Lyon Park, 12; Rosslyn, 7, and Virginia Highlands, 10.

The mass meetings will be held at the following places: Arlington, the firehouse; Balliston, E. C. Howell's store; Carne, Ruby Lee Minar's real estate office; Cherrydale, J. R. McCormick's store; Clarendon, No. 1, G. W. Clever's real estate office; Clarendon, No. 2, Spaulding Building; East Falls Church, A. A. Anderson's hall; Lyon Park, Community House; Rosslyn, 1509 Wilson boulevard; Virginia Highlands, Firemen's hall, and Glencarlyn, Library Building.

Joseph Harriman Trial Is Once More Deferred

New York, June 19 (A.P.).—Trial of Joseph W. Harriman, former head of the Harriman National Bank & Trust Co., and Albert M. Austin, former vice president of the bank, was postponed today by Federal Judge William Bondy until next Monday.

Harriman was accused of making or causing to be made false entries in the accounts of depositors of the bank totaling $1,700,000, and Austin was accused of aiding and abetting in those alleged transactions.

GERMAN DELEGATES QUIT LABOR PARLEY

Alleged Insult to Nations of Latin America Is Seen Back of Withdrawal.

Geneva, June 19 (A.P.).—The German delegation withdrew today from the international labor conference in session here because of criticism directed against Robert Ley, German Workers' delegate and trade union commissioner in the Hitler government.

The action was taken particularly in view of a declaration last week by the workers' group at the conference describing an alleged utterance by Dr. Ley as insulting to Latin-American countries.

Previously, German worker delegates were refused admission to a meeting of the workers' delegations on the ground that they represented the Nazi regime, and Ley was quoted as saying it was absurd that smaller nations such as Cuba, Uruguay and Bolivia should have the same rights at the parley as Germany and Italy.

Giuseppe di Michelis, president of the conference, said he hoped to induce the Garmans to cancel their withdrawal at a later time.

In bolting, Germany said she would not come back until satisfaction and justice were given.

LOUISIANA MEMBER OF CONGRESS DIES

Bolivar E. Kemp, Crusader for Flood Control, Is Heart-Attack Victim.

Amite, La., June 19 (A.P.).—Bolivar Edwards Kemp, of Amite, who represented the Sixth Louisiana District in Congress for the last eight years, died suddenly at his home here today shortly after returning from Washington. He was 60 years old.

Mr. Kemp came home from the arduous special session complaining of feeling badly, but had not been considered seriously ill. He suffered a heart attack at 7 a. m., which proved fatal.

His brother, William B. Kemp, 51, prominent southeast Louisiana attorney, died similarly here three weeks ago.

Mr. Kemp, representing the District which included Baton Rouge, the State capitol, played a prominent role in securing flood-control legislation for the Mississippi Valley. He was a Democrat.

He was a native of Amite, was educated in private schools and at Louisiana State and Tulane Universities, and practiced law here for many years. He became a supervisor of Louisiana State University in 1910 and continued to hold the position at the time of his death.

Mr. Kemp is survived by his wife, the former Esther Edwards Conner, and two children, Bolivar, jr., and Eleanor Ogden.

REGISTRATION OPENS FOR RURAL COURSES

Demonstrations Begin Today In Classes for Women at University of Maryland.

The annual rural women's short course was begun yesterday at the University of Maryland, with the registration of large delegations of women from every county in the State except one. Prince Georges County was represented by nine delegates and Montgomery County by fifteen delegates.

Before the closing of registration this morning at least 500 delegates are expected to be enrolled. Approximately 100 more will attend part of the classes and other events, according to Miss Venia M. Kellar, State home demonstration agent in charge of the course.

The delegation from Allegany County was acclaimed the largest group yesterday, with a total of 62 women. Carroll County was second, with 39, and Baltimore County third, with 35 delegates.

Dr. Symons to Speak.

An informal reception was held on the campus last night. The regular schedule of demonstrations and lectures will begin this morning. A wide range of subjects, mostly pertaining to various phases of home making and rural life, will be featured in the course, which will last throughout the week.

The General Assembly, this morning at 11 o'clock, will be addressed by Dr. Thomas B. Symons, director of the University of Maryland extension service, which is sponsoring the course.

Pearsons Receive Tonight.

Among the other speakers on today's program will be J. A. Evans, associate chief of extension work, Department of Agriculture; Dr. Valeria H. Parker, American Social Hygiene Association; Miss Lavinia Engle, Maryland League of Women Voters; Mrs. Rowena Schmidt Carpenter, Miss Florence Hall, Mrs. Fanny Yeatman, Department of Agriculture; E. J. Murphy, and Miss Beth Palmer, University of West Virginia.

A reception for the women will be held tonight by Dr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Pearson, president of the university, followed by a concert by the Choral Club, of Aberdeen, Md.

15 Drivers Forfeit Bonds at Laurel

The Laurel, Md., Police Court was busy yesterday hearing cases concerning traffic violations by motorists on the Baltimore boulevard during the week-end. A total of 15 drivers forfeited collateral, while 3 cases were dismissed.

Among the motorists forfeiting collateral were Mortmore Irving Kaplan, Hartford, Conn., and William Wallace, of Philadelphia. Each paid $26.45 for speeding. Joseph Ballhausen, of New York, failed to appear in court to answer charges of driving without operator's license and registration card and speeding. A collateral of $40.85 was forfeited.

J. M. Rosenbury, Peoria, Ill., and Louis Egli, Plant City, Fla., were not present to answer charges of speeding, for which they had posted $26.45 collateral. Joshua Bird, Kilmarnock, Va., forfeited collateral for speeding and no registration card, while J. H. Bernstein, Petersburg, Va., who failed to keep to the right of road, was not present to contest the charge, for which he had posted $11.45.

Boy, 17, Drowned While Retrieving Ball in River

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., June 19.—In an effort to retrieve a ball that had been thrown into the water, Vernon Albert Bare, 17-year-old high school boy, got beyond his depth and was drowned in the Monocacy River near Buckeystown yesterday. The lad and several friends had been bathing in the stream.

Searchers in boats with grappling hooks recovered the body an hour after the accident. The drowning occurred near the spot where Miss Elizabeth Krantz, of this city, and Miss Elizabeth Ball, of Buckeystown, lost their lives while bathing several years ago. Miss Ball went to the rescue of Miss Krantz and both were drowned.

Baby, 2 Months Old, Found in Severn River

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., June 19.—Police officials of Annapolis and Anne Arundel County are investigating circumstances surrounding the death of a baby girl, about 2 months old, whose body was found in a suitcase, floating in the Severn River, off the Naval Academy power house. Charles Jones, an employe of the power house, retrieved it and notified authorities.

Dr. Joseph C. Joyce, city health officer, said it had been in the water about three weeks.

Victims of Closed Banks Will Get Relief on Taxes

(Associated Press.)

Persons whose funds are tied up in closed banks will be given an extension of time in making their income tax payments when they become due if they present evidence of their plight to the Internal Revenue Bureau.

Guy T. Helvering, commissioner of internal revenue, said yesterday that in a number of cases tax-payers had filed their returns last March, giving a check on a bank which, because of the bank holiday and restrictions placed upon withdrawals of deposits, had been returned not honored.

In such cases an extension will be granted before the due date of the next instalment.

THE FEDERAL DIARY

By GEORGE D. RILEY

SIXTY days ago—to be accurate, April 18—the Federal Diary stated that "on the basis that three million dollars a day collections can be sustained from yesterday (April 18) until June 30, when the fiscal year ends, Uncle Sam's pocketbook should be richer by approximately $210,000,000."

Treasury figures covering the period from July 1, 1932, to June 8, 1933, lately released, report miscellaneous revenue returns to be $300,000,000 ahead of the same period last year. So gross a miscalculation as $90,000,000 would ordinarily invoke censure, but this "error" is accepted gracefully by this column as it strengthens the position then assumed that, if the Federal Treasury shared increased revenue receipts, Uncle Samuel would "in true philanthropic spirit" share "a part of this increased bounty with his public servants who have been long faithful to their assigned tasks."

The new conditions lay a foundation for real hope, definite and conclusive. In addition, Ernest A. Tupper, chief of the Economic Research Division of the Department of Commerce, says, as of recent date, "workers' pay must catch up with commodities." These factors alone are vocal. They speak louder than words; they are strong in appeal. While they are vital of themselves—other conditions stand forth as conciliatory—adding to the weight of valid reason for lifting the 15 per cent salary decrease. What do we find by glancing at the industrial horizon—brighter skies for employment; the general wage scale advancing in stages and the morale of the citizenry lifted.

THE future for the Federal employe, however, is beclouded by wonderment. What will tomorrow and each other tomorrow bring forth? The depth of human despair has been plumbed. The idea is often bandied—the Federal employe is overpaid. This statement might be permitted to stand unchallenged if it were not for the fact that when wages in all other lines of employment climbed to new high peaks, his status remained practically stationary—fixed. He was allowed to work through the high-cycle period at substantially the old-wage scale. He adjusted his domestic and business affairs to meet these supposed stable conditions—running expenses; committed insurance premiums; and house buying plans.

Then a benevolent Congress decided to add to the dilemma of the Government employe; to scramble the well-set plans. The sense of security, rightfully his by well-rendered service, was wrecked overnight. Fear was encouraged by daily happenings to stalk outside the door of his home. Restful sleep was not reckoned to be a rightful privilege. Work was reduced, over the subsequent period, to be just days of drudgery.

The day of the flaunted "new deal" is nigh at hand. Will the Federal employe be dealt the right deal in the form of a salary restoration, so that all committed obligations may be met, or will he be handed the cold deal? Let's lay the cards on the table and play the big game manfully. The best interests of politics should give way to more humanitarian acts—the best interests of the Federal working masses.

Tonight at 8 the Federal Bridge League will award the season's trophies. Miss Gertrude McNally, national secretary, N. F. F. E., will do the honors. Phychems, Standards, winners of the first half and playoff, will receive the big cup. Engineers, Standards, winners of the second half and runner-up in the playoff, will receive a cup. The ceremony will be at the Federal Clubhouse, 1515 Sixteenth street northwest.

The winning players, Phychems, are J. R. Branham, S. F. Pickering, R. C. Booker, H. T. Wensel (also league president), and W. G. Brombacher. The five men rotate to compose the four-man team. Capt. George C. Hill, Samuel J. Rosenberg, Bole and Buswell compose the runner-up team.

The league is beginning a new tournament open to pairs, the only requirement for entrance being that one of the two players must be in Government service.

Following their Departmental League engagement tonight with Bureau of Investigation, the Federal Employe Unionists will hold an important meeting at the offices of the Federal News, 10 B street southwest, tomorrow night. The ball players will discuss their dance this Saturday night at Indian Spring, at which Pitcher Jack McCalley plans to stage a "chalk talk" exhibition of cartooning.

Tonight at 8 in the main rooms of the Federal Clubhouse, 1515 Sixteenth street northwest, the Federal Bridge League will hold its scheduled duplicate contract bridge tournament for Government workers and their friends or relatives. The affair is under the auspices of the Federal News, and those still wishing to slip under the competitive wire are urged to be on hand promptly at starting time. Following the action, trophies emblematic of the league's first annual championship campaign, donated by the National Federation of Federal Employes, will be presented to the Bureau of Standards Phychems by President Isaac York.

In announcing dismissal July 1 of 200 employes in the Prohibition Bureau in New York State, Administrator Andrew McCampbell says the reduction "will not affect the enforcement of prohibition." If he is quoted correctly, that either is a reflection on the efforts to enforce the drouth siege or some one is being kidded. Two hundred fewer employes and $1,150,000 less fund for enforcement, yet enforcement will not be affected.

That sounds like some statements we've heard in Washington about the millions to be saved the taxpayers, yet the "no-dismissal" rule will be in effect—that no one will lose his job.

MRS. M'MATH TELLS STORY OF KIDNAPING

Mother of Two Men Charged With Crime Has to Leave Room.

Barnstable, June 19 (A.P.).—Mrs. Neil C. McMath told the story of her daughter's kidnaping in a Barnstable Superior Court today as the mother of two men charged with the crime weakened under the recital and was led from the courtroom on the arms of two deputies.

Mrs. McMath reviewed the incidents of the case from the time she learned that her daughter, Margaret ("Peggy") McMath, had been whisked away from the Harwich Center School by a "black man," through the eventful night of the inquisition aboard the Coast Guard ship at Woods Hole, which resulted in the arrest of Kenneth and Cyril Buck. As she drew to the conclusion of her testimony, Mrs. Buck, who sat in the courtroom every day since the trial began, wavered in her seat. Her face became ashen as the two deputies, sensing her plight, assisted her from the room.

The Buck brothers are on trial for the kidnaping of the 10-year-old girl. She was abducted on May 2 and returned three days later after $60,000 ransom had been paid. The money later was recovered in Kenneth's home.

HARVARD PROFESSOR QUITS IN GOLD SPLIT

Dr. Dewing Resents Dispute Over His Withdrawal of $30,000.

Cambridge, Mass., June 19 (A.P.). Arthur Stone Dewing, Ph. D., professor of finance at Harvard's School of Business Administration, and internationally-known authority on corporation practice, has resigned, he announced today, after a personal difference with Dean Wallace B. Donham over withdrawal of some $30,000 in gold from a local bank last March.

The resignation, Dewing said, was submitted in March and accepted by the Harvard Corporation on May 8. Dewing declared Donham's "interference with his personal affairs" was the culmination of many differences with the head of the school over teaching methods. He characterized Donham's rule as "dictatorial."

Donham, from his summer home in Chatham, denied he had asked for Dewing's resignation, which, he said, was voluntarily submitted to the corporation. "Our faculty is made up of full-time teachers," he said. "While all of our men are free to do consulting work, when consulting work becomes of major importance and there is a conflict between it and teaching, they usually choose between the two. Prof. Dewing resigned voluntarily."

Director of Corporations.

Dewing is a director of a number of important corporations and operator in recent years of more than a score of New England utility companies, one of them the Chatham Water Co. of Chatham, Mass.

"Early this year," he said, "the Chatham company, of which I am president, was urged by the local selectmen to build a substantial extension to its pipe line. The expense, we felt, was not justified by immediate revenues, but when it was represented that by undertaking the work we could give employment to a number of men, who were then recipients of welfare, we did some close figuring and decided to start the job.

"I personally solicited bids for the pipe to be used with, the understanding we would pay cash. Only by obtaining low bids did we feel we could afford to spend the money.

"Workmen to be Considered."

"When the Detroit bank situation broke, I believed that ultimately all banks would close. Much of the money payable on the pipe contract would be falling due and there were the wages of the local workmen to be considered.

"As a result, I withdrew slightly more than $30,000 from the Cambridge Bank in which the company had its funds and held the gold for a day or two when the situation seemed better and I returned it. It was not my money but the company's. I withdrew none of my own funds."

Dewing declined to discuss the question of how Donham learned of the transaction. "I prefer to allow others to draw their inferences," he said.

Alumni Are Indignant.

As to Donham's assertion that professors were not expected to be preoccupied with other affairs, Dewing pointed out that his corporate connections had been well known for years and that they were matters of public record in all standard reference books.

Prominent alumni of the school, many of whom studied the intricacies of finance under the tall, black-bearded Dewing, whose classroom manner was as distinctive as his appearance, expressed indignation at the episode.

One prominent member of the alumni association, who declined to allow his name to be published, asserted the resignation had been presented at Donham's insistence and was a tentative one. He said it was written with the explicit understanding it should not be given to the corporation unless the withdrawal by Dewing of $30,000 in gold a few days before the bank holiday became generally known and resulted in publicity detrimental to the school.

The dean specifically asserted, however, that the resignation was in no sense a tentative one. He declared that the gold transaction had nothing to do with the professor's withdrawal.

Bates President Of Monday Club

Sanford Bates, director of the Bureau of Prisons of the Department of Justice, was elected president of the Monday Evening Club at its annual picnic meeting yesterday at Holiday House on the Mount Vernon Memorial boulevard. He succeeds Leifur Magnusson.

Other officers named were L. A. Herbert, first vice president; Dr. Russell J. Clinchy, second vice president; Miss Mary P. Allen, treasurer; Ray H. Everett, recording secretary, and Miss Mildred Terrett, corresponding secretary.

The following were named to the executive board: Miss Katherine Lenroot, Isador Lubin, Mrs. Elizabeth K. Peeples, Mrs. Alice C. Sheldon and Walter S. Ufford. Reports of committees were heard and a program of social welfare for the District adopted.

Is Recorded in Fire Annals as Microscopic Blaze Is Seen Afar.

Exhibit A. An awning.

Exhibit B. A hole in the awning slightly more than the off-the-gold standard quarter.

The two exhibits were found after a lengthy search by Fire Department representatives and T. C Willis, manager of the Munsey Building.

The episode occurred yesterday when some far-visioned person in the Willard Hotel espied a thin trickle of smoke rising from the Munsey Building. A call to the Fire Department brought several engines.

Startled employes in the building were unable to direct the firemen to the scene of the blaze. "Where's the fire," employes asked and then T. C. Willis, manager of the building came upon the scene. He directed them to the sixth floor and there in the offices of the Atlantic Bitulithic Co., the firemen found the almost microscopic evidence of a blaze in the awning which was so evident from the Willard Hotel.

KEY MEN APPOINTED FOR RECOVERY DRIVE

(Associated Press.)

Dudley Cates, a Chicago insurance executive, and Edward F. McGrady, legislative representative of the American Federation of Labor, yesterday were appointed by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, head of the national recovery administration, as assistant administrators for industry and labor, respectively.

In his first official statement since taking office last week, Gen. Johnson named as key men in his organization a long list prominent in industry and labor. These included six deputy administrators to conduct investigations and hold hearings on the codes of fair competition to be presented by industry.

Donald R. Richberk, of Chicago, attorney for the Association of Railway Labor Executives, was appointed chief counsel; Dr. Leo Wolman, nationally known economist and professor at Columbia University, chairman of the labor advisory board; and Dr. Alexander Sachs, economist and a director of the Lehman Corporation, of New York, chief of the research and planning division provided for by Congress.

Industry Advise Board.

Members of an industrial advisory board, selected by Secretary Roper, of the Commerce Department, were Alfred P. Sloan, jr., of General Motors; Walter C. Teagle, of Standard Oil; Gerard Swope, of General Electric; William J. Vereen, of Moultrie, Ga., cotton manufacturer; Austin Finch, of Thomasville, N. C., furniture manufacturer; Edward N. Hurley, Chicago manufacturer, and former chairman of the Shipping Board, and Louis Kirstein, Boston industrialist.

Members of the labor advisory board named by Secretary Frances Perkins, of the Labor Department, were John Fray, of the metal trades department of the Federation of Labor; Joseph Franklin, president of the International Boilermakers Union; William Green, president of the Federation of Labor; Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers; Father Francis Haas, of the Catholic Welfare Council, and Rose Schneiderman, secretary of the Woman's Trades Union League.

Consumers' Board.

A third board, to be known as the consumers' advisory board, to represent the buying public, is yet to be named.

The six deputy administrators to conduct hearings and investigations in connection with applications for approval of "codes of fair competition" are:

W. L. Allen, of New York, consulting metallurgist and former steel manufacturer; Prof. Earl D. Howard, of Northwestern University and expert on labor relations in the clothing industry; Arthur D. Whiteside, president of Dun and Bradstreet; C. C. Williams, major general, retired, and chief of ordnance during the World War; K. M. Simpson, of New York, consulting engineer and metallurgist, and Nelson Slater, New England cotton and rayon manufacturer.

Function of Deputies.

"The function of the deputy administrators," Johnson said, "will be to assist in the conduct of the hearings which all of the units in an industry—employes and workers, both organized and unorganized—will be heard on any proposed code of fair competition to govern the industry. The code will fix minimum wages, maximum hours of work and prescribe regulations designed to eliminate unfair practices of every kind.

"No deputy administrator will be assigned to preside over a particular industry and none will participate in the hearing on the code of any industry in which he has any interest.

"Each deputy administrator will be counselled during the preliminary investigations and subsequent hearings by industrial, labor and consumer advisers who will be named by their respective boards and chosen, in the cases of the labor and industrial advisers, because of their outstanding reputation in the affected industry.

"A code having been agreed upon, it will be submitted by the administrator to the President for approval. When finally approved by the President, the code will be in the nature of the 'law merchant' for the industry."

Two More Kentucky Colonels.

Frankfort, Ky., June 19 (A.P.).—Gov. Ruby Laffoon awarded colonels' commissions today to O. E. T. Shonfeld, of Mount Kisco, N. Y., and George A. Wightman, of New Haven, Conn., who are conducting a good will tour for the Elks Lodge. They plan to complete their tour at the Elks' national convention in Milwaukee July 17-20.

Secretary Dern Heads Government in Capital

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Woodin is in New York.

ROADS AND SHIPS TO PUSH RECOVERY

will go to the Chief Executive for approval.

A committee of three, listed as representing mills owning over two-thirds of the cotton spindles and looms in the United States, submitted the textile industry's code to Johnson. Those presenting it were George A. Sloan, president of the Cotton Textile Institute, Inc., New York; T. M. Marchant, Greenville, S. C., president of the American Cotton Manufacturers Association, and Ernest M. Hood, Salem, Mass., president of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers.

In drawing up the code of minimum wages and maximum hours, all employes were included with the exception of apprentices, cleaners and outside employes.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt disclosed yesterday that bids would be opened on July 26 for seventeen new ships to be built at private shipyards. In addition, bids on four more destroyers will be opened nearly three weeks earlier, on July 6.

Building Next Month.

At about the same time, Donald H. Sawyer, administrator of public works under the national recovery act, and his Cabinet Advisory Committee, went forward with their efforts to get the first of new construction under way next month.

The committee, headed by Secretary Ickes, drafted tentative details of policy at a meeting yesterday, and the Interior Secretary said "as soon as we can get our organization set up we will begin turning loose the public works money."

Delegation after delegation called upon Sawyer to present proposed projects from cities, counties and States to be financed under the authorization for the Government to grant 30 per cent of the cost of labor and materials.

Among these was a proposal by Ohio's adjutant general of a $400,000,000 program in that State, the first complete State plan to be formally laid before the administration.

The naval construction program outlined under the $3,300,000,000 public works allotment includes 32 ships, of which 16 will go to private shipyards. Open to private bidding also will be one cruiser previously authorized by law.

Under the program announced for 32 ships within the next three years, private contractors will get the two aircraft carriers and the four light cruisers. They will receive eleven of twenty new destoyers, leaving nine of 1,500 tons to be constructed in navy yards, and in addition will be alloted half of the submarine construction, leaving two for navy yards. The Navy itself also will build two gunboats of 2,000 tons each.

While the public works program was being forwarded, Hugh S. Johnson, industrial administrator, made a sudden trip late yesterday to New York on an undisclosed mission. He intended to return during the night to be at his desk today.

Two Competition Codes.

In Chicago codes setting up new standards of competition under the national recovery act were being formulated by two lines of business—the American Fruit and Vegetable Shippers Association and the Motor Equipment Wholesalers Association.

In outlining the endeavors of the Cabinet public works advisory committee, Secretary Ickes said a public works administrator was planned for each State. This administrator would be aided by an advisory board which would certify to the national public works organization projects they approved, after which the national organization would pass upon these projects.

The board yesterday set up two subcommittees to report back tomorrow, one composed of Assistant Secretary Dickinson, of Commerce, and Assistant Secretary Tugwell, of Agriculture, to prepare a statement of policy.

Another subcommittee composed of Assistant Secretary Roberts, of the Treasury; Solicitor General Biggs, a representative of the Budget Bureau, and Col. George Spalding, one of the Public Works Administration officials, was set up to report on interest rates [illegible]

HIGH SCHOOL RITES ARE PUT UNDER WAY

Exercises at Langley Junior Start Parade; Seniors Cover Two Nights.

Miss Verna Volz, a former graduate of the school, and now doing post-graduate work at McKinley High School, addressed the young graduates. Jere J. Crane, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of business affairs, presented the diplomas.

W. Raymond Wannall, president of the class, gave the address of welcome, while Dorothy L. Kemp, recording secretary, read the class record. Mariana Brumbaugh and Julia Bon Durant were the valedictorians. J. Walter Ford presented the class gift.

The invocation and benediction were given by Henry Whiting, a student at the Lutheran Theological Seminary. Members of the senior class presented an entertainment program. A complete list of the graduates appeared in the Sunday issue of The Post.

Editor Will Speak.

Roosevelt and McKinley High Schools will have their exercises tonight. James E. West, chief scout executive and editor of Boys Life, will address the class at Roosevelt, the first to be graduated in the new school at Thirteenth and Allison streets northwest. The diplomas will be presented by Mrs. Juliet Strahorn, court reporter at Annapolis and a graduate of Business High School, which is now Roosevelt.

A class of 500 graduates at McKinley High School will wear caps and gowns for the first time in the history of the school. Harry O. Hine, secreary of the Board of Education, will preside at the exercises. In place of a baccalaureate address the students will present a program.

Central and Eastern Tomorrow.

The Eliot, Macfarland and Hine Junior High Schools will hold exercises at 2 p. m. today, and the Jefferson Junior High at 8 p. m. Western High School's program will take place at 4:30 p. m. tomorrow, while Central and Eastern High Schools will have theirs tomorrow night. A three-year class of Eastern will be graduated at 2 p. m. today.

The Deal Junior High School will have exercises at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow, and Gordon, Paul, Powell and Stuart at 2 p. m.

Capital Woman Gets Part of $41,374 Estate

New York, June 19 (A.P.).—Dr. Edward F. Concklin, who died December 22, 1931, left a net estate of $41,374, it was shown in a transfer tax appraisal filed today.

The estate is divided among two sisters, Alice C. Snyder, of San Juan, Puerto Rico, and Amy C. McKenney, of Washington, D. C., and a brother, Arthur W. Concklin, of Cristobal, Panama.

Voliva Zion Industries In Full Receivership

Chicago, June 19 (A.P.).—A permanent receiver for Zion industries, the business end of Wilbur Glenn Voliva's religious colony in northern Illinois, was appointed today by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

The receiver, who will manage Zion Institution, is Fred E. Hummel, temporary receiver since creditors asked the court to take over the colony's temporal affairs. Judge Wilkerson delayed action on appointing a co-receiver, after an attorney for some of Zion's creditors had protested the candidate, Ralph R. Pihl, was under Voliva's domination.

GRADUATION IS HELD AT ARMSTRONG HIGH

Charles B. Bailey Prize Is Given to Donald Webb and Gabrielle Davis.

The thirty-second commencement exercises of the Armstrong High School were held last night in the school auditorium, diplomas being presented to 143 graduates by Mrs. M. A. McNeill, member of the Board of Education, who presided. The invocation and benediction were said by the Rev. William O. Carrington. Dr. Allen A. Stockdale, pastor of the First Congregational Church, made the principal address.

In speaking of current slang phraseology of the day, he called attention to the philosophy of life implied in the expression "Getting by," answering it with another current expression, "It can't be done."

As a contrast to this philosophy, he urged upon the graduates a philosophy of work and sacrifice, and sustained energy that knows the consciousness of defeat in order that it may come to the day when it may know victory.

Many Receive Awards.

Garnet C. Wilkinson, assistant superintendent of schools, announced the distribution of the class as follows: To vocations direct, 49; to Howard University, 21; Miner Teachers College, 34; Hampton Institute, 16; Lincoln Hospital, 3; Virginia State College, 2; West Virginia State, 2; Fisk University, 2; Freedmen's Hospital, 2, and 1 each to Bennet College, Clark University, Eckel's Embalming Institute, Mercy Hospital, Morgan College, Ohio State University, Pratt Institute, Sergeant School, Storer College, Tuskegee Institute.

The Charles B. Bailey prize for achievement in manual training was awarded Gabrielle Davis and Donald Webb. Joseph Hager was awarded the James E. Walker medal for athletics, scholarship and deportment. Amanda Bowman was named as valedictorian, Laurette Butler as salutatorian and Hazel Proctor as oratorical contest winner.

Harry Kaiser received special mention as inventor of an "eel grip" for fishermen. Frank Braxton and William Rogers were cited as having made their shoes for commencement. Musical numbers were furnished by the All-High School Orchestra under direction of Henry Lee Grant.

Woodring Explains Forestry Benefit

Describing the benefits to the unemployed of the Civilian Conservation Corps, Harry H. Woodring, Assistant Secretary of War, told members of the Women's Democratic Education Council, in an outdoor session at Hains Point last night, that the younger officers of the Army engaged in the conservation work would gain experience in leadership.

The manner in which the reforestation program is being carried on speaks well for the efficiency of our military establishments and personnel, he stated.

He explained the distribution of the regular Army members in this country and its possessions and stated that such a force could not possibly constitute a menace to the peace of the world.

Mrs. Grattan Kerans, president of the women's council, presided at the meeting. Mrs. Lester J. Pollock headed the committee on arrangements.

38 Notre Dame Youths Sing At Loew's Fox to Pay Tuition

They had, however, one asset which might be converted into funds to pay tuition for the next year. That is their collective singing ability.

So, rather than have the students discontinue their college work, the Notre Dame officials relaxed a stringent rule against commercialization of the school name and permitted the singers to sign a Loew contract for a ten-week tour.

Now, the Glee Club members may look forward to at least another year at Notre Dame. They are under the discipline of Father Patrick Dolan and each of them is required to retire each midnight.

"But even at that," said John Ryan, tenor soloist, "it's a break. Out at school all lights are out at 10 o'clock."

With the Glee Club are Lukats and Krause, two of the football stars of the university. Tom O'Brien is managing the sour[illegible]

Mitchell Counsel Summarizes Case

Jury May Retire Tomorrow; Steuer Defends Deals as Wholly Legal.

New York, June 19 (A.P.).—The legality of stock sales to record losses in income tax returns was defended by Max D. Steuer today in summing up for the defense in the trial of Charles E. Mitchell, former head of the National City Bank, charged with income tax evasion.

Mitchell is accused of defrauding the Government of more than $850,000 in income taxes through what the Government contends were fake sales of National City Bank stock to his wife and W. D. Thornton, president of the Greene-Cananea Copper Co.

Denying that Mitchell in buying 18,300 shares of National City Bank stock in 1929 was guilty of "the sordid motives" which he said the Government had attributed to him, Steuer said:

"There isn't anybody who can so read the law as to say that, no matter how a man may acquire stock, he may not sell it to record a loss on his income tax return, provided there is an actual sale and an actual loss."

Indications were the case will go to the jury on Wednesday, with U. S. Attorney George Z. Medalie summing up for the Government tomorow. The trial has been in progress more than a month.

Montana Sheepherder Dies in Saving Flock

Livingston, Mont., June 19 (A.P.).—To the lore of Montana's sheep camps there was added today the story of Eli Sufano, who died to save his flock.

Former Sheriff Clarence Gilbert, whose car killed the 40-year-old herdsman last night, reported that Sufano leaped directly into the path of the speeding car to warn the driver that the sheep were crossing the highway. No sheep was injured.

CIVIL SERVICE FLOUTED.

A vigorous protest against the selection of new Federal employes through political preference is contained in the annual report of the National Civil Service Reform League. The league fears that the merit system of choosing Government workers is being undermined. "Not since Grover Cleveland's administration," says the report, "has the merit system had to face a serious challenge to its existence as it faces now upon the latest change of administration."

Several thousand Government employes will be dismissed through the consolidation of bureaus, the elimination of functions and general retrenchment. These men and women, for the most part, have proved their efficiency and loyalty to the Government. Arrangements might have been made for their transfer to the new agencies that will administer the Roosevelt recovery program, so far as their experience and training meet the requirements of these agencies. But Congress rejected that plan. While large groups of capable employes are being dismissed on one hand, hundreds of new jobs are being created under the spoils system, on the other.

It is this situation which has brought sharp criticism from the Civil Service League, as from other friends of the merit system. After calling attention to the numerous agencies set up by the last Congress, the league's report says:

> The new administration has turned its back upon the only method of safeguarding these new agencies from maladministration. Without a single exception these new agencies thus created have been thrown open to the political spoilsmen to do with as they see fit. The excuse given when objection has been made to exemption from the civil service tests has been that these agencies are a part of the emergency program and that they may be temporary in character. A more specious excuse could not be devised to hoodwink the public. * * * It would be tragic if the recovery program were to be defeated or impeded by the clamor for spoils of office.

In the final analysis the responsibility for putting the recovery program into operation rests with the personnel selected to administer the various acts. It is of the utmost importance that a competent group of men and women be chosen to carry out the details of the work as well as to formulate the general policies.

MINIMUM WAGES.

The operation of New York's minimum wage law will be watched with special interest, applying as it does to such large numbers of industrial workers. While this law does not cover all labor it does include both males and females under 21, and women beyond that age. The fair wage statute includes piece workers, but does not embrace farm workers or domestic servants.

The New York Department of Labor is considering alternative methods of securing compliance with the minimum wage provisions by employers. If a person, firm or corporation refuses to follow the legal requirements "shame and discredit" may be brought down upon the offender's head by advertising the recalcitrant. If non-compliance should persist for nine months the department may order the official schedule put into effect, after which failure to act becomes a misdemeanor. Deficiencies in pay may be recovered by employes through civil actions, and all shops must post notices so that their workers may know their rights.

The New York law is to be administered by a division of minimum wage in the Department of Labor after the fair wage has been determined by temporary wage boards. The Commissioner of Labor will appoint a board of nine members for each industry, three to represent the employers, three the employes, and three of neutral character. The wage scales submitted by these boards may be accepted, modified or rejected by the Industrial Commissioner, who is the final arbiter.

SUBSIDIZING COLONISTS.

The State and Federal governments of Australia are subsidizing land settlement as the foremost feature of their unemployment relief. The forest areas of Kuitpo, 70 miles from Adelaide, have of recent years been giving way to homes and gardens, with the result that there are now several colonies cultivating the former wilderness. Small dwellings are being erected by the State government, with large water tanks and poultry houses, which provide for repayment through easy installments. These settlements give preference to men with families.

In the Willunga district there is a model colony of 300 people, some of whom have been there nearly two years. Most of these settlers were unemployed wharf laborers. The work of clearing areas has been done by unemployed single men and by prisoners as well. The prison camp experiment in humanitarian treatment has proved so successful that it is being constantly extended.

The importance of settling the northern portion of Australia is urged by Sir George Pearce, Minister of Defence. He believes that Australians will soon have to decide whether the country will be settled and developed by themselves or by Asiatics. Events in Manchuria, Sir George stated, have taught the Commonwealth a big lesson; if Australians do not develop the country, they will not hold it long.

The vast territory north of the Tropic of Capricorn is destined to play an important part in the world's meat supply, as cattle and sheep thrive there. Using this country as a breeding ground, Sir George believes it would be a simple matter to transport the meat to Europe on modern refrigerated ships through the Suez Canal.

A REPEAL TEST TODAY.

Anxious eyes will be turned toward Iowa today. It has been a rockbound prohibition State. If it should hold to its traditions and refuse to approve repeal of the eighteenth amendment its action will encourage drys in doubtful States to rally for a last stand struggle. But if Iowa should desert the prohibition standard the country may conclude that repeal is merely a matter of calling the roll of States.

Sixteen State decisions will have been made on the repeal question by the end of this month. Seventeen additional States will vote during 1933. The eleven States which have already voted are all for repeal. Three States—Iowa, New Hampshire and Connecticut—will vote today. California and West Virginia will register their verdict on June 27.

The seventeen additional States which have set repeal elections for this year are: Alabama, Arkansas, Tennessee and Oregon, for July; Texas and Washington, for August; Vermont, Maine, Maryland, Minnesota, Idaho and New Mexico, for September; Arizona, for October, and North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania and South Carolina, for November. It is also expected that Florida, Missouri, Montana and Utah will arrange for elections this year.

In five States the legislatures have failed to act or the governors have vetoed the repeal election bills. Two other States have set their elections for 1934. The four remaining States will put the question before their legislatures in 1934.

As matters stand, it appears probable that a sufficient number of States will act this year to determine the fate of the eighteenth amendment.

FORGOTTEN BILLS.

Congressmen have seldom had such meager opportunities for grandstand plays as during the session that has just closed. Many new members of both houses came to Washington last March with their brief cases full of brilliant ideas to be enacted into legislation. But most of them have returned home with their brief cases full of dead bills which didn't even get a hearing.

In this repect the first session of the Seventy-third Congress was unique. Congress usually wastes a great deal of time discussing and revising individual bills designed to promote the welfare of local groups and sectional interests. But this time Congress had no time for such trifling. It really got down to business and for the most part confined its efforts to major legislation of national importance.

Individual members were not backward about introducing their favorite measures. Senators threw about 2,000 bills into the legislative hopper, and representatives contributed more than 6,000. The grand total of measures introduced was around 8,100, but only 81, or about 1 per cent, were enacted. The public has heard almost nothing about the 99 per cent which failed.

Congressmen are not altogether pleased with this result. Members of the majority party are, of course, delighted to see President Roosevelt's recovery program enacted in such a large measure. But that does not entirely assuage their disappointment over the fate of many bills which have sprung from their own minds. Senators and representatives are now to give an accounting at home. How can they make the folks back home understand that there simply wasn't time to consider measures in which they were vitally interested?

Each member will, of course, approach this problem in his own way, but it seems safe to assume that most of the speeches this summer will lay stress on the "value of teamwork in Congress."

NOISELESS STREET CARS.

The promise of noiseless street cars for Washington in the not distant future seems too good to be true. Where is the city dweller who is not annoyed by the thundering of trolley cars? In a busy city car tracks traverse nearly every important street. The screeching of steel wheels on rails filters through every office building and through most apartments. Passengers on the cars have the rumble and the grinding of steel on steel in their ears from the time they board a trolley until they alight at their destination. It is difficult to think of any development that would contribute more to the peace and quiet of large cities than noiseless street cars.

Traction companies are spending $500,000 on the perfection of the new car. They have come to the obvious conclusion that street railways are lagging behind other forms of transportation in matters of comfort, speed and noiselessness. Hence, the new car will be equipped with rubber-core wheels, more flexible springs, more comfortable seats, and more power so as to avoid loss of time in starting.

A so-called noiseless street car was tested in New York recently with considerable satisfaction. It was by no means noiseless, according to observers who witnessed the demonstration, but a great improvement had been made. Complete elimination of noise in the first attempt could not be expected, but if substantial improvements have been made the public will rejoice.

Engineering has been slow to develop anti-noise devices. With all the mechanical skill at hand today it is amazing that screeching street cars have not been subdued. Perhaps this neglect may be traced to the lack of public demand for quiet. Only in recent years has medical science begun to emphasize the effect of noise on the nervous system. As the public comes to realize how devastating may be the wear and tear of noise on the human system more attention will be given to anti-noise devices. The street car is an excellent place at which to begin major improvements.

IMPORTS GAIN.

A report just released by the Department of Commerce indicates a sharp increase in imports. In April imports amounted to $88,412,000. In May they jumped to $107,000,000, an increase of about 21 per cent.

Only during three previous months in the last year have imports exceeded the $100,000,000 mark. The monthly average this year, up until the beginning of May, was $91,000,000. The recent increase can not be explained by seasonal tendencies, for May imports have shown a decrease under April for the previous four years, and in 1928 the gain of May over April was only slight.

The increase occurred in spite of the decline of the dollar. The upturn of business within the United States undoubtedly stimulated the demand for foreign as well as domestic goods.

Exports did not fare so well. An increase of slightly more than 8 per cent for the month may be noted. The total value of exports for May was $114,000,000, which is still considerably below the total for January. The inclination of France and some other countries to raise their tariffs against American goods to offset the decline of the dollar may prevent exports from rising as fast as imports, in spite of the offsetting advantage which this country is supposed to obtain in the world market by debasing the value of the dollar.

These figures for May seem to upset the theory, at least for the moment, that the decline of the dollar discourages imports and stimulates exports. Other factors seem to overweigh the considerations which would no doubt be effective under more normal conditions.

DISTRICT CONVENIENCES.

Provision for expenditure of funds for public works while severely pruning the District budget is giving the District of Columbia the prospect of improved river navigation and extended highways while denying to the public adequate facilities for schools, disposal of trash, protection against flooded streets and sewers, &c. The public works program includes a plan for deepening Georgetown Channel from the normal 24 feet to 28 feet, and to widen the channel from the present width of 400 feet to 600 feet. The projected improvement will make it unnecessary to dredge the channel every two years, as must be done at present. The dredged material will be dumped at Gravelly Point, which may or may not be set apart later for an airport.

The District will receive $2,000,000 from the public roads fund with which to improve highways. Plans for extensions will be drafted immediately.

Under the District budget it will be impossible to operate the Southeast incinerator during the coming year. The only remaining incinerator, at Georgetown, is not large enough to handle the city's accumulation of trash. The Sanitary Engineer must arrange for dumping trash after July 1. In several localities on the outskirts trash dumps have furnished homes for hordes of rats, which constitute a nuisance and a menace to health. Arlington county authorities have forbidden the dumping of District trash on the flats across the Potomac. For the time being it will be necessary to use vacant lands in adjacent Maryland, where clean and growing communities will interpose vigorous objections to noisome sights and smells of burning pits. The amount required to keep the Southeast incinerator in operation is very small, and the public convenience requires the outlay.

WASTING SAVED-UP TIME

From the Minneapolis Journal.

What, asks the Nebraska State Journal, do people do with the time now saved, but formerly lost, waiting in stations for trains? Is this the source, the query goes on, from which golfers draw their supplies of leisure, or what is done with it?

There questions the Rip van Winkle of his time. He has wakened belatedly. All of the train waiting time was used up, long ago. We save our time nowadays by other means. But this inquiry does suggest the desirability for a saved time survey.

What about the time saved by jumping the semaphores at street intersections? What is done with the time added to his day by the driver who hurries around the right hand corner against the pedestrian stream? What, by the pedestrian who tempts injury by ignoring stop signs? What does the time saving profit the man who speeds down the through street, regardless of the drivers and the walkers who are trying to cross it? These savings can be measured in minutes, even in seconds. The hurrier gets to his destination perhaps three minutes earlier than if he hadn't driven over the claims of safety and courtesy. How does he use those minutes?

Nobody knows, except perhaps the office force. That's why a survey might be worth while—just to confound the time saver. Research might disclose that time saved on the street had been wasted in bed before the dash began. It might mean more dawdle over the toast. But it could be counted in seconds and little else, especially if the saving was at the expense of somebody else's feelings, or somebody else's rights.

Let's have a time saving survey, and see how unnecessarily hurried most of us have become.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

HE STOLE A KISS.

He stole a kiss! There was no hue and cry;
No summons for the bluecoat passing by;
No hastening to the court to make complaint;
No warrant issued for the thief's restraint;
No shout: "Stop, thief! The scoundrel stole a kiss!"
That which he took the maid seemed glad to miss.

I saw the crime committed, and I swear
Of those two lips she took not watchful care.
Owners must guard their property and see
Their treasures safely under lock and key.
He stole a kiss! If truth I must reveal,
She did not make it difficult to steal.

Were I his lawyer I should plead his case
And say too near she held her lovely face.
He stole a kiss! Of that there is no doubt,
And yet she knew just what he was about.
She must have known that rascal's hold intent,
But made no move the robbery to prevent.

Ah, well! There is no record of complaints!
Upon his name there's not the slightest taint.
No warrant has been issued. Not in grief
But in exquisite fancy lives the thief.
Lured by the beauty of a lovely miss,

A New Caesar May Use New Weapons, But Collects Same Old Tribute

By ROBERT QUILLEN

FROM time immemorial; able and ambitious men have been dominated by the lust for power. And since a gain in one place must inevitably represent a loss in another, the world has suffered in exact proportion to their success.

The story of the conqueror varies only in detail.

Among people content to take what comes there arises a man who knows what he wants. He thinks in terms of continents while others think in terms of pastures or town lots. And the measure of a man is the size of the terms in which he thinks.

Lesser men follow him because he solves the problem of life by thinking for them. As his strength grows he draws to his train the multitudes that are consistently loyal to the winning side.

Established in his power and glory, he levies tribute to pay expenses. He loots the treasures accumulated by former conquerors and moves them to his capital. He collects a toll from the richest merchant and the humblest laborer. He is a law unto himself, accountable to nobody. And woe to those who interfere with his plans.

History is the story of these men and their conquests. In some instances—perhaps in all—they have done some service to the race. But in every instance they have destroyed the rights of the individual and added to the burdens and miseries of the humble.

There is nothing new under the sun, and history repeats itself today. The same lust for power; the same story of conquest.

But the new conqueror does not ride at the head of his armies. He sits in an office. Armed sentries that paced in front of a tent have been replaced by office boys on a bench, but the chief whose privacy they guard is inaccessible still.

There is no roar of battle. The new conqueror's weapons are dollars. The scratch of a pen transfers a sheaf of engraved paper and a province is conquered. Dollars win victories and consolidate an empire.

The new conqueror brings home the world's art treasurers as the others did. He makes laws, as they did, and is above the law. He collects toll from every subject, high and low. There is no difference except in weapons and the words used to describe details.

Unchanged also is the fact that one man's gain is another's loss. The greater one man's power, the greater another's servitude.

Progress is measured by the increase of liberty and human rights. And the price is liberty is eternal vigilance to prevent the growth of power.

POLITICAL COMMENT

America's Idealist.

Minneapolis Journal.

There is no questioning the sincerity of Secretary of State Cordell Hull in his appeal to the World Economic Conference at London. By conviction the Secretary is an internationalist, which is to say an idealist in the field of world affairs. The foreigner, unacquainted with the man's background, may have assumed that he was cleverly evading the question of war debts, but in his appeal for a general lowering of trade barriers Mr. Hull was merely preaching on his favorite theme to the greatest audience he ever had.

Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Recently Vice President Garner added to his reputation as an odd sort of person by declining an offer of $52,000 a year for a daily five-minute radio talk on current political events. He was approached on the subject by an unnamed company, which hoped, of course, to cash in on mention by the presiding officer of the Senate of its particular product.

To his eternal credit, however, Mr. Garner turned a deaf ear to all entreaties. He was not willing to lower the dignity of his office nor to profit pecuniarily by the tremendous prestige it carries. His view was that he had no moral right to trade on the Vice Presidency.

INSURING THE BANK ACCOUNT.

("Bill Providing Insurance of Bank Deposits Passes."—Headline.)

"So you wish to have your account insured?"

"Yes, sir."

"How old is it?"

"It will be 18 years old next Friday."

"What is its present state of health?"

"Not so good, but it is doing as well as could be expected."

"Has it been sick often?"

"Lots of times."

"When was it ailing last?"

"Oh, it's been in bad shape ever since the depression. There were times when I practically gave up all hope for it."

"Just what seemed to be the trouble?"

"It had that all-gone feeling."

"No strength, you mean?"

"Yep. So weak I couldn't do a thing with it."

* * * *

"Has your account ever had a major operation?"

"Oh, yes. We had to cut it to get it out of the bank in March."

* * * *

"Have there been any hereditary diseases in your bank account's family?"

"Well, to tell the truth, all my family's bank accounts have been pretty ailing most of the time. They never were very rugged. A lot of them died very young, in fact."

* * * *

"Is your money employed in any dangerous occupation?"

"Yes. I've got some of it out on mortgages."

"That's pretty hazardous. Anything else?"

"Well, I've got $50 that insists on getting on the horse races if I don't watch it all the time, and there's a five-hundred-dollar bill that keeps me worried right along."

"How so?"

"It's a loan to relatives."

"That comes under the heading of a noninsurable risk, of course."

"I thought so."

"We can only insure money that has regular habits, leads a clean, normal life, and doesn't take any unnecessary chances."

"I think, after what I've been through since 1928, that I can assure you my money will be a model of good conduct."

* * * *

"How much insurance do you want to carry?"

"I'd like full coverage."

"Would you be interested in a ten-year endowment?"

"What's that?"

"We pay double at the end of ten years if the bank lasts that long."

"What if it doesn't last that long?"

SIGNS, OMENS AND APPLES.

The improvement in business must be genuine; it is difficult to get apples without going to a fruit store.

The economic conference will cost $4,125,000. But that's not an unusual price for a supermoving picture.

Maybe the British payment is not a default, but that's what it would be called if you borrowed $100 from another fellow on a 60-day note and then sent him $10 in dimes.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Differences in Standards of Living Make International Economic Agreements Difficult.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I hope some benefit will result from the attempt of experts to stabilize international trade and mediums of exchange. But I agree with those who think Uncle Sam will do the world the best service by leaving no gaps in his fences and devoting himself mostly to the work of setting his own house in order. At home our experts are well acquainted with the population they have to deal with. Our populations are to a great extent homogeneous which is a great help in the first place. And then they have a much higher standard of living than that of most other countries.

I think our Yankee experts, no matter how "smart" they may be, are not quite familiar enough with the different populations of Europe and the rest of the world to do the United States or the other countries much good in their talks on the other side of the ocean. For instance, look at the international measure of values. How can you expect it to be very much more reliable than it has been in the past so long as employers in the United States pay their employes two, three and four times higher wages than are paid elsewhere?

Differences in standards of living have a good deal more to do with conflicting policies of nations than some of us realize. These differences make international agreements very difficult. G. F. P.

Five Capital Women Presented to Court On Friday.

MRS. ROBERT W. BINGHAM, wife of the United States Ambassador to the Court of St. James, will present thirteen American women to King George and Queen Mary at the fifth court of the season to be held at Buckingham Palace Friday. Among the thirteen, five of them will be girls from Washington, or closely associated with the Capital.

They are Miss Alexandra Bacon, daughter of Representative and Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, a debutante of last winter; Miss Henrietta Worth Bingham, daughter of the Ambassador, who spent some time in Washington before her father assumed his post; Miss Eleanor Converse Preston, daughter of Mr. Ord Preston; Miss Margaret McReynolds, daughter of Representative and Mrs. Sam D. McReynolds, who is acting as hostess for her father while he is in London attending the Economic Conference, and Miss Helen Robbins, daughter of the newly appointed Minister to Canada and Mrs. Warren Delano Robbins. Mrs. Paul Hays, of Staunton, Va., niece of Mrs. Cordell Hull, wife of the Secretary of State, will also be among the presentations, as will Mrs. Arthur Pack, wife of the British Commercial Counselor in Chile, the former Miss Betty Thorpe, daughter of Col. and Mrs. George Thorpe. Mrs. Pack is a Washington girl, but because of her marriage to Mr. Pack, comes under the British quota at the court presentations.

New Chilean Envoy Leaves for U. S. July 7.

The newly appointed Ambassador of Chile, Senor Don Manuel Trucco, is expected to leave Chile for this country on July 7, Senora de Trucco and their daughters, Senorita Marta Trucco, Senorita Gracila Trucco and Senorita Rebeca Trucco, all of whom are prominent in society in Santiago, are expected to come to Washington later in the year to join the ambassador.

The Charge d'Affaires of the Embassy, Senor Don Benjamin Cohen, returned to the Capital yesterday morning from New York, where he had spent several days.

The Minister of Finland, Mr. Leonard Axel Astrom, will leave for New York today and will sail tomorrow for his home in Finland to remain for four months. During his absence the counselor to the legation, Mr. Eino Wallkangas, will be charge d'affaires.

The Minister of Sweden, Mr. Wolmar Bostrom, returned to the Capital yesterday from New York, where he went to attend the double celebration of the accession of King Gustav V of Sweden and the seventy-fifth anniversary of his birth.

The Minister of Roumania, Mr. Charles A. Davila, who returned to Washington yesterday after spending the week-end in New York, entertained at dinner last evening in the Legation in honor of the newly appointed United States Minister to Roumania, Mr. Albin M. Owsley. The guests were the Ambassador of Poland, Mr. Stanislaw Patek; the Minister of Jugoslavia, Dr. Leonide Pitamic; the Assistant Secretary of War, Mr. Harry Woodring; the Chief of the Eastern European Division of the State Department and Mrs. Wallace Murray; the Counselor of the Polish Embassy and Mme. Sokolowska, the Secretary of the Legation and Mme. Popovici, the Financial Counselor of the Legation and Mme. Boncesco, the Assistant Dean of the Georgetown Foreign Service School and Mrs. Harry Healey, Mrs. Ingalls Sard, Mrs. Sidney A. Cloman and Mrs. Campbell Prichett.

The Minister of Honduras, Senor Dr. Don Miguel Paz Barsona, with the members of the staff, will move this week from the present legation at 1100 Sixteenth street to Wardman Park Hotel.

Roumanian Counselor To Be Gone 3 Months.

The Counselor of the Roumanian Legation, Mr. Frederick Nano, has sailed for Europe to spend three months. He will go first to London, and thence to Paris and Roumania. Mme. Nano will leave tomorrow for Manchester-by-the-Sea, Mass., where she will be guest of her brother-in-law and sister, the Ambassador of Brazil and Mme. de Lima e Silva.

Mrs. Keith Merrill and her children have gone to their summer home at Prides Crossing for the summer. Mr. Merrill will join them for brief visits.

Mrs. Harry N. Cootes, wife of Col. Harry N. Cootes, of Washington, and their son, Mr. Merrit Cootes, the newly appointed Consul at Hongkong, have left Washington and gone to Norfolk, where they will visit for a short time before Mr. Cootes leaves for the East.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Mathews Dick will close their Washington home on Friday and leave for Newport, R. I., where they will spend the summer in Tangeman Villa.

Mrs. M. W. Littleton, of New York City, is at the Carlton, where she will remain for a month or longer.

Nance Chamberlin to Wed In Connecticut June 30.

Invitations have been received in Washington from Mr. and Mrs. Clafton Pliny Chamberlin for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Nance Chamberlin, to Dr. Nathaniel Gross Newman, jr., Friday afternoon, June 30, at 4:30 o'clock in the home of the bride's parents on Stony Hill, in Windsor, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlin have many friends in Washington, and they make an annual visit here in the spring when Miss Chamberlin comes to the congress of the National Society of Daughters of the American Revolution. For several years Miss Chamberlin has been chairman of the flower pages for the congress.

Mr. L. A. Slaughter is in Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Mason, of 3525 Davenport street, are in Atlantic City.

Mrs. James Horsburgh, of Stanford University, Calif., is at the Carlton for several days, accompanied by her two sons, David B. and James A. Horsburgh.

Miss Dorothea Lane, daughter of Mr. Richard Lane, will return to Washington the middle of the week from Cape May, N. J., where she has been the guest for a week of Miss Emily Cookman.

Mr. William E. Huntington left yesterday for New York.

Dr. and Mrs. Hugh D. Vassana are spending several days in Atlantic City.

Mrs. Edwin B. Parker and her sister, Mrs. J. H. Gilpatrick are stopping in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Boaz W. Long, of Merion, Pa., are at the Carlton.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Hamilton McCormick-Goodhart will be in New York today to meet the former's son, who is a student at Groton School. They will spend a few days in New York and return to Bar Harbor, where they have opened their cottage for the summer.

Mrs. Louis C. Lehr has gone to Bar Harbor, Me., for the summer.

Dr. and Mrs. F. D. Dodge, of Cranford, N. J., are at the Carlton.

Canon and Mrs. Stokes Arrive From France.

Canon and Mrs. Anson Phelps Stokes arrived in New York yesterday aboard the De Grasse from France, where they have been for a short stay after their trip of one year traveling around the world. They will go to their summer home in the Berkshires after a few days in New York.

Mrs. Theodore Silkman Reppler has returned to her home in Pelham Manor, Westchester County, N. Y., after a visit with her mother, Mrs. Martha Macatee, in Chevy Chase. Mrs. Reppler will return to Washington in July to attend the marriage of her brother, Mr. Charles Macatee 3d, to Miss Doris Adele Wright.

The New England States Society will hold its final informal dance and entertainment tonight at the Kennedy-Warren Hotel at 9:30 o'clock. In the revue to be staged by the Hoffman-Hoskins Studios will appear Miss Lillian Hoffman, Miss Jane Hart, Betty Raymond, Ruth Hohlberger, Jack Curtin, Jack Stake, Audrey Heathcote, May Hampton, Doris Hudson, Doris Willingham and Marion Wohlberg, winner of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer moving-picture contest, will act as mistress of ceremonies.

The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co.'s Glee Club, under the direction of Mr. R. H. Davidson, will sing.

PARTNER TROUBLE.

ONE of the most serious drawback to good results in Contract games is the lack of confidence in the partnership of the moment or the evening. It is probably behind a great many of the much-publicized discussions between husbands and wives during and following Bridge games. The husband, feeling that after all, his wife, living a sheltered life, can not take a man's view of things and follows too rigidly the rules laid down in books, makes bids that his wife can not understand. She knows they are unsound according to all authorities and governs herself accordingly. The result of this lack of confidence is usually a disaster.

However, not nearly all the present trouble at the Bridge table is between married folk. Even two men may sometimes reach very bad results as, for instance, in the hands below:

North, Dealer.

The bidding:

North	South
3♢	4♠
5♡	6♡
Pass

The above was the actual bidding and the hand was set six tricks, though it was a laydown for six spades, six hearts or six diamonds. The holder of the South hand submitted it to me and asked me to decide who was to blame for the unfortunate result. In my opinion, the correct bidding is as follows:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

North	South
1♢ (1)	2♠ (2)
3♢ (3)	3♡ (4)
4♡ (5)	4NT (6)
6♡ (7)	Pass

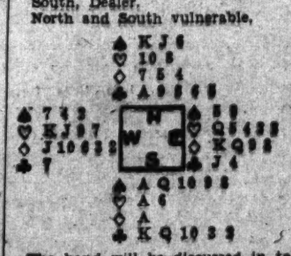
1—Although the hand does not contain 2½ honor-tricks, the length and strength of the diamonds and the distribution justify the slight shading.
2.—The Forcing Takeout is obvious
3—Disclosing rebid strength in suit.
4—At this point South has alternative bids. A rebid of the spade suit is justified by the length and strength, but disclosure of the distribution is slightly more important.
5—Actually, North might raise the hearts to five, but he should avoid too strong a response in order to prevent the bidding of the Grand Slam.
6—Showing two Aces and the King of the bid suit.
7—North's bid of six hearts denies the possession of two Aces, but in view of South's bidding, the safety of the Small Slam is assured.

The actual bidding in the later rounds threw caution to the winds and the natural result, a disastrous set, followed.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

What should be South's Opening bid with the hand below? What should be North's first response and what should be the final contract?

South, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.



The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

THE Radio Material School at the Naval Research Laboratory at Bellevue, D. C., is holding an open house today, tomorrow and Thursday. The hours are from 1 to 5 in the afternoon and 7 to 10 o'clock in the evening.

An opportunity will be given to visitors to inspect the equipment and to learn more about the activities of the school. Admission is by invitation.

Ed Wynn, whose contract doesn't expire until October, wants to get away for a little vacation. If he succeeds his place may be taken by Victor Moore, who is free from his vice presidential duties in "Of Thee I Sing" for the summer.

Al Jolson evidently is to have his own way in the forthcoming Paul Whiteman series, which he will launch next Monday. It will be an hour performance over the networks and will run for another hour over WEAF in New York.

Jolson wasn't satisfied with his last radio performance, saying he was handicapped in selecting his songs and had too many orders as to how he should conduct himself before the microphone.

Fred Stone, another old-timer of the stage, too, evidently was apprehensive about his Sunday night performance. However, he seems to have made a great hit with his imitation of Will Rogers. There were those who said they could hardly tell the difference between Stone and Rogers over the air.

"MUSIC of the Americas" is the title of an attractive program to be played by the Army Band from the War College this morning under the leadership of Capt. William J. Stannard (WRC, 10:30 o'clock).

The Marine Band, with Capt. Taylor Branson on the podium, will likewise have a concert this morning (WJSV, 11 o'clock).

This reminds us of a complimentary reference to this famous organization by our old friend, Ben Gross, of the New York Daily News, who said in his column yesterday:

"Those Shut-in Hours of the U. S. Marine Band are among the simply-you-must-hear features. In this program radio comes to its ultimate perfection."

The Navy Band, led by Lieut. Charles Benter, will have a "Patriotic Period" this afternoon (WJSV, 3 o'clock).

Tonight we will hear locally the first of the Goldman Band summer concerts from New York (WMAL, 8:35 o'clock).

It should be a great day on the radio for the lovers of band music!

Up to now there has been nothing doing with regard to broadcasting the Sharkey-Carnera bout scheduled for Thursday the 29th.

Dr. Louis F. Bishop, jr., assistant visiting physician of Bellevue Hospital, New York, will talk on "Common Accidents and Emergencies in First Aid" during a program over WRC at 1:45 p. m.

THE class-day celebration at Harvard, which will be broadcast at 4:30 p. m. over the WEAF network, but probably not WRC, will open with a parade of the class to the Harvard Stadium, following which the traditional Ivy oration will be delivered by Stephen Henry Stackpole, of Milton, Mass., graduating president of the Harvard Lampoon.

There will be an address by Dr. A. Laurence Lowell, the retiring president.

Ginger Rogers, Vivienne Segal, Ada May, Walter Woolf and other luminaries of stage and screen will appear on a special 45-minute broadcast of "California Melodies" over WJSV from Los Angeles at 9 p. m.

The musical highlights of the program will include a presentation by the West Coast company of the operetta, "Music in the Air," in which a chorus of 40 voices will participate. Walter Woolf and Vivienne Segal will sing the duet, "The Song Is You," while Ada May and William Williams will be heard in "I've Told Every Little Star."

The heroic deed which earned for Patrolman Thomas P. Glennon, jr., the medal for valor in New York, will be dramatized during the Lives at Stake program tonight at 9 o'clock over an NBC-WEAF network. Patrolman Glennon followed two bandits, who had held up a store, through a doorway which proved to be a blind. He engaged in a gun battle and although seriously wounded, fought it out.

BARON CONSTANTIN VON NEURATH, Foreign Minister of Germany and head of the German delegation at the World Monetary and Economic Conference, it is hoped may be presented by H. V. Kaltenborn from London and heard here at 5 p. m.

Who said that One-Eye Connolly had retired? He crashed the gate at the New York studio to see Ed Wynn's broadcast Tuesday night, and Graham McNamee was the unwitting accomplice.

McNamee entered at the studio [illegible]

Russell Johns, lyric barytone heard weekly over the network, was born in Chillicothe, Ohio, also the home town of Clyde Beatty, the animal trainer. The two were boyhood chums and classmates in school. Johns says he can not understand how Beatty came to go into lion-taming unless it was their eighth grade teacher who "inspired" him.

There will be another session of the Stamp Club over WOL with Albert F. Hunse at 6:45 o'clock this evening.

SENATOR ROBERT J. BULKLEY, of Ohio, a member of the subcommittee which whipped the Glass-Steagall bill into shape, will discuss "Our New Banking Laws" in the National Radio Forum broadcast over WRC at 9:30 p. m.

From the grounds of a Century of Progress, Ben Bernie, over WRC at 8 p. m., will dedicate a program to the American Legion convention, which will be held in Chicago in October.

A New Yorker at Large

By MARK BARRON.

NEW YORK—Personal notes off a New Yorker's cuff:

Native New Yorkers are rare, but Charles Evans Hughes is one. He was born in Thirteenth street, just off Sixth avenue. Incidentally, I saw him the other night at "Of Thee I Sing" laughing heartily at those supreme court scenes.

One of the new arrivals to attract attention in art circles is blond Betty Lee. When she isn't busy at her easel, she works in a beauty shop on one of those Manhattan to California liners.

Street scene: Hope Williams striding along at a fast pace on Fifth avenue. She rarely uses taxis and never looks in shop windows.

Perpetual Motion.

In one of those university clubs in the Murray Hill section there is a bridge game that goes on day and night without ceasing. When a player drops out there is always another ready to take his place.

Tallulah Bankhead is planning to return to Hollywood, this time to play a role based on Greta Garbo.

Kite flying is becoming a fad on the Long Island beaches.

Hi-Di-Hi.

Cab Calloway, hi-di-hi-de-ho warbler, was once a waiter in a Chicago cafe. His sister, Blanche, conducted the orchestra there.

Bill Robinson, with his brown derby and highly polished shoes, is the Yankees' good luck piece. He sprinkles salt around the visitors' dugout to bring them misfortune.

Lee Tracy's home is at Shavertown, Pa.

Jacqueline Doret, called the most beautiful blond in Paris, has arrived in New York. She thinks it's largely a city of interviewers and photographers. At least, she saw little else while here.

DICK TRACY—The Intrusion.

BIG BANKS MAY PAY DEPOSIT FUND BULK

New York Institutions Say They Must Put Up 25 Per Cent of Guaranty.

New York, June 19 (A.P.).—Leading New York banks, studying the implications of the new Glass-Steagall banking act, estimate they will be obligated to furnish some 25 per cent of the funds for the insurance pool outlined by that measure for the guarantee of bank deposits.

The calculation is based upon the amount of deposits in the 20 New York Clearing House institutions whose aggregate demand deposits—as of the latest reportable date—stood at $6,205,000,000. This is just under 25 per cent of the $24,978,000,000 deposits of the members of the Federal Reserve System.

According to the guaranty deposit feature of the bank reform bill, Federal Reserve member banks will contribute one-half of 1 per cent of their demand deposits, which for local clearing house institutions would amount to about $300,000,000. Half of this will be paid into the guaranty fund as soon as it is declared operative, and the remainder is subject to call.

The liability of the New York banks, it is pointed out, will naturally be increased as nonmember State banks are admitted to the insurance benefits of the act. Local institutions have steadily contended that their own deposits need no guarantee further than the management they give to their affairs.

On the basis of existing analyses, the three largest local national banks—Chase, National City and First National—will carry almost 10 per cent of the deposit guaranty for the entire country. Their latest figures show $2,438,000,000 net demand deposits, as against the deposits for all member banks.

U. S. Exports Total $114,000,000 in May

(Associated Press.)

Exports from the United States during May were announced yesterday by the Commerce Department at $114,000,000, compared with $131,899,000 during May, 1932, and imports at 107,000,000, compared with $112,276,000. Both exports and imports showed the usual seasonal trend upward, comparing with $105,219,000 of exports in April and $88,412,000 of imports.

Exports of gold during May amounted to $22,024,000, as compared with $212,229,000 in May of last year and $16,741,000 in April. Imports of gold were $1,785,000, as compared with $16,715,000 in the corresponding month of 1932 and $6,769,000 in April.

Silver exports were $235,000, against $1,865,000 and $193,000; silver imports, $5,275,000, against $1,547,000 and $1,520,000. Cotton exports in May were $26,000,000, compared with $16,900,000 in April.

Wall St. Briefs

New York, June 19 (A.P.).—A New York Cotton Exchange membership sold today for $21,000, a decline of $500 from the previous transaction.

May sales of International Business Machines Corporation, both domestic and foreign, were the best in 21 months, the company announced today.

The Adams Express Co., an investment trust, today announced two quarterly dividends of $1.25 each on the $5 cumulative preferred stock, both payable June 30 to stock of record June 29. One payment represents the dividend which ordinarily would have been paid on March 1 last. The disbursements clean up all dividend arrears on this stock.

Insolvencies in the United States for the week ended June 15, as reported by Dun & Bradstreet, totaled 396 against failures in the two preceding weeks aggregating 401 and 378, respectively. In the same week last year there were 613 similar defaults. The low number of 378 was for the week including Decoration Day, a short week. So far this year, the surveying service states, business failures have declined about 26 per cent under the same period in 1932.

Remington Rand, Inc., reports net loss of $2,581,030 for the fiscal year ended March 31 before special charges aggregating $1,023,136. In the preceding year the net loss was $3,035,733.

Domestic cotton mill activity, now at the highest level in four years, is still tending upward reports the New York Cotton Exchange service. During the first of June mills ran at an index figure of about 116 (the average rate for 1922-27 is taken as 100) as against 109 in May and 58 in June last year.

RITCHIE ACTS SOON ON PAROLES FOR 33

Several Prisoners Sentenced From Nearby Counties Are on List.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., June 19.—Gov. Ritchie today announced a list of 33 prisoners serving terms in State penal institutions who will be paroled next Tuesday unless sufficient objection is interposed in the meantime.

Included in the group are a number who were sentenced in the circuit courts for Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties. All of the cases have been investigated by the State parole commissioner who recommended clemency.

The Montgomery cases are William A. Steelman, Charles E. Atkins and Willie E. Wiggs, all of whom have served nearly three years of four-year terms for robbery. The trio participated in a holdup of a drug store under the leadership of another man. The youngsters came into Maryland from a Southern State to which they will return to work and be under proper supervision.

Term for Stealing Chickens.

Earl Robey, sentenced to two years for stealing chickens, and whose term has only five months to run.

Bernard Leisher, sentenced to 2½ years for burglary, and serving another term of 6 years for like offense in Anne Arundel County. Less than five months of his sentences remain.

Charles Immich, sentenced to 15 years for forgery. He has served about half of his term. The governor has been advised that Immich's offense grew out of domestic difficulties, and consisted of obtaining a loan on furniture to which he did not hold title. Immich is a young man, has been assured immediate employment, and has promised to contribute to the support of his wife and child.

Prince Georges Offenders.

Charles Smith, serving 1½ years for larceny. Eight months of his term remains. His offense was chicken stealing, and the governor feels he has served sufficient time.

Offenders from Prince Georges County to be paroled are Frederick O. Randolph, serving 3 years for manslaughter, all but 6 months of which have expired. Randolph is only 20 years old and had done considerable drinking the governor was told. He figured in an automobile accident that resulted in the death of another man, and he too was badly hurt. Since Randolph has been in the house of correction his father died, and his mother and her three children have been cared for by charitable organizations in Washington. Randolph has promised to go to Washington and work and help in supporting the family.

Angy Terling and John Manol, Italian youths, sentenced to 3 years and 18 months, respectively, in the penitentiary for larceny. The boys entered an unoccupied house and stole a number of articles which subsequently were restored. Both have been promised jobs, and the governor feels they have been sufficiently punished.

Sentence for Manslaughter.

Charles T. Herbert, who has served all but 18 months of an 8-year sentence for manslaughter. Though Herbert has a previous criminal record, this particular offense was an automobile crash in which a man in another car was killed. Commenting on the case, the governor said the sentence was extremely long in comparison to similar offenses and the time served is correspondingly longer.

Louis Fine and Ray E. Gamele, of Charles County, also are slated for parole. They are serving terms of 18 months for destruction of property. They threw a brick through a window of a place where liquor was supposed to be sold and to which they were refused admission. Only two months of their term remain.

Nudist Parade Protests School Order; 50 Jailed

Kamsack, Sask., June 19 (A.P.).—As a protest against an order to send their children to school, Dunkhobor residents of Terpenia Village staged a nude parade here over the week-end, police made more than 50 arrests.

The nudists, men and women, were loaded on trucks and police cars and taken to Canoram. They will be given a preliminary hearing tomorrow. If found guilty they are liable to three years' imprisonment.

Cruiser Indianapolis To Receive President

Philadelphia, June 19 (A.P.).—The heavy cruiser Indianapolis, spick and span and ready to receive the President of the United States, left the Philadelphia Navy Yard today.

The 10,000-ton cruiser, which has undergone minor repairs and adjustment, will have a "post-repair" trial at sea and then head for Providence, Mass.

American Dollar Drops 6 Cents to British Pound

London, June 19 (A.P.).—The American dollar dropped 6 cents in value here today when it became evident that no agreement for currency stabilization has yet been reached. The close was $4.13¼ to the pound, as compared with Saturday's final price of $4.07¼.

Forenoon offerings soon caused American exchange to slide rapidly to $4.13¼. Afterward, moderate buying produced a recovery of half a cent, but selling was renewed in the afternoon upon continued uncertainty of currency plans, and the closing quotations returned to $4.13¼.

C. & N. Ry. Makes Offer For Maturing Bonds

New York, June 19 (A.P.).—Holders of Fremont, Elkhorn & Missouri Valley 6 per cent bonds which mature October 1, next, have received an offer from the Chicago & Northwestern Railway, the parent company, of 50 per cent in cash and 50 per cent in 5 per cent general mortgage bonds, it was learned today.

As a special inducement to early deposits 10 per cent of the cash will be paid the tender of bonds on or before September 1.

Rubber Closes Firm.

New York, June 19 (A.P.).—Crude rubber futures closed firm; July, 5.95*; September, 6.24; December, 6.52-55; January, 6.67.

WHAT'S GOOD TO EAT

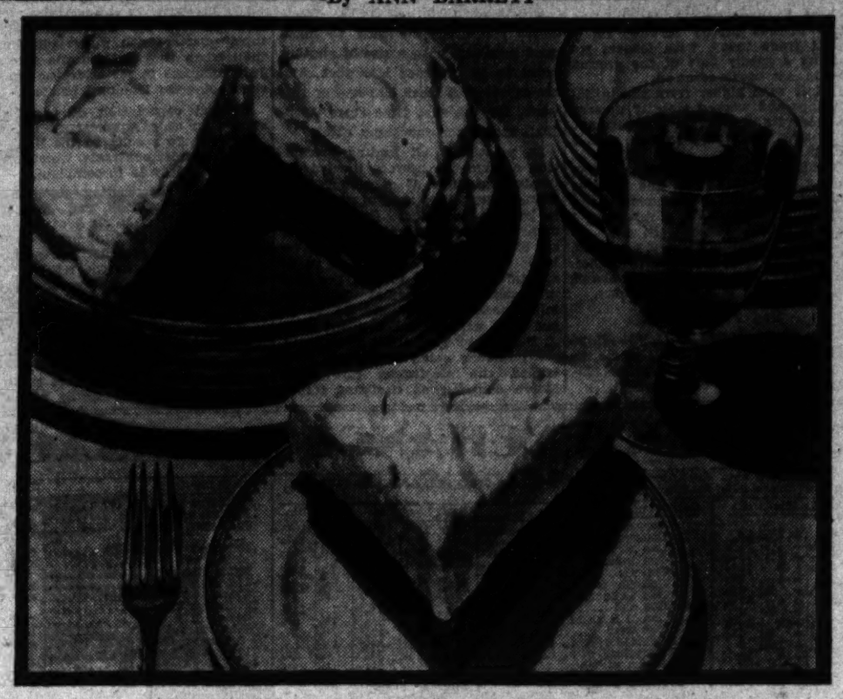
By ANN BARRETT



WHEN you consider all the kinds of cream pies there are, it's easy to see how they rate the front row for popularity. There's luscious caramel cream pie that gets its delicious flavor from melting the sugar. (Favorite of Senator Carter D. Glass.)

There's chocolate pie with a deep meringue that Kat Smith likes to fork into. There's banana cream pie that Joe E. Brown roots for (over and above the banana he heats in every talkie he makes).

There's orange cream, date cream, coconut cream, butterscotch cream. And probably more that I can't think of at the moment.

If you follow the simple do's and dont's of making, any of these pies will be a triumph.

Filling and Crust.

For the filling, here are the guideposts. First, cook filling in double boiler to prevent scorching. Second, stir constantly while adding flour or cornstarch. Third, cook thoroughly so that the filling won't taste starchy. Fourth, let mixture cool before filling baked pie shell. Briefly, here are tips on the crust. First, a rich crust is less likely to shrink in baking. That is, at least 6 tablespoons shortening to 1 cup sifted flower, ½ teaspoon salt, and only enough water to hold ingredients together (4 to 6 tablespoons). Second, whether you bake the crust inside the pan or over the bottom, full it on, don't stretch it on. Third, prick it all over with a fork so it won't blister. Fourth, bake it at about 500 for about ten minutes.

Basic Cream Pie Recipe.

Here's a basic recipe for the filling that you can vary in many ways. Scald 3 cups of milk in top of double boiler. Mix 6 tablespoons cornstarch with 1-3 cup cold milk. Add this to hot milk, stirring constantly till thick. Then remove spoon, cover and let cook 30 minutes. Next, mix 3 egg yolks with ¼ teaspoon salt and 3 tablespoons sugar. (Use more sugar if you like filling extra sweet.) Add this to first mixture and cook 2 minutes more. Cool slightly, add ½ teaspoon vanilla and let cool. Turn into a large (9-inch) baked pie shell and top with meringue made with 3 egg whites and 6 tablespoons confectioner's sugar. Bake slowly till brown (from 10 to 12 minutes in a slow oven—not hotter than 325 F.).

Fruit Cream Pies.

If you want to make this recipe into a banana cream pie with a whipped-cream top, you won't need to put the filled pie into the oven at all.

Slice 3 ripe bananas into the baked pie shell, turn in the chilled filling, and spread the top with sweetened whipped cream. This size pie needs about 1 cup cream (before whipping).

For a date cream pie, just add to filling 1 cup pitted dates, cut in small pieces. This kind of pie is good with either a meringue or whipped-cream top.

Various other fresh (or canned) fruits are equally delicious snuggled into the bottom of a cream pie. (They should be well drained so as not to soak crust.) Say—1 to 2 cups of sliced fresh or canned peaches. Or 1 to 2 cups of chopped or sliced fresh strawberries. Or 1 cup of fresh or canned crushed pineapple. These pies are best with a whipped-cream top.

Another good trick. Put the chilled filling into the baked shell. Then spread over it ¾ cup orange marmalade or jam before topping with whipped cream.

More Cream Pie Winners.

Of course you'll want to know how to change this basic cream pie recipe into the kind of chocolate pie that makes the eye glisten and the mouth water.

Here's the trick: Just melt 2 ounces (squares) of unsweetened chocolate over hot water, and add this to the hot milk before stirring in the cornstarch. Then remember to use ¼ cup more sugar than the basic recipe calls for.

For coconut cream pie, add ¾ cup canned, moist coconut to the filling (or grated, fresh coconut). And sprinkle another ¼ cup coconut over meringue before baking. Most people, I find, like the flavor of lemon extract, rather than vanilla, in this kind of pie.

Coffee cream pie (served very cold) is another delicious variation. For this, substitute 2 cups strong, black coffee for 2 cups of the milk in basic recipe. Top with whipped cream.

Since space is up, I'll have to continue this story of the cream pie family in my newest bulletin, "How to Have Cream Pies Just Right." As this name implies, the bulletin contains further hints on crust and meringues and fillings. And recipes for orange, butterscotch, caramel cream pie. And a special kind of chocolate pie that's served to New York's elite daily in a Fifth avenue tea room. In case you hanker for fame via the cream pie route, this bulletin is your best bet.

IF June 20 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 5:50 to 7:30 a. m., from 3:30 p. m. to 4:50 p. m. and from 6:30 p. m. to 7:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 12 noon to 1:15 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9:30 p. m.

The child born on this June 20 will lead a normal and healthy life as a child and will carry on successfully into any field of work which it may select. Quiet, mild-mannered and frank of countenance, it will have many friends. Will hold a grudge a long time.

If June 20 is the date of your birth, you are quite likely the type of person who seems always involved in some kind of difficulty; you are too kind-hearted, too desirous of helping, for your own good. You must learn to be firm and to say "No" and mean it instead of always saying "Yes" to other people's demands just to keep peace and have them think you are a good fellow.

If June 20 is your birthday, you must be careful in the choice of a mate. Find one that will appreciate your good points and not take advantage of you and make excessive demands. One who is jealous will not suit you, for your genuine and wholesome interest in all people, and of both sexes, would be difficult for such a one to comprehend. You will take great pleasure in your home, your mate and your children; the latter will mean a great deal to you and you will relive your own childhood through your little ones.

Successful people born on June 20: Daniel McCook, lawyer and soldier. John T. Morgan, senator from Alabama. Benjamin H. Bristow, soldier.

An electric cooker, large enough to cook a ham or a large roast and two or three vegetables at the same time, may be plugged into any electric outlet. The food may be partially cooked, then the cooker disconnected, and the whole utensil, food and all, be placed in a car for a motor trip so that a balanced, warm meal, rather than picnic food, may be served to the travelers. The insulated walls of the cooker hold the heat and protect users from burns. This convenient electric device is no larger than a 3-gallon pail. It may be used as an oven through the summer when the housewife dislikes to prepare oven-cooked dishes.

A casserole feature of a new type electric hot plate is proving interesting to customers. A porcelain enamel casserole, shaped like an old-fashioned bean pot, fits into an insulated container, blanketed with mineral wool, in a two-burner hot plate. Three heat switches control the two burners. For keeping the home kitchen cool, or for use in a small space, or for the summer cottage, this two-burner casserole hot plate should recommend itself to the homemaker.

Washable white leather gloves are perforated to give a cool, lace-like effect. For weddings and other special occasions, white chamoisette gloves with three scalloped circular organdy frills suggest themselves. Black silk lace makes mits for the quaintly frilled frocks so favored this summer. Brown or black polkadots on white dimity make fashionable new wash gloves. All such swanky gloves are to be found in an F street shop well known for its satisfactory gloves.

Plenty of individuality in a summer gown is purchasable with an evening frock of white pique with large red dots. It has a pleated peplum and narrow neck and arm frills of white chintz.

A red and white silk print jacket dress for $6.95 seemed to the Meanderer to be a colorful, economical summer street costume. A white linen suit for $5.95, with a red plaid gingham blouse, will win a place in a smart girl's summer wardrobe, unless she decides upon a white crepe silk suit, pin-striped in brown and tailored with an air of good taste.

For that inviting pause for cold drinks, an enameled tray in green or yellow, holding four glasses of matching color in holders of the metal tray, is a convenient accessory. This costs just $1, complete. A chromium and black tray holding four coasters, also $1, is ready for the beverage glasses already in the cupboard.

Washable silk suits, trimmed with Bovay embroidery, selling for $10.95 in a shop on Eleventh street, seemed interesting for summer afternoon wear. In this shop a number of attractive frocks are priced at $3.90, while others at $5.90 are finding many buyers.

A folding table, on which fits a brass tray and a cigarette box, an ash tray and a match box, sells complete for $1.95 in an F street gift shop. Imported crockery beer mugs sell there for 25 cents each.

"Swizzlers"—or implements for stirring tall drinks—are made of chromium and shaped like golf sticks and sell very cheaply in the gift shop just mentioned. Copper beer mugs with approved linings are only 39 cents each in this shop.

Stocks Advance 5.7 Points On U. S. Stand for Inflation

New York, June 19 (A.P.).—With the dollar again weak, financial markets pushed ahead with vigor today as it became clear that the Government did not intend to interrupt its program of rising prices with any immediate move for currency control or stabilization.

On the theory that inflation was still the order of the day, stocks zoomed upward with a buoyancy reminiscent of earlier stages of their bull market, closing with many net gains of 2 to 9 points.

The Standard Statistics-Associated Press average for 90 stocks closed at 84.8, up 5.7 net, compared with last Monday's high for the year of 86.5. The composite advance, however, was the largest since March 15. Turnover was 5,485,336 shares, a smaller amount of business than has been done in many rising markets. Trading was active at the opening and again at the close; there were interim periods of comparative dullness when profits were being taken.

Speculators devoted much attention to industrial favorites, figuring, no doubt, that with the Government committed to expenditure of huge sums for rehabilitation of business, those companies were likely to benefit soonest.

It was, however, rather hard to find laggards anywhere in the list, for rails and utilities were notably strong.

Case jumped 9 points, American Telephone, Du Pont, Johns-Manville, National Distillers, U. S. Smelting, Western Union and Union Pacific 6 to more than 7. U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Santa Fe, Louisville & Nashville, American Can, Westinghouse, Bethlehem, Allied Chemical, Consolidated Gas, American & Foreign Power, New York Central, Mack Trucks, United Aircraft, Delaware & Hudson, Dome Mines and McIntyre, among others, 3 to around 5.

What the Stock Market Did

	Mon.	Sat.
Advances	773	469
Declines	43	123
Unchanged	47	118
Total issues	863	710

Stocks.

Prospect of continued inflation caused stocks to advance 5.7 points. A weaker dollar also aided the rise. Sales totaled 5,485,336 shares.

Bonds.

Inflationary psychology also gave bonds an upward push. Secondary rails were popular. The list of 60 made an average gain of five-tenths of a point. Sales increased to $15,087,000.

Curb.

Prices moved upward along a broad front. Leaders regained lost ground. Transfers for the session approximated 770,000 shares.

Wheat.

Damages to United States and Canadian crops and inflation outlook sent wheat and all grains to higher ground. July wheat sold at 76⅝ to 76¾ cents.

Cotton.

Cotton acreage news and renewed buying advanced cotton 27 to 32 points. July sold at 9.23; October, 9.50. Liverpool reported good trade buying.

CURB MOVES HIGHER ALONG BROAD FRONT

New York, June 19 (A.P.).—The curb market moved forward on a broad front today, with leaders retracing a goodly part of the ground lost in last week's reaction.

Prices were higher from the initial dealings and worked steadily upward in moderate trading, to close with advances ranging from 1 to more than 5 points.

Columbia Gas & Electric preferred soared 12 points. Gulf and Humble Oil were leading performers among petroleum shares, with advances of 4 and 5 points, respectively.

Among investment trust shares, Atlas closed nearly 2 points higher. Transfers approximated 770,000 shares compared with 910,000 last Friday.

Hop Prices Quiet.

Steel Operations Expected To Set Record This Week

(From the Magazine Steel.)

Cleveland, Ohio, June 19.—Steelworks operations continue to make good headway, with a rise of another point to 49 per cent last week, and are expected to reach 50 per cent this week, for the first time since April, 1931, states the magazine Steel.

In practically all leading production centers the upward momentum persists, though at a slower pace than in early June, and in no district is there a recession. Some of the more important gains for the week are 3 points to 79 per cent at Cleveland; 4 to 45 at Chicago; 4 to 37 at Buffalo, and 3½ to 28½ per cent in eastern Pennsylvania. Tin plate mill operations now are 90 to 95 per cent, with all independent mills in the Pittsburgh district at capacity.

All factors which have more than tripled the steelworks rate since March continue as vitalizing forces, and with further improvement in early prospect in some industries, steel makers are approaching the third quarter with more confidence than when they entered the second. July promises to set aside the traditional summer let-down in steel.

General expectation of price advances in third quarter is leading consumers to specify to the limit of second quarter contracts, which mills have until July 15 to complete.

Some of the leading steelmakers are willing to book new contracts for practically all their products, except sheets, for shipment before August 1, at present prices, with clauses giving them the right to revise in the event of wage or freight increases.

Pressure for steel is becoming more insistent from the automotive and miscellaneous manufacturing industries. More material is moving into Michigan automobile centers than at any time since the spring of 1931.

BONDS CLIMB AGAIN ON RAILWAY ISSUES

New York, June 19 (A.P.).—Spurred by a renewal of inflationary psychology, secondary issues today rallied for gains of 1 to 4 or more points in the bond market.

The more speculative loan categories closely followed stocks as the dollar declined sharply in foreign exchange markets on intimations that Washington was not in agreement with currency stabilization at the present rates. United States Government securities were dull and mixed and foreign obligations moved uncertainly.

The trading volume expanded to $15,087,000, par value, and the average for 60 domestic corporate bonds advanced half a point.

U. S. TREASURY RECEIPTS.

(Associated Press.)

Treasury receipts for June 16 were $58,744,151.49; expenditures, $45,930,868.37; balance, $998,531,084.53. Customs duties for 16 days of June were $11,871,301.31.

TRADE TRENDS.

(Associated Press.)

Coal—Bituminous production continues to run considerably above the rate a year ago, but spot prices are easier, according to trade advices.

Dyestuffs—Active operations in rayon and other textile branches are contributing to a good demand for colors. Inquiry from some divisions of the leather industry is said to be more active than a few weeks ago.

Linen—Dealers report a continued scarcity of dress goods and men's suitings, the supply available for immediate delivery being small.

Work clothing—Manufacturers of work shirts are reported well supplied with orders and unwilling to place more on their books pending removal of present uncertainties respecting goods prices.

SILK MARKET.

New York, June 19 (A.P.).—Raw silk futures closed strong; sales, 194 bales. July, 2.06e; October, 2.07@2.08; December, 2.07e. Open market quotations (60-day basis). WHEAT VALUES RISE IN BUOYANT TRADING Speculative Buying Boosts Prices; Other Grains Join Advance.

Chicago, June 19 (A.P.).—Skyward flights of grain values today whirled wheat and corn markets up a maximum of 3¼ cents a bushel and shattered numerous high-price records.

Broadened speculative buying resulted from renewal of inflation talk, but the outstanding factor as to grain damage to spring wheat as a result of four successive days of approximate 100-degree temperatures. Some crop authorities said hopes for a 1933 big yield of spring wheat had been abandoned.

Crop Damage Is Aid.

Severe damage both of American and Canadian spring wheat was reported, and indications pointed to only slight relief from high temperatures and dearth of adequate moisture.

Prices jumped as soon as trading began, and there was at no time any important reaction. In addition to wheat crop damage northwest, particular notice was taken of a jump of 7 points in British exchange, with bulges in stocks and cotton at New York contributing constant fresh stimulus.

Winnipeg messages said weather conditions in Canada were very disturbing, as never before had the prairie provinces experienced such heat during June. Simultaneously, advices covering wide areas in the Dakotas and Minnesota were emphatic in assertions of heavy and irreparable damage to spring wheat. Some observers in the Jim River Valley, South Dakota, reported wheat an almost complete failure.

Abnormal heat accompanied lack of moisture in the corn belt as well as in the spring wheat States. Serious damage to oats, rye and barley was reported, with corn beginning to suffer. December corn sold at the highest level since 1931, and oats the highest since 1930.

(Associated Press.)

London—Trading on the stock exchange was quiet pending the outcome of discussions at the World Economic Conference. Transatlantic issues were bright features reflecting the opening advance in Wall street and the depreciation of the dollar. Oil and rubber shares improved, while German bonds lost their early gains. Other sections moved narrowly and the closing tone was quiet.

Paris—The upward movement of international shares strengthened French securities, particularly electric, chemical and metal issues. Rentes weakened. The closing was firm.

Berlin—Prices were unsettled on the bourse today, but some issues improved slightly.

COTTON PRICES RISE ON RENEWED BUYING

July Sells at 9.23 With General Market Up 27 to 32 Points.

New York, June 19 (A.P.).—Announcement of cotton acreage retirement plans by the Secretary of Agriculture was accompanied by a partial mid-day reaction from sharp morning advances in cotton today, but the market fully recovered its losses and advanced to new highs for the day in the later trading.

Buying was attributed to reported opposition of the administration to currency stabilization plans that might interfere with advances in American prices. October contracts closed at 9.50. Final prices were very steady at net advances of 27 to 32 points.

The market opened 19 to 26 points higher in sympathy with relatively higher Liverpool cables and weakness of the dollar in foreign exchanges. The trade, commission houses, Liverpool and the Continent were the principal buyers, while contracts were relatively scarce with Southern selling limited.

Rallies on Covering.

With the announcement of the agricultural administration on cotton control scheduled for publication at noon, the market was nervous, but prices rallied to net advances of 26 to 31 points on covering and speculative support.

Prices quickly reacted about 19 to 23 points, July sold off from 9.24 to 9.05 and October from 9.85 to 9.42.

The market rallied on renewed speculative support promoted by firmness of stocks and grains. July rallied to 9.25, and December to 9.67, or to net gains of 29 to 33 points, with final prices at or within a few point of the best.

Wait on Acreage Action.

Following the midday reaction, traders were inclined to await results of an intensive campaign by the Department of Agriculture starting next week to enlist farmers in the acreage reduction campaign.

In the meantime, attention was centered on renewed talk of domestic inflation, owing to failure of Washington to subscribe to currency stabilization plans.

Liverpool cables reported quiet condition but with good trade buying and little offering pending acreage announcement. Manchester reported a good demand for cloth. Exports today, 16,836, making 7,603,100 so far this season. Port receipts, 9,030. U. S. port stocks, 3,640,079.

EASTMAN LAUNCHES RAIL WAGE EFFORT

He Will Confer Today With Labor and Executives' Chiefs on Problem.

(Associated Press.)

The administration yesterday stepped into the railroad wage situation in an effort to bring about agreement between the carriers and their employes.

Joseph B. Eastman, coordinator of transportation, acting "unofficially," will confer here this morning with leaders of the Railway Labor Executive Association. In the afternoon he will meet the committee of executives handling the situation for the railroads.

The administration action was formally disclosed yesterday through announcement by Eastman.

"I shall confer tomorrow," said Eastman, "in Washington with representatives of railroad labor in regard to the wage situation.

Step Is Unofficial.

"This will not be done in my capacity as Federal coordinator of transportation, for the law gives the coordinator no authority over wage controversies, but will be done unofficially in the hope of promoting results which will be in the general public interest."

The railroad union representatives meeting in Chicago last week adjourned on Saturday to meet in Washington today.

There were indications that the union chiefs were requested by administration officials to come to Washington. At the same time an invitation was sent to W. F. Thiehoff, general manager of the Burlington Railroad, who is chairman of the carriers committee, for his committee to meet here at the same time.

The railroads last week notified the unions that on November 1, when the present agreement reducing railroad wages 10 per cent expires, the railroads will continue the 10 per cent cut and in addition impose another 12½ per cent reduction.

Brotherhoods Firm.

Brotherhood officials immediately asserted that they would not consent to any wage cuts and yesterday afternoon, at Cleveland, A. F. Whitney, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives Association, renewed this assertion.

The Eastman move was understood to have been directed by President Roosevelt before he left on his vacation trip. At that time White House comment on the railroad proposal was withheld with the word that some news might be forthcoming this week.

The Eastman move followed closely behind President Roosevelt's request that business houses refrain from further wage reductions and increase wages as rapidly as possible. Eastman, a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, added the duties of Federal coordinator of transportation last Friday to his other tasks.

Wage Reductions Barred.

He is forbidden under the law to take any steps that would result in wage reductions or reduction of personnel but he is without authority in the present instance.

Should the administration efforts fail at this time the normal procedure would be for one side or the other to call in the United States Mediation Board. If this board was unable to bring employe and employed to an agreement, an appeal would be made to the President by the side feeling most aggrieved.

Then a special commission would be appointed by the President to report within 60 days. When this report reached the President its findings would be made public.

Regardless, however, of its findings, the commission would not have authority to enforce its ruling upon either side.

Boat Ruled Seaworthy; 1915 Sinking Killed 834

Chicago, June 19 (A.P.).—Eighteen years after the excursion steamer Eastland sank with the loss of 834 lives in the Chicago River, a special naval commissioner decided today that the boat was seaworthy except for improper distribution of water ballast.

The commissioner, Lewis F. Mason, reported to the Federal Court that water tanks on the port side were full and those on the starboard side practically empty, contributing to the overturning of the boat, crowded with holiday excursionists starting a cruise on Lake Michigan. Mason's report recommended, in effect, that no claims be allowed for damage suits growing out of the disaster.

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

THE legend of the comedian's always yearning to play tragedy and the tragedian's incessant urge to appear in farce is, of course, to be numbered among the imperishable traditions of the theater. No more fantastic than this unaccountable impulse on the part of established mimes to desert their habitual grooves, however, is the case of a popular writer who reversed every previous concept of his proper metier in the last fling he took at creating a fable for the screen.

Richard Barthelmess

No one ever looked to the late Wilson Mizner for sociological profundities or any very penetrating study of the more abstruse problems by which mankind is perpetually and unremittingly harassed. He was the prankster, the practical joker, the smart-cracker and the Broadway clown, whether he happened to be on Broadway at the moment or not.

Prize fight stories, tales of the circus lots, the seamy side of life, the grifters and the underdogs, yes; serious excursions into the perplexities of average human life, not for him!

Yet, as if to confound those who thought they appraised him most accurately and to leave one creation that might be interpreted as an earnest of the serious things of which he was capable, in his last effort for the cameras and microphones he left a drama deeply moving, romantic, tragic and powerful in its tug at the heartstrings.

This valedictory, which "Bill" Mizner wrote in collaboration with Robert Lord, no stranger to his joint labors, bears the title of "Heroes for Sale" and is Richard Barthelmess' latest vehicle.

The story is of such substance that in addition to its star it enlists the rich and varied talents of Aline MacMahon, now demonstrating her versatility in "Gold Diggers of 1933," at the Metropolitan; Loretta Young, Gordon Westcott, Berton Churchill, Grant Mitchell, Charles Grapewin, Robert McWade, Margaret Seddon, with the "Anchors Aweigh" unit now working at Annapolis, Md.; Willard Robertson and Robert Elliott, among many others.

The forewords that reach this desk in advance of the coming of the picture lead to the belief that it vividly bears out many of the contentions that have been advanced from platform and pulpit as well as in the press.

Realistic fiction this—frank, outspoken and perhaps at times a little bitter—providing a graphic pictorial recital of the denouement of the lives of many who were the heroes of 1917-18. Strong dramatic meat, this, according to all report.

And to think that "Bill" Mizner, oracle of the Gay White Way, mouthpiece of the wisecrackers and president of the "Four o'Clock in the Morning Club," of all people, should have written it!

Only those few who knew him best will not be astonished.

Much discussion has been aroused in New York by the unsoftened horror of war as it is depicted in "Forgotten Men," which, I believe, comes to the Metropolitan Theater in this city following the run of "Gold Diggers."

Some contend that a film so vividly depicting the most abhorrent aspects of armed conflict should not be offered as mass entertainment; others, that no more eloquent indictment of systematized slaughter could be devised than is afforded by this authentic record of the Great War, assembled from over 150,000 feet of official celluloid reposing in the archives of 14 of the participating nations.

"Forgotten Men," it comes to the knowledge of this department, sufficiently particularizes in the matters of filth, hardship and suffering to prompt the organization of a new veterans' society, which is known by the name of the "Society of Forgotten Men." It was founded by the eight veterans representing seven nations who inspired the making of the film, with the frank purpose of spreading propaganda on behalf of the "forgotten man" who has never been able to regain all of what he lost in the trenches.

It is not impossible that "Forgotten Men" might engage more favorable attention as commercialized entertainment were its exhibitions not stigmatized in advance by deliberate advocacy of a "cause."

Having observed the newsreel shots of the Messrs. Jack Sharkey and Primo Carnera in their placid endeavors to perfect themselves in the gentle art of busting beezers and torpedoing torsos, each for the benefit of the other, I am constrained to believe that Mr. Sharkey will discover that he is not facing a set-up when he squares off against the abundant Signor Carnera in the Madison Square Garden bowl on Long Island a week from Thursday night.

Mr. Sharkey is not pulling his punches in his training camp workouts, but neither is the prodigious Primo, and it is my private notion that if he should happen to tag Mr. Sharkey on the button with one of those anvils he carries around for fists, Mr. Sharkey probably would think he had sat down under a pile-driver—or something.

Of course, there interposes the minor matter of catching Mr. Sharkey in a position to tag him on the button—but stranger things have happened.

Among the more enjoyable incidents of a busy Monday were pleasant calls yesterday afternoon from Jane Morley, the psychic, who is amazing interrogators as a feature of the current floor show on the Club Michel Marine roof, accompanied by Erle Wright, one of United Artists' ace exploiteers, and Earle Mossman and Princess Bolea, who are briefly renewing an old partnership at the Roma Gardens, out Rockville Pike way.

Miss Morley, by the way, seems to get rather deeper into the factual in her baffling divinations than Gene Dennis ever succeeded in doing with this particularly vacuous subject. And the Princess Bolea, since you ask, is one of those rare beauties who can part her raven hair in the middle and comb it severely down over her ears and still look like a million—and wearing smoked glasses, at that!

Afterthoughts on a week-end "about the showshops": In addition to the close-ups of Sharkey and Carnera, the newsreels show comprehensive views of the bestowal of the doctorate upon President Roosevelt at Catholic University last Wednesday and present, also, his explanation of this country's stand on the international debt question. . . Not in the same flashes, however. . . The graduation exercises at West Point come in for their share of attention, too . . . And the Prince of Wales is not overlooked, either. . . In "India Speaks," a good many of us could do without that sequence in which the horse screeches his way down the rocky mountainside to his death. . . If that is entertainment, so is a morning at an abattoir. . . And Richard Halliburton really should have looked at the picture more carefully before he undertook to describe it . . . The sun-gazer, who has stared at the sun steadily since its rising in the morning, blinks once just before and once again just after Mr. Halliburton says that he has stared at it for hours without blinking at all!. . . Nevertheless, you will learn from Mr. Halliburton that it is pronounced "Hima-la-ya," long "a" and accent on third syllable, and not "He-moll-ya," as some would have us believe. . . Meaning the mountain range in crossing which he attained an altitude of 19,000 feet. . . And, no doubt, a cold reaction of two feet!. . . The falcon used in the demonstration of the ancient sport of falconry is a full-grown and ornery-looking eagle, about the size of four ordinary hawks . . . Setting him on a pigeon is approximately like sicking a piece of round steak on a meat grinder!

Speaking of newsreels, as we seem to have been for a long time now, the current issue of Paramount Sound News is the beneficiary of one of the most unusual bits of ballyhoo that has come to light in recent months.

It seems that out in Bladensburg one "Slim" Jones has been buried alive for some 50 days or so, in a specially built "coffin" that is equipped with both electric lights and telephone.

He is said to receive several hundred calls a day asking how he is doing and one thing and another. To all of which he replies that the smart thing for the inquirer to do would be to go to the Columbia or Metropolitan in Washington and see for himself.

Paramount made a news shot of "Slim," who declares that he is going to double his own world record of 39 days of living burial before he abandons his present stunt. Naturally, "Slim" is not kidding about this.

A very grave young man, Mr. Jones!

The Cinema

COLUMBIA

"WHEN LADIES MEET." M-G-M picturization of Rachel Crothers' play, starring Ann Harding and Robert Montgomery, with Myrna Loy, Frank Morgan, Alice Brady and Morton Burton. Directed by Harry Beaumont.

Translating Rachel Crothers' delightful stage play into slightly simpler terms than would seem necessary in view of the present character of cinema audiences, this interesting picture, with its deftly turned dramatic situations and gay banter, yesterday at the Columbia, resumed, after a two-day interval, the triumphant run which received its initial impulse from enthusiastic crowds at the Palace last week.

As is by now common knowledge, Miss Crothers in this comedy-drama merely reversed the gender of the story she had already told on the stage in "As Husbands Go," leaving it to a wife and sweetheart—unknown to each other for almost too long—to determine between themselves just what ought to be done about the man with whom both were in love.

Precisely what they did do is not made quite so clear in the screen version as it was upon the stage.

However, devotees of the screen will find much to engage their admiration in the deportment of such favorites as Ann Harding, Robert Montgomery and Myrna Loy in the principal roles. Miss Harding and Miss Loy acquit themselves with especial credit.

Of Frank Morgan, in the role of husband and lover, and Alice Brady, as the rattlebrained and prattling Bridgie Drake, not quite so much can be said. Mr. Morgan is not so judiciously cast as usual and Miss Brady permits her ebullience rather to run away with her in a part that is meant to be amusing instead of merely annoying.

The production is a handsome one that reveals a considerable elaboration of scene over anything the play was able to accomplish scenically on the stage.

Supplementary sound subjects, including a new issue of the Paramount News, augment a program which has emphatically caught on with the cash customers.

THREE STATES HOLD REPEAL VOTE TODAY

(Associated Press.)

Connecticut, Iowa and New Hampshire vote today on the question of abolition or retention of the eighteenth amendment.

To date, the score is: repeal forces, 11 States; prohibition forces, none. Thirty-six States must ratify the proposed repeal amendment to end prohibition.

In Iowa, B. N. Cowin, cochairman of the Iowa repeal for prosperity committee, said:

"Our victory at the polls depends upon whether 500,000 Iowans vote. If that many vote we will win. If less than 400,000 vote we fear defeat."

For the "drys," Dr. J. W. Graves predicted that if Iowa holds to the eighteenth amendment, the Nation will.

Connecticut did not ratify the eighteenth amendment.

In New Hampshire the campaign was carried by both sides into the eve of the election.

States that already have voted, all for repeal, are:

Reach for a Lucky

Well—here's why I enjoy Luckies
Somehow, I have always felt that it takes a really fine cigarette to please a man. And since many of the men whose judgment I value smoke Luckies... I reach for a Lucky, too. True, I enjoy Luckies' fine tobacco quality and their delicious mildness. But my real reason is perhaps a trifle feminine. Men may not appreciate this as much as a sensitive woman—but I'm particularly grateful to "Toasting" for that comforting assurance of purity. I've talked to many women about this—remember, a cigarette becomes an intimate thing with us, we place it between our lips. And so, perhaps, because I am a woman this is my woman's reason for always saying "Luckies Please!"

NATS WIN, YANKS LOSE; LEAD CUT TO HALF GAME

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

St. Louis, Mo. June 19.

He may have slowed up in the field, he may be trailing in the home-run race, he may be thinking of retirement in slippered ease, but Babe Ruth still continues to pack 'em in.

The Yankees have set attendance records for the season in five different cities this year, and there is a well-founded suspicion that the Babe had a helluva of a lot to do with it. It's nothing new. The turnstiles have been clicking to the tune of Ruth's magnetic appeal to the fans of the Nation ever since he hit those 29 home runs for the Red Sox back in 1918.

I trust I am not going overboard in giving Ruth the bulk of the credit for those five record turnouts this season. He's with a first-place club that is a natural attraction, but the evidence is still heavily in his favor.

Fans Pay to Both Cheer and Boo.

The fans pay to see Ruth—to see him hit those home runs and to see him strike out with the gusto that no other performer can muster. They pay to see him waddle up to the plate—to boo him and to cheer him. His every action rewards the fans, for they can lift the high hurrahs in hero worship when he knocks the ball out of the lot, and they can jeer when he fails. In any event, they're satisfied. No other man has as great a racket in success or failure as Ruth.

Billy Evans will tell you they pay to see the Babe. Three years ago when Ruth was stricken with appendicitis in the West and was unable to appear in Cleveland, the general manager of the Indians declared that his absence cost the Cleveland Club $15,000 in cancelled reservations. Wotta tribute.

Evans tells still another story. On the Yankees' last appearance in a double header in Cleveland, the fans paid thousands of dollars in old large-size bills to see the Babe. These hoarders apparently go to ball games only when Ruth's in town. It ought to get him a congressional medal for encouraging spending.

Bambino Must Be the Answer.

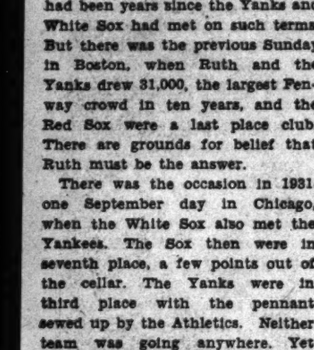
Ruth and Company played to 88,395 in Chicago yesterday. Of course, the White Sox were a third place club and looking up and it had been years since the Yanks and White Sox had met on such terms. But there was the previous Sunday in Boston, when Ruth and the Yanks drew 31,000, the largest Fenway crowd in ten years, and the Red Sox were a last place club. There are grounds for belief that Ruth must be the answer.

There was the occasion in 1931, one September day in Chicago, when the White Sox also met the Yankees. The Sox then were in seventh place, a few points out of the cellar. The Yanks were in third place with the pennant sewed up by the Athletics. Neither team was going anywhere. Yet 51,000 turned out for a single game. There must be a reason.

Chisox Fail But Ruth Does Not.

The reason is Ruth. Baseball men will tell you that. Tommy Thomas, the former White Sox pitcher now with the Nats, tells how the White Sox preceded the Yankees through the South in the spring of 1928 on the way North for the start of the season. Crowds of 800 and 900 turned out for the Chisox's games with the home talent on the barnstorming trip. Following them along the same route a few days later, Ruth and the Yanks played to gatherings of 8,000 and 10,000 in the same towns. It all depends, as the saying goes.

It may be because the Babe is with a pennant contender. And it may not. After the season ended in 1931, when the A's won their last pennant, Ruth took Lou Gehrig and several minor leaguers across the country on a barnstorming tour. The fans weren't paying to see the Yankees then. And they must have paid a plenty to see Ruth. Because when the Bambino paid Lou Gehrig off at the end of the tour, Gehrig had received more for three weeks with Ruth than the Yankees had paid him all season. And the Yanks had paid him $25,000. It just goes to show.



Big Carnera Seen Fistic Bankrupt

Day's Work Against Sparring Partners Reveals Little.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

POMPTON LAKE, N. J., June 19 (A.P.).—Primo Carnera, the big bankrupt from Italy, gamboled happily about under the trees of his training camp today, technically in contact with his sparring partners, but actually doing little that was impressive in preparation for his fifteen-round title chance against Jack Sharkey June 29.

Freer of financial worries through legal appeal to the law, the vast Venetian put his fistic assets on display for six rounds of punching with Harold Mays, Bayonne, N. J., heavyweight; Les Kennedy, of California, and a clownish Negro named Umberto Arsi, labeled the champion of Puerto Rico.

On the basis of the day's efforts the assembled experts, as far as they could see his chances against Sharkey, promptly petitioned him into fistic bankruptcy.

Is in Good Physical Condition.

Weighing 261 pounds, less than his massive frame ever has carried before a fight, Carnera appeared in marvelous physical condition, but with his punching equipment little improved over the last time he fought Sharkey, almost two years ago. Medical treatment has diminished the varicose veins from his tree-trunk legs. Steady application to his boxing lessons has improved his stance, and his ponderous left-hand jab. His muscles are bigger than ever and his speed is astounding for such a tremendous creature.

Was Doing Well for Five Rounds.

Two years ago Primo was doing all right with Sharkey for five rounds until the champion switched to a weaving attack that nonplussed the Italian, left him open for one knockdown, and brought him a sturdy thumping through the last ten rounds of that engagement.

Carnera stabbed Mays' nose through two rounds enough to make it bleed, outpointed Arsi through another pair in a mild display and finished off pushing Kennedy around for two more. He worked four more rounds on the light and heavy bags.

He did the latter work indoors, as a breeze sprung up and further exposure was considered dangerous to his constitution.

Cards' Team May Shift to Montreal

Canadian Newspaper Says Transfer of Club Is Pending.

Ball Willing to Free Contract for Park, Is Report.

MONTREAL, Que., June 19 (A.P.).—The Montreal Gazette tomorrow will say that plans now are under way for the transfer of the St. Louis Cardinal National League franchise to Montreal. Recent reports have been to the effect that the St. Louis Browns, American League franchise might be brought here, but the newspaper will say negotiations now definitely are concerned with the Cardinals.

"The situation appears to be this" the Gazette will say. "Owner Phil Ball, of the St. Louis Browns and also owner of Sportsman's Park, St. Louis, is willing to release the Cardinals from their lease, believing the City of St. Louis can no longer support two major league ball clubs.

Browns Have Big Investment.

"The Browns and Sportsman's Park represent an investment of $850,000 and Owner Ball figures he has too much tied up in his project at St. Louis to move elsewhere. However, he is willing to free the Cardinals from their contract.

"Leo Dandurand and Joe Cattarinich (Montreal sportsmen) who were the first to make the move to bring major league ball here have been in touch with Cardinal officials and it is believed the National League franchise could be obtained if the local sportsmen were able to make satisfactory arrangements with the Montreal Exhibition Co., which owns the local stadium."

Lou Gehrig, Yanks, To Wed Chicagoan

Chicago, June 19 (A.P.).—Lou Gehrig, the New York Yankees' home run hitting first baseman, today confirmed reports of his engagement to Miss Eleanor Twichell, of Chicago.

After declining to say anything since the Yanks came to Chicago last Saturday, Gehrig gave out the information today and posed with Miss Twichell for photographers. He also socked his sixteenth homer of the season in the eighth inning at the expense of Ed Durham, White Sox right-hander.

Lally Leads Qualifiers In Pittsburgh With 131

Pittsburgh, June 19 (A.P.).—Two scoring rounds—63—68 for a 36-hole total of 131—today gave Francis Lally, veteran local golfer, medalist honors in the Pittsburgh sectional qualifying round for the national public links championship tournament. Par on the Oakland course, where the matches were played, is 66.

Carl Kauffman, there-time winner of the national title, failed to qualify by one stroke, his chances being wrecked when the wind took his ball out of bounds on the one-shot No. 14 hole.

Others qualifying for the six places awarded this district are: Tom Barr, 133; Johnny Pasikowski, 134; Marty Boschert, 134; Jerome Bosenberg, 134, and Andy Szwedka, 135.

GIANTS AGAIN WHITEWASH CUBS, 3-0

Schumacher Turns in His Fifth Shutout of Season.

NEW YORK, June 19 (A.P.).—Harold Schumacher, pitching his fifth shutout of the season, today blanked the Chicago Cubs with three hits to give the New York Giants their second consecutive victory over the National League champions. The score was 3 to 0.

The Giants made four errors and Shumacher gave four bases on balls, but the 21-year-old St. Lawrence College graduate was effective in the pinches. Three double plays also helped him out of as many tight places, a double killing in the ninth with the bases filled ending the Cubs' last threat.

Charley Root, who opposed Schumacher, pitched good enough to win most ball games but he had two bad innings, the first and the eighth, in which the Giants scored all their runs.

Lefty O'Doul Leads at Bat.

The Terrymen, with Lefty O'Doul leading the attack with three of their seven hits, scored once in the opening round on successive singles by Critz, O'Doul and Ott and added two more runs in the eighth when Schumacher, O'Doul and Verges produced hits. Verges's hit was a double, one of the two extra base hits of the game. Jurges hit the other, a two-bagger for the Cubs.

In winning his seventh game of the season, Schumacher gave the Giants' mound staff its tenth shutout of the season. The victory also increased the number of successive innings in which the opposition has not scored on the Giants to 26.

INDIANS BOW TO RED SOX BY 5 TO 2

Pipgras Gives 5 Hits; Warstler's Homer Nets 3 Runs.

CLEVELAND, June 19 (A.P.).—George Pipgras' five-hit pitching and "Rabbit" Warstler's home run enabled the Boston Red Sox to down the Cleveland Indians, 5 to 2, today.

Warstler's circuit drive in the fifth with two runners ahead of him was a line smash to center that Averill tried unsuccessfully to trap on the dead run. Clint Brown was the losing pitcher, although the Sox got two more in the ninth.

Gehrig Takes Homer Lead by Slamming 16th of Season.

Charley Berry Stars at Bat for Chicago in 10-Hit Attack.

CHICAGO, June 19 (A.P.).—The New York Yankees' lead in the American League was reduced to one-half a game today as the Chicago White Sox humbled the world champions and their ace pitcher, "Lefty" Gomez, 4 to 3, while the second-place Senators were trimming the Browns.

Five solid hits off the Yanks' ace southpaw in the fourth inning scored all of the Pale Hose runs and when they started out as if to repeat the bombardment in the fifth, Danny MacFayden was rushed to the mound. MacFayden and Walter Brown held the Sox in check the rest of the way, but Ed Durham also was effective, except in the eighth.

Lou Gehrig put the Yankees back in a threatening position in the eighth with his sixteenth home run of the season, hit into the lower deck of the center-field pavilion with Ben Chapman on base, but the veteran Red Faber came in to pitch the ninth for the tiring Durham and kept the Yanks in line.

Joe Sewell Gets Three Hits.

The Yankees got seven hits, three of them by Joe Sewell, while Charley Berry, with a triple and two singles, led the Sox ten-hit attack.

Babe Ruth was out of the Yankee starting line-up for the first time this season, being confined to his bed because of illness, which forced his retirement in the second contest of yesterday's double-header. Dixie Walker was in his place in left field.

From .280 to .345 Within a Month, Is Manush's Feat

Special to The Washington Post.

St. Louis, Mo., June 19.—Above the roar of Washington base hits that are keeping the Nats in the thick of the pennant fight can be heard distinctly the hit-laden bat of Heinie Manush spreading destruction to all pitchers.

Manush's bat has been belching base hits in 23 consecutive games, sometimes one, sometimes two, more often three, often four and sometimes five. He is still 18 games shy of the record of George Sisler, who hit safely in 41 consecutive contests, but if Heinie's streak ends tomorrow they can't take away from him one of the greatest hitting stretches that any batter ever compiled in any league.

It is difficult to keep from growing maudlin about the big left fielder and his big bat. Those five hits in a row today would stir the admiration of 4 St. Louis Pitchers Are Pounded for 22 Bingles.

Manager and Manush Each Register Five Out of Six.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, St. Louis, Mo., June 19.—The Nats went slug-nutty with the heat today. It was terrific and so were the Nats. They went completely batty against four St. Louis pitchers and pounded out 22 base hits in a sustained fit of batting temper. But this evening they were resting comfortably a bit closer to the league-leading Yankees, who can feel their hot breaths now only a half-game away.

Washington's ordinarily sober young men also went on a home-run tear this afternoon. It must have been the heat, 'cause never before in recent seasons have the Nats warmed up to the extent of four homers in one afternoon performance. But they were an irresponsible lot today.

They beat the Browns, 10 to 4, and they did it with five runs scored on homers. Joe Kuhel planked one of Sam Gray's pitches into the right center pavilion in the third. Fred Schulte slammed one into left in the fourth. Joe Cronin smacked one to the open-faced stands in deep right center off Dick Coffman with Heinie Manush aboard in the fifth, and a moment later Dave Harris' towering fly reached the same spot.

Yankee Loss Spurs Nationals.

The Nats were bent on sock-cess today, especially after the scoreboard revealed that the Yankees had been knocked off by the White Sox and a victory would put them a full game closer to the lead.

They pounded Killefer's southpaw, Wally Hebert, out of there with three runs in the first inning and had the equivalent of a touchdown lead by the end of the fourth when Wally Stewart had a 7-to-0 advantage to work with.

Heinie Manush hit no home runs today. The best he could do was a triple. But he had a large afternoon notwithstanding. He rapped a single through the infield in his first time at bat to stretch his consecutive game hitting streak to 24, and then to leave no doubt about it he rapped out four more hits in his next four times at bat to give him a grand total of 5 out of 6 for the day, which was not bad, considering.

Joe Cronin did tolerably well, too. Weighed down by his managerial worries, he rapped out two singles, two

WRIGHT PILOTS NITUMA TO VICTORY AT LINCOLN FIELDS

Combs' Racer In Great Finish

LINCOLN FIELDS, Ill., June 19 (A. P.).—Coming from far back, S. S. Combs' Nituma conquered Col. E. R. Bradley's Algeria in the Flamingo Purse at Lincoln Fields today.

Algeria and Night Jasmine dominated the 6 furlongs event into the stretch when Jockey Wright shot Nituma up and came on to win by a length in 1:12. Night Jasmine finished third. The early pace setters staged a brilliant battle, but weakened in the last few strides to permit Nituma to win.

De Valera Aqueduct Winner.

Aqueduct Race Track, June 19 (A. P.).—One Dwyer candidate and four other 3-year-olds clashed in the Woodhaven Purse of 1 mile here this afternoon. Marshall Fields' Numbus, second in the Belmont Stakes and eligible for the mile and a half of the Classic to be decided here Saturday, could get no better than third in the field of five. H. C. Phipps' De Valera, 7-to-10 choice, led practically throughout and lasted to win by a half length from Mrs. Dodge Sloan's Inlander. The latter beat Nimbus by a length and a half. De Valera ran the 8 furlongs in 1:38 4-5.

Hank Mills put up a good ride on the winner. De Valera, which is noted for his high speed, was swung into command shortly after the start. Once and Numbus broke slowly, but Inlander surprised with his early foot, forcing the pace from the start. He drew up to within almost even terms with the leader turning for home, then swerved in. Numbus made a fairly strong bid in the closing stages, but was not good enough.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: LINCOLN FIELDS, June 18.

Westrope had his usual three-a-day and as usual sent the majority of the selectors downtown this evening with their tongues in their cheeks. We managed to salvage one lone winner, Cuirassier. However, I checked up tonight and found that Mrs. Bennings' lovely boy had thirteen of his seventeen picks, after the scratches, in the money. As much as I hate to bring this angle up, seven of the eight winners were among the one, two, three selections. Tomorrow is another day, even if it rains, and we shall try to put these over with the Bennings bang. BILL.

FIRST RACE—I'm going to a fast workout to try to get the winner of this juvenile. The clockers are raving over moves of TRANSCALL from the Cold Stream Stable. GENERAL PARTH has fair record and may be the one to press the top one. OWEN for the show.

SECOND RACE—MISCALCULATE did a lot of running on top of a good field the other day and drops back into a sprint that holds a lot of speed but one that I believe can be handled by this sharp racer. SONG HIT and BLACK COMET for the other money positions.

THIRD RACE—ESSE WESSIE exhibited a fine effort in Saturday's stake and off that, shapes up the best of these fillies. OLD LADY and COURLAND are ready for best races.

FOURTH RACE—SLAPSTICK to upset DESERT CALL and bring the boys a good price. Gets 10 pounds from the probable favorite and this way rigged might beat any man's horse. FANFERN is the show proposition.

FIFTH RACE—SUN DOT came out of the West to take a fine field in camp here, and I see no reason why the Church representative shouldn't make it two in a row. FANCOAST is the best of the others. REHOBOTH gets in with only 98 pounds and is speedy with light weight.

SIXTH RACE—ON SIR is capable of carrying top weight and defeating these, it is my belief. BROAD MEADOWS should make a battle of it from start to finish and will be ready if the top one makes mistakes. GYRO for the show end.

SEVENTH RACE—TACK is asked to pick up 115 pounds and seems capable of the task. LONESOME PINE is the dangerous one. CHAT EAGLE did some fair running hereabouts recently and will not surprise me by being in the money.

EIGHTH RACE—There are several possible Westrope mounts in this race, and I recommend the one he takes. GAILLARDIA, BATTLING ON and WATCH TOWER is the way I like them.

Phils End Losing Streak To Defeat Reds by 8 to 7

Philadelphia, June 19 (A.P.).—The Phils broke away from a five-game losing streak today, beating the Cincinnati Reds in the opening game of their series, 8 to 7.

Grantham's fumble of Klein's easy chance cleared the way for a 4-run rally in the seventh. Bottomley hit a home run with two on base in the fifth.

Course in Wrestling Planned by Clayton

Thompson B. Clayton, well-known local wrestling coach and former professional wrestler, has launched a summer wrestling course for Washington business and professional men under auspices of the Y. M. C. A.

A total of fifteen mat lessons will be given at the Central "Y" during the summer, classes meeting every Tuesday and Friday night at 7:30 o'clock. The instruction is free to all Y. M. C. A. members, it was announced by Ralph W. Foster, director of physical education.

Registration for the course already is under way at the basement office of the Y. M. C. A. physical department, 1736 G street northwest.

GALLAGHER UNDER KNIFE.

Marty Gallagher, Foggy Bottom's heavyweight, who has temporarily abandoned the ring for the beer business, will undergo an operation the latter part of this week for the removal of his tonsils. Gallagher has been bothered with his tonsils for some time.

Dodgers' Rally in Ninth Wins Over Cards, 6 to 5

The Cards moved into a long early lead off Hollis Thurston, but were unable to do much with Joe Schaute, who hurled the last six innings. The Dodgers scored twice in the third, when Danny Taylor hit a home run on the heels of a single by Thurston, and then tied the score with a three-run attack off Walker and Johnson in the fourth. Jess Haines was on the mound when Frederick and Jordan put together their hits for the winning tally.

Carnera to Beat Sharkey For Title, Says Kennedy

IF Les Kennedy's word means anything, and it should, for the big fellow called Max Baer's kayo victory over Schmeling, then Primo Carnera will assume all responsibility for the world heavyweight boxing championship on the night of June 29 at the Long Island bowl.

Writing from Pompton Lakes, N. J., where Carnera is training for his bout with the champion, Jack Sharkey, Kennedy says: "I am a long way from being an authority on picking fights, but I have at least a good spot to size 'em up. I pick Carnera to win by a decision and probably a kayo. The kayo will come in the last three rounds, if at all."

It will be recalled that Kennedy said Baer's K. O. punch would come in the latter stages of the fight. He gave some good reasons for picking Baer, and he has drawn some well-founded conclusions concerning the outcome of the championship scrap.

"Carnera has learned to snap his punches faster and his timing is much better," he writes. "He doesn't miss very often. The Italian is the fastest big man I've seen, but not as fast as Sharkey nor a great many of the smaller men. He has the advantage of a long recah and plenty of power.

"He has an almost perfect left jab which he follows with a terrific left hook. It comes sailing into you when you least expect it. Carnera doesn't have the killer instinct, but he is more vicious than I have ever seen him. At times he has a grouchy disposition and that's when his sparring partners really earn their dough. I haven't been able to find a weak point in his boxing, nor have any of the other boys. Apparently he doesn't have one.

"The big fellow is very confident and doesn't seem to mind the training grind. People annoy him asking for autographs and plying him with foolish questions. He gets a big kick out of 'ribbing' some one and it is his principal diversion. Garlic is a favorite delicacy. He takes it raw with no chaser. It helps the curious away, too."

Olsen Meets Fischer on Thursday

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

ALTHOUGH Promoter Joe Turner has listed two bouts to co-feature his weekly grunt and groan card on the Stadium mat Thursday night, with Dick Shikat meeting Paul Jones and Abe Coleman and Pat O'Shocker tangling themselves into knots, there is a preliminary bout listed which has a great chance of stealing the play from the scheduled high lights.

It is the half-hour limit affair which brings Swede Olsen and Eli Fischer into action. Both of the combatants are speedy and peppy youngsters who give all they have, with action their theme song.

Olsen made his local debut two weeks ago, tossing John Katan, and making hosts of friend while doing so. He may never advance high in his chosen profession, because he is not quite large enough to compete on even terms with most of the big bruisers in the game, but he is greased lightning on his feet and is a crowd-pleaser if there ever was one. Unlike his brothers of the mat, he is built like a real athlete with the usual muscle-bound effect entirely missing.

Fischer Former Grid Star.

Fischer is a former football star and is a go-getter. He is a Charley Paddock on his feet, knows what the game is all about and is one of those "nerve specialists" who keeps his opponent as well as the fans in an uproar—only for different reasons. He gets out of many a hold simply by pressing hidden buttons in his rival's anatomy, and if he and Olsen do not put on a show that stands out Thursday then the other bouts on the card will have to be mighty good.

Dick Shikat, a past master at breaking the usual rassle holds, will stack up against something new in Jones' "figure four" scissors, but if he is in a serious mood he probably can down Jones whenever the idea strikes him. And Abe Coleman and his kangaroo kick probably can end O'Shocker's work for the evening, for the big Irishman is little more than a good journeyman wrestler who can take it, but is far from being a top-notcher. Coleman is small, but he looms big on the mat.

Steinke Will Oppose Zikoff.

In other bouts Hans Steinke swaps holds and punches with Martin Zikoff, while Son Jennings, the Indian, takes on Tom Alley.

Women will be admitted free if accompanied by paying escorts, while children under 16 are charged the nominal fee of a quarter. Turner's Annapolis Hotel office is dispensing the tickets.

La Manga, Paying $409, Is Winner at Riverside

Kansas City, June 19 (A.P.).—La Manga, a filly, gladdened the hearts of a woman and two stable boys by winning the second race at Riverside Park today as a 200-to-1 shot, paying $409, $65.40 and $18.80 to win, place and show.

Mrs. Henry Eyer played the filly across the board and the stable boys, Bud Orear and Mike Fritsche, split a $2 winning ticket.

La Manga, finishing one-half length ahead of the Moon, covered the Futurity Course—70 yards less than 6 furlongs in 1:09 4-5. Facsimile was third.

Tigers Down A's; Tie for Fifth Place

Detroit, June 19 (A.P.).—Robert Moses Grove, who has been pitching principally in a relief role for Philadelphia this season, started a game against the Tigers today, but lasted only six innings and was charged with loss of the game, which Detroit won, 9 to 4.

Grove yielded nine hits, one of them a homer by Charley Gehringer, and six runs. Raymond Coombs, Duke University star, who succeeded him on the mound, was touched for four safeties. Meanwhile, Vic Frasier, late of the White Sox, was holding the A's to six hits, including a homer by Higgins.

The defeat pulled Philadelphia down into a fifth-place tie with the Tigers.

FIELD OF 480 BATTLES PAR AT CONGRESSIONAL TODAY

Best Golfers Of Vicinity Entered

Two Days of Qualifying Play Needed for Big Field.

Peacock's Par 72 Is the Best Practice Round Carded.

By DAVE HERMAN.

A GOLFING army numbering 480 will open a two-day seige on Old Man Par today in the qualifying round of the Congressional Country Club invitation tournament, but the experts are inclined to believe that the man who wins the medal in the 18-hole test will not crack par.

Ever since the rugged course was revamped, professionals and amateurs have found their path beset with difficulties in attempting to turn in subpar scores.

Hundreds of District entries in the invitation rehearsed their shots in practice rounds yesterday and the course buzzed with activity until late in the evening. It remained for Roger Peacock, District champion, to report the lowest score, a par 72.

Peacock Has 72 Practice Round.

Playing early in the day, Peacock pounded his way over the fairways and greens in consistently fine fashion, flashing far better form than he displayed in his medal round in the Middle Atlantic at Rolling Road.

John Downey, low amateur in the last National Capital open, shot a 76, while Harry Pitt, the Manor Moose and big favorite in the tournament, whizzed around in 78 strokes, the same amount used up by M. Parker Nolan, Indian Spring heavyweight. The home star, Luther Steward, jr., who recently developed into a demon putter, came home in 79. John Shorey, of Kenwood, worked on the first nine and scored about a 38.

The Congressional course, now regarded as one of the longest and stiffest in the East, is in tip-top shape. Early this morning Prof. R. P. Hines, greenskeeper, and a raft of laborers will put on the finishing touches to the greens and fairways. By the time a hot sun bakes them the entire pasture should be plenty fast.

The first hole, a 575-yard par five, promises to cause loads of trouble. It is the first of three tough par fives on the outgoing side. With the wind prevailing, holes No. 1, 5, 7, 11, 15 and 16 will be doubly hard to play.

24 Additional Entries Received.

Twenty-four post entries were received yesterday by the tournament committee headed by Bill McEvoy. The Baltimore contingent was enlarged to 12 with the addition of B. Warren Corkran, of the Baltimore Country Club, veteran Maryland State champion and former Middle Atlantic titleholder; E. R. Morse and Royal Gill, of the same club. Tom Webb, jr., long-swatting Washington Golf and Country Club golfer, sent in his entry, as did Leroy Sasscer, of Indian Spring, and John Connelly, Rock Creek champion.

Listed as one of the favorites, Tom Belshe, Indian Spring star, yesterday withdrew from the tournament. He was slated to play with Maury Nee Wednesday.

Chairman McEvoy has requested participants to appear on the tee at the specified time in view of the unusually large field. He also announced that a sixth flight has been added for match play.

By PAUL MICKELSON.

CHICAGO, June 19 (A.P.).—If the members of his first club hadn't been too busy to play much golf, the world might not have heard much of a young professional named Paul Runyan.

Runyan, almost a vest pocket edition of Gene Sarazen, started out as an assistant and handy man to Jimmy Norton at Hot Springs, Ark., several years ago.

After watching his smooth game, Norton got him a job as a full fledged pro and told him to practice as much as possible. Runyan looked for pupils, didn't find many, so he used up his spare time drilling daily.

In 1930, he joined Craig Wood on the winter tour and has been one of the rising stars of the game ever since. Equipped with a sound style and plenty of fighting spirit, he has won a place on America's Ryder Cup team and a good share of the money spoils of the winter campaign.

To demonstrate the young Arkansan's fighting spirit, the golfers tell about the recent international four-ball championship at Miami. Runyan had captured the rich Agua Caliente Open from a great field, but this time he was paired with Horton Smith, of Chicago in the finals against two of the toughest match players in the game, Olin Dutra and Tommy Armour.

Armour and Dutra figured Runyan might wilt under fire, mentally and physically, but he didn't. He and Smith won the match and title, and afterward all three players praised the 23-year-old star as one of the coolest heads in golf.

Runyan probably stopped all discussion about larger cups at Miami. The cans were widened to six inches for the Florida Year-Round Club Open and Runyan ran away with the $1,000 first prize with an amazing 72-hole total of 286, 10 under his closest rival. Next day the pros had a conference and decided golf was better off with the smaller cups.

He received the toughest break of his young life in the recent National Open at Chicago, when he was forced to withdraw after two good rounds because his score had been reported incorrectly.

A scarcity of pupils gave Paul Runyan plenty of time to practice a few years ago, and now he's the "baby" member of Uncle Sam's Ryder Cup matches.

J. C. C. Boxers to Meet Richmonders Tomorrow

The final indoor amateur boxing show of the season will be staged tomorrow night at the Jewish Community Center, where the host team will engage a squad of leather pushers representing the Richmond Y. M. C. A. Twelve bouts are scheduled. A buffet supper will follow the show.

Angie Tardugno, National A. A. U. 118-pound champion, tops the list of local boxers who will compete. Mike Tardugno, Sonny Jasme, Willy Feary, Joe Green, Lou Gevinson, Leon Shaub, Jim Curtin, Gus Mirman and Kirkwood Burke are on the program also.

STADIUM NINE WINS.

Stadium A. C. scored a 6-5 victory over Congress Heights in a hard-fought game yesterday. Newman set the losers down with only eight hits, while Danny Dunan, with a triple and single, led the winning attack.

FIRST LOSSES IN 22 YEARS.

Hector Edmunson, University of Washington track coach, lost two dual meets this year for the first time in 22 years of coaching Northwestern institutions.

FIRST GAME IN DECADE.

When Purdue meets Notre Dame in football this fall it will be their first meeting in ten years. In 1923 Noble Kizer, present Purdue coach, played guard on a Notre Dame team that walloped the Boilermakers, 34 to 7.

Chiseler Semifinals Reached by Roberts

Big Bill Roberts, former Maryland University tennis star, yesterday beat John Stauffer, 6—2, 8—6, to reach the semifinals of the Chiselers Club tennis tournament yesterday, and will meet George Considine tomorrow. The winner of this match will clash with Reuben Moore to determine the championship.

In the two doubles matches of the day, Dorette Miller and Kay Blanchard beat Betty Whitfield and Mariano Erana, 6—3, 3—6, 6—3, and Gene Hermann and Tommy Tompkins eliminated Red Nelson and Red Flynn, 6—2, 6—0.

Two doubles matches are slated at Monument courts at 5 p. m. today. Lee Abrams and Bobby Burns meet John Stauffer and Hi Ritzenberg, while Hubert Truehart and Carol Huls face Bobsey Turney and Big Bill Roberts.

FINNEY TO MONTREAL.

Montreal, June 19 (A.P.).—The Montreal Royals, of the International League, today announced Lou Finney, Athletics rookie outfielder, had been obtained on option. Finney, who was with the Portland Club, of the Pacific Coast League, last year, will replace Hub Walker, recalled by the Detroit Tigers.

ROACHE HURLS NO-HIT GAME

Bernie Rosche personally accounted for the Marmon nine's 1-0 triumph over the Meridians yesterday, hurling a no-hit, no-run game and driving in the winning run with a timely single. Only one Meridian player reached second, getting on by a walk. The Marmons made only four hits themselves.

Somerville, Dunlap Win In Britain

De Forest, However, Is Beaten in Defense of Amateur Title.

J. Crane, Veteran of Brookline, Mass., Is Defeated.

HOYLAKE, England, June 19 (A.P.).—John de Forest, wealthy son of a British baron who came from nowhere last year to win the British amateur golf title, today lost it just as quickly as the current championships opened over the windy Royal Liverpool links.

Young Johnny, favorite of Hollywood, who learned his game in the States and carries one of the biggest bags of clubs in golfdom, was erased from the tournament in his first engagement by G. D. Hanney, who described himself as "just an old fossil" in a twenty-hole engagement.

The defeat of the title holder marked a day which saw brilliant victories by C. Ross (Sandy) Somerville, Canadian holder of the United States amateur title, and George T. Dunlap, jr., of New York, leading American entrant for the crown.

Play of De Forest Is Erratic.

While De Forest was playing erratically to lose to the elderly Hanney, Somerville and Dunlap went an even, near-par way to score almost identical victories.

The slender Dunlap, intercollegiate champion while a student at Princeton, defeated Joseph Gorry, 55-year-old Irish player, 4 and 3 and Somerville upset D. H. R. Martin, an old Oxford Blue, by the same margin. Both played the first nine holes in 38, 2 over par.

There was one American and one Canadian casualty of the day. Joshua Crane, the Brookline, Mass., veteran, bowed to Sir Robert McLean, 3 and 1, and Bernard Darwin, the well-known English golf writer, defeated C. W. Wigle, of Hamilton, Ont., 2 and 1.

Jack Nash Is Victor in Two Matches.

Jack Nash, of London, Ont., the only invader playing two matches, defeated W. F. Wiseman, 2 and 1, in the morning and came back in the afternoon to win from A. W. Bibbs, 4 and 3.

The English critics, taking their first look at the invading favorites, found Somerville and Dunlap with an easy, attractive style of play. Dunlap was especially deadly with his short game. The American was going for the pin all the time and generally left himself an easy putt.

Play was confined to the first round and the upper half of the second, so several British favorites, including Cyril Tolley, title holder in 1920 and 1929, and Jack McLean, the hope of Scotland, did not see action. Both will play tomorrow when the unwieldy field of 267 starters will be cut down with two 18-hole rounds.

D. C. Net Tourney To Open Saturday

Opening matches in singles and doubles of the men's division of the annual District of Columbia tennis tournament will be played Saturday morning on the Har-tru courts of the Army and Navy Country Club. Although many of those who competed last year, particularly Army and Navy officers who have been transferred elsewhere, will not compete, a large and representative field will seek the championship. Dooley Mitchell, ranking No. 1 District player, is entered. It is one of the few tuornaments Mitchell has played in which he has not been able to win.

Entry blanks are available at Spalding's, the Tennis Shop, 1019 Fifteenth street, and at the tennis house of the club. Information concerning the tournament may be obtained from Tom Frydell, secretary of the tennis association, at the tennis house or by calling Walnut 8575.

FEDERAL UNIONISTS MEET.

O'Brien Wins Md. Junior Golf Title

G.U. Student Gets 73, With Dettweiler Runner-Up.

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 19.—Donald O'Brien, Georgetown University golfer playing from Rolling Road Golf Club, won the Maryland State Golf Association championship at the Baltimore Country Club course at Roland Park today, with a 73, 1 over par.

Second was Billy Dettweiler, from the Manor Club in the Washington district, one stroke behind. Dettwiler, who qualified for the national amateur here last autumn, made a poor start, with three out of bounds shots with their double penalty of stroke and distance, on the first nine. He blazed his way through the back nine in 32, three under par, his card showing an unbroken succession of 3s and 4s.

Prizes also were given in age classes. Dettwiler, whose father entered him in the championship class, despite his age, 15, earned the runner-up trophy, leaving the prize in the 15-16 year old division to Jack Emich, of the Forest Park Golf Club, with 87. In the 17-18 year old group, Don Miller, Baltimore Country Club, turned in a winning 77. Billy Wanger, member of the host club, led the boys 14 and under with 97.

O'Brien hit the ball well throughout on the tricky course, and three-putted only two greens, the fourteenth and seventeenth. On this last, a sharply-sloping carpet, he putted 9 feet from the hole for a birdie, but the ball rimmed the cup and rolled 6 feet past; he missed again. He had no out of bounds and nothing over 5 on the card. On the third, fourth and fifth holes, all par 4s, he had three successive birdies.

Miss Bates and Broaddus Win A.A.U. Diving Crowns

Two Glen Echo Pool Records Fall in Swim Meet.

A CROWD of approximately 1,000 fans saw Lois Bates win the District of Columbia highboard diving championship by the slim margin of 1 1-5 points at Crystal Pool, Glen Echo, last night. Two pool records were smashed during the meet, one in the men's division and the other in the women's.

Marie Duval, who is rapidly forging to the front in diving, pressed Miss Bates to the very last dive, which decided the victor. The winner's score was 121½ to 120 4-10. Leonore Taube, well known in local swimming circles, was third.

Men's Diving Title to Broaddus.

Moncure scored an easy triumph in the 120-yard breast stroke, negotiating the distance in 1 minute 37 seconds for a new pool record. Dick Maurer took second place with Arnold Wilcox third.

Caroline Cox accounted for the new mark in the women's events, swimming the 120-yard free-style race in 1 minute 33 seconds for her second triumph of the meet. She also scored in the 60-yard free style.

Close finishes marked all other races on the program. Although no official team point score was kept, the Shoreham Club placed in more events than any other organization represented.

Most of 1933 Honors To Hyattsville High

Hyattsville High School athletes won most honors in Prince Georges County during the school year just closed, capturing the boys' basket ball and track championships and the girls' basket ball title.

Maryland Park High gained two crowns, winning in boys' soccer and girls' field ball. Mount Rainier High won baseball laurels and Surrattsville High, the lone school in the southern section of the county to land a championship, was victorious in girls' volley ball. Hyattsville boys' basket ball team made the best showing in State competition, battling its way to the Western Shore final, in which it succumbed to Alleghany High, of Cumberland.

Prince Georges athletes finished eighth in the State championship track meet, but were only five points behind Montgomery and Allegany, that were tied for second.

Wales, Fairbanks Bow To Prince, Compston

Sunningdale, England, June 19 (A.P.).—The Prince of Wales and Douglas Fairbanks, friends of long standing, today paired in a goal foursome, but came out second best to Prince George and Archie Compston, well-known British professional.

Compston and Wales' younger brother defeated the monarch-to-be and the American movie king, 3 and 2.

The match was close all the way, but Fairbanks and the prince lost three straight holes, after making the turn all square, and never could regain the lost ground.

MANDELL OUTPOINTED.

Baer Defeats Wistort In Buffalo Exhibition

Buffalo, N. Y., June 19 (U.P.).—Max Baer, whose victory over Max Schmeling made him a contender for Jack Sharkey's world heavyweight championship, continued his exhibition tour here tonight by winning a four-round decision over Pete Wistort, of Chicago. Less than 3,000 persons saw the bout.

Neither Baer nor Wistort did much damage, but under the rules of the New York Athletic Commission it was necessary to hand down a decision, which the judges and Referee Jack Dempsey gave to Baer. Baer weighed 209 and Wistort 206.

British Go Into Finals Of Zone Davis Cup Play

Eastbourne, England, June 19 (A.P.).—England today advanced to the final round of European zone Davis Cup competition as Fred Perry and G. P. Hughes paired to defeat Roderich Menzel and F. Marsalek, of Czechoslovakia, 6—3, 6—4, 6—4, for the third straight English victory.

England will meet Australia in the zone final at Anteuil July 14, 15 and 16 for the right to play the United States in the interzone final a week later.

ROSALIE KNAPP MEDALIST.

Glen Head, N. Y., June 19 (A.P.).—Rosalie Knapp, playing over her own course, the women's national, scored a 77 today to win the qualifying medal from many better-known players in the Long Island women's golf championship.

Mrs. Haynes, Mrs. May Are Tied

Shoot 90's to Share Medal at Kenwood; Matches Today.

MRS. J. MARVIN HAYNES, of Columbia, Middle Atlantic champion, and Mrs. Katherine May, of Kenwood, posted rounds of 90, each, yesterday, at the sporty Kenwood Golf and Country Club course, to deadlock for top honors in the qualifying round of the annual District women's championship.

Mrs. Haynes and Mrs. May paced a field of 52 feminine players, and will enter the opening round of match play today ranked among the outstanding favorites to win the championship which was captured last year by Mrs. Hugh Nicolson, who is not an entry in this season's event.

Mrs. Haynes Has Her Troubles

The long-driving Mrs. Haynes shot the first nine in 44, but encountered a couple of disastrous holes on the stretch. She took a 9 on the 531-yard thirteenth due to pulling her third shot into the high rough and used up 7 strokes on the punch bowl sixteenth. Mrs. Haynes rallied on the short seventeenth and laid her tee shot dead to the pin for a birdie 2, finishing the incoming nine in 46.

Off to a ragged start by going beserk on the first hole for an 8, Mrs. May staged a strong comeback to hit the turn in 45 shots. She played two beautiful shots on the 311-yard third to anare a birdie 3. On the water hole twelfth, she ran into trouble and wound up with a 7, but cruised the last nine in 45.

One stroke behind the cosharers of medal honors marched Miss Virginia Williams, tall Congressional champion, who posted a 45-46—91. Miss Williams also had trouble on the waterhole twelfth, where she took a 9. Helen Dettweiler, of Manor; Virginia Pope, of Kenwood, and Mrs. J. F. Dowdall, of Congressional, reeled off 93's each.

Match play in five flights commences at 8:30 this morning. In the championship division Mrs. Haynes opposes Mrs. Ora Emge, of Beaver Dam, at 10:35, while Mrs. May takes on Louise Claytor, of Chevy Chase.

DEMOCRATS APPEAL IN ANNAPOLIS CASE

Go to Higher Court in Effort to Assure Election Next Month.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., June 19.—Democratic leaders of Annapolis have appealed to the Maryland Court of Appeals as a final move to assure, if possible, the holding of a municipal election in July.

A somewhat uncertain situation recently was precipitated when Associate Judge William H. Forsythe, of the Fifth Judicial Circuit, gave a decision holding that the new municipal election law, fostered by Democrats and passed at the last session of the legislature, repealed existing statutes and as the new act made no provision for the necessary machinery, neither a registration nor election could be held until 1936.

Republican leaders brought the original action and scored as a result of Judge Forsythe's decision. They raised the point as to the apparent conflict in the dates for registration and the primary election.

Forsythe did not pass upon this particular point, however. Instead, he ruled in effect that the new act was a repealer of the old law, and as a result registration and election officials were legislated out of office, as of June 1, and the new statute contained no provision for naming such officials. Sponsored by Democrats, the new act was designed purposely to strip the rival party of success in future election, particularly as to the city counselorship and also to gain control of the Annapolis water supply in view of certain members of the council being specifically designated to the board of directors of that company. The law also proposed to make the counselor an appointive rather than an elective office, and provided that elections should be held every three years instead of two, as heretofore.

Judge Forsythe's decision came as a big blow to the Democrats, as it completely stalled all their plans for at least three years, since the present council members would continue to hold office.

The Democrats have control of the council by a 6-to-4 vote, but the ranking offices of mayor and counselor are held by Republicans, the incumbents being Walter E. Quenstedt, serving his second term, and Roscoe C. Row, completing his first term. Both of these are members of the water board, and under present law the mayor has the appointment of president of that organization. And that circumstance presents the real rub.

The Appellate Court meets here tomorrow, and at the suggestion of Chief Judge Carroll T. Bond, the opposing groups have submitted their contentions in writing for review, and a final decision within a few days is expected. Briefs were prepared by Attorney Benjamin Michaelson, in behalf of the Democrats, and Counselor Rowe and Attorney Louis Strauss for the Republicans. The Democrats are placed in the light of questioning the constitutionality of a law, passage of which was engineered by them.

THOMAS CIRCLE CUT IS SCORED IN REPORT BY FINE ARTS BOARD

Proposal to Trim Sidewalk Accepted to Facilitate Traffic Movement.

The proposal to run two lines of traffic through Thomas Circle to relieve rush-hour congestion on Fourteenth street was disapproved yesterday by the Fine Arts Commission in a report sent to the office of Public Buildings and Parks, which originated the scheme.

The report opposes the plan on the ground that it would set a bad precedent to begin dismembering the original L'Enfant plans for the city. The circles of the city are a part of the plan and make Washington unique, the report points out. Furthermore, the problem is only a rush-hour one, and the circle is a location for one of the finest equestrian statues in Washington.

The commission did agree to an alternate proposal to narrow the sidewalk around the circle, thereby giving more street space. The present sidewalk is 9 feet wide. The report also approved another proposal to ease the traffic flow by cutting back the narrow points of land between the streets which meet at the circle, thereby further widening the street area.

The report disapproves any plan to change the present shape of the circular grass plot around the statue. The plan originatel by the Office of Public Buildings would run a street car line and one lane of traffic on either side of the statue, between an oval center plot and two traffic "islands" on the outer rim of the present circle.

The Public Utilities Commission and the National Capital Park and Planning Commission have already approved the change. The District Commissioners, whose decision will be final, have not yet acted in the matter.

Elkins Will Case Is Set for Trial

The contest over the will of Hallie Davis Elkins has been set for trial in District Supreme Court October 17. Justice James M. Proctor yesterday signed an order setting the date and defining the eight issues to be decided by a jury.

The issues all relate to the mental ability of Mrs. Elkins to make the will of February 9, 1933, and the codicil attached to it, and also whether she was induced to make the will or codicil through fraud or misrepresentation.

Under the terms of the will, Mrs. Elkins left most of her $1,500,000 estate to former United States Senator Davis Elkins, of West Virginia. The contest over the will was started by a grandson, Stephen B. Elkins 3d, who was left $50,000. Wilton Lambert and Rudolph Yeatman represent George F. Snyder, who was named executor, and also former Senator Elkins, while the firm of Douglas, Obear and Douglas represents the grandson.

Army Band to Play Venezuelan Pieces

Selections by Venezuelan composers will be played by the United States Army Band tomorrow night at the Pan-American Union in the sixty-seventh concert sponsored by the union.

The date of the concert is observed as the national holiday of Venezuela. Eleven selections new to this country will be included in the program. Among these is a unique selection from the highlands of South America, which was very popular there. Pan pipes used by the shepherds in Bolivia and Peru and a Peruvian harp of the colonial period will be used.

The vocalist, Senor Leopoldo Gutierrez, will sing selections from nine Latin American republics. He will be accompanied by Irene Hampton, of New York City. One of Senor Gutierrez' selections will be from the famous Brazilian opera, "The Contractor for Diamonds," by Francisco Mignone. The selection, which will be sung in this concert, is the finale of the entire opera and a very brilliant number.

Renovizing Exposition To Open Here July 10

A gala opening of the renovize Washington exposition at 1435-37 K street northwest is being planned for July 10, with civic and fraternal organizations taking part. On the same day the little house on the Government lot at Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest will be opened in its rehabilitated form.

The exposition will show virtually everything used "to repair, remodel and restore at today's bargain prices," which is the slogan of the campaign There will be model kitchens, model bathrooms and all kinds of furnishing suggestions on display. Some visitor to the exposition will be awarded the renovized house.

Optimist Conclave Starts Tomorrow

The annual meeting and luncheon of the Washington-Baltimore-Richmond Optimist district in the Hamilton Hotel tomorrow afternoon will start the activities arranged for the fifteenth annual convention of the Optimist International, which will go into a three-day session Thursday morning in the Mayflower Hotel.

It is estimated that the international conclave will bring to Washington 700 delegates and members of clubs of 115 cities of the United States and Canada. Convention headquarters in the Mayflower will be open for registration all day tomorrow, and a get-together dance and buffet supper will be held in the evening.

The chairmen of the various committees are Henry Schaffert, general committee, with George Kahl, Baltimore, and Ravee Norris, Richmond, as vice chairmen; Wash. B. Williams, entertainment; Frank M. Pierce, reception; Louis C. Carl, transportation; J. Rogers Yates, finance; Joseph E. Murphy, local registration; Joseph E. Rice, souvenir; R. J. A. Kaemmerer, voice; William M. Kline, information; Clarence Shaffer, decorations; Hugh E. Phillips, golf; Paul Easby-Smith, publicity; Harry J. Pirie, hotel; Wade H. Atkinson, medical; Anthony Ludwig, photography; A. Lee Thompson, budget; Charles Pyle, boys' relations; Dr. Ralph Bonnette, speakers.

DRUG STORE HOLDUP NETS LOOT OF $165; CUSTOMERS ROBBED

Two Women Forced to Lie on Floor of Washington Medical Building Pharmacy.

Gruffly commanding employes and patrons to lie on the floor, two men looted cash registers and robbed two women customers in a daring daylight holdup of the Maxwell & Tennyson drug store in the Washington Medical Building, at 1801 I street northwest, during the afternoon rush hour yesterday.

Herding three employes and the proprietor into a back room, the men, who had been seen around the store earlier in the afternoon, took about $115 from two cash registers, $45 from Miss Ruth Overby, of the Copley Courts, and $5 from Miss Edith Kelsecome, 4029 New Hampshire avenue northwest, patrons in the store.

Owner Fails in Capture.

After taking the purses of the two women, they were made to lie on the floor and told not to move "until we are gone!" Dr. D. L Maxwell, co-proprietor of the store, who attempted to follow the men when they left the store, said they escaped in a dark sedan. Both men were about 30 years old, he said.

The money lost by the women patrons will be refunded by the owners of the store, Dr. Maxwell and Dr. I. A. Tennyson, employes said.

Rent Money Stolen.

Miss Overby told police that she was standing at the prescription counter, when the men entered. One of them walked to the rear of the store, she said, and, after looking into the back room, drew a gun and forced her to lie on the floor beside Miss Kelsecome.

She was holding a $1 bill in her hand at the time, she told police, and when the man asked for her money, she offered him both her purse and the bill. He took only the purse.

At police headquarters last night Dr. Maxwell picked out the photographs of two men who resembled the robbers.

Rent Inquiry Fund Ruling Due Today

The Public Utilities Commission today will decide whether there is any available fund under which James Ring, former clerk of the Senate District Committee, may be employed as investigator in the proposed rent inquiry.

Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the commission, declined yesterday to comment on a letter he received from Senator King, chairman of the Senate District Committee, asking for Mr. Ring's appointment.

The commission faces an appropriation cut of about $20,000 for the new fiscal year, but friends of Mr. Ring contend that money for his employment can be found in the drastically reduced budget.

July 4th Decree Issued for Capital

In a formal proclamation, the District Commissioners yesterday asked residents of Washington to observe Independence Day on Tuesday, July 4, in a fitting and appropriate manner.

It was pointed out that the day marks the 157th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

As an act of gratitude to the forefathers of the country "who by their signal act bequeathed to us a sovereign Nation in which we may enjoy the blessings of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and as a tribute to the hosts who have served this Nation in the intervening years," the Commissioners asked that flags on homes and business houses be displayed on the Fourth of July, and authorized flags on metal staffs to be placed in position July 3 and remain until noon of July 5.

$15,000 Collected By Jewish Drive

A total of $15,000 from 800 contributors was reported last night at the conclusion of the united Jewish campaign for the relief of eastern European and German Jews and for Palestine reconstruction.

Judge Nathan Cayton spoke at the meeting which was held in the Jewish Community Center. It was decided at the meeting to hold memorial service on July 10 for Dr. Chaim Arlosarro, leader in the Zionist movement, who was assassinated in Palestine last Sunday.

Mrs. Harmon New Head Of Delphian Chapter

Mrs. P. J. Harmon was elected president of the Sigma Delta Chapter of the Delphian Society at the final meeting of the season of the group at the Shoreham Hotel yesterday.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Ralph Smith, vice president; Mrs. Guy Mason, secretary; Mrs. Robert Bates, treasurer, and Mrs. Ruth Snodgrass, chairman of the seminar board. Mrs. Annie C. Otto and Mrs. L. M. Fuller were elected as assistant chairmen on the board. The society will reconvene for a study of "Art of Drama" on September 11.

"Ben," Bengal Tiger, Expires in Zoo Cage

The tiger was one of the Zoo's oldest residents. He was received from India in 1914. Dr. Mann said that he lived longer at the Zoo than he would have in his native jungles.

"Old Ben" had been infirm for several months and officials at the park were anticipating having to kill him to relieve his suffering.

The beast, one of the largest of his breed, was never crowd shy. To Dr. Mann and Headkeeper William H. Blackburn he was just an overgrown cat. He meowed and purred for them and was friendly as a kitten.

His remains will be given to the National Museum.

FRANKLIN NATIONAL STOCK SALES DRIVE PASSES OBJECTIVE

Officials Map Reopening at Conferences With U. S. Treasury Heads.

Having secured $2,249,000 worth of stockholders' and depositors' agreements, or more than $2,200,000 worth necessary to reopen Franklin National Bank as an independent institution under its present title, officials of that bank went into conference with United States Treasury Department officials yesterday regarding details of their reopening plan. A decision is expected within a week.

The general subscription committee for the proposed Hamilton National Bank of Washington began its final drive yesterday to secure within the week the remaining $100,000 of the needed $1,250,000 worth of new stock to start this bank. Committeemen conferred with trade bodies' leaders yesterday regarding their cooperation in the final week's campaign.

The committee reported a $10,000 subscription from Woodward & Lothrop Department Store yesterday to be added to the sizeable list of donations from prominent business enterprises announced on Saturday and Sunday. By-laws for the new bank are being drafted, negotiations are under way for securing branches for the new institution, its directorate is being selected and the assets of the seven restricted banking institutions to form it are being analyzed. All this, in view of its expected opening at an early date.

Banks thus far definitely committed to the Hamilton National Bank of Washington plan are Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., District National Bank, Potomac Savings Bank, Washington Savings Bank, Northeast Savings Bank, Woodridge-Langdon Savings & Commercial Bank and United States Savings Bank.

MILK RATE HEARING DATE DUE SATURDAY

The date for hearings on the inquiry into milk prices in the District is expected to be decided Saturday at a conference between Senator William H. King, chairman of the Senate District Committee, and Senator McCarran (Democrat), of Nevada, who was yesterday appointed to the committee.

The groundwork for the investigation was laid yesterday at a conference attended by Senators King and McCarran, Elwood H. Seal, special counsel to the investigating committee, and W. B. Watson Snyder, special assistant to the Attorney General, who is conducting the investigation into the antitrust phase of local milk distribution.

For the next few days Mr. Seal and Mr. Snyder will classify the data thus far gathered by them and will have it ready to present to the committee at the Saturday meeting. On Saturday Mr. Seal will present for the approval of Senators King and McCarran, a tentative plan of procedure and the testimony which they believe should be heard.

Board Liberalizes Beer Regulations

The Beverage Permits Board yesterday recommended a liberal interpretation of the municipal regulation barring sale of beer within 200 feet of churches.

Under the recommendation, licenses would be issued to places of business so long as the boundary of the property is 200 feet from the entrance to the church. This interpretation is similiar to the law invoked under the liquor excise tax.

Several additional permits will be granted to applicants now on the borderline if the recommendation is adopted. Up to this time the board has measured the 200 feet between the respective property lines.

Woman Shaking Mop Seriously Hurt in Fall

Falling from a second-story porch when the bannister broke while she was shaking out her dust mop, Mrs. Ella Slifer, 55, 504 Randolph street northwest, yesterday suffered a fracture of her left arm, a possible fracture of the skull and internal injuries.

She was given first aid treatment by the Fire Rescue Squad, and taken to Emergency Hospital. Her condition is regarded as serious.

'Rock & Rye'

Harbor Police Say Quintet Seized Was Rocked by Latter.

There is nothing in a name—so this is just another coincidence.

Five persons aboard the Rock and Rye, a cabin boat, were taken into custody by harbor police late yesterday at the foot of O and Water streets southwest on charges of intoxication. Police alleged they were full of "rye" and rocking the boat—also running it backward and in circles. Before police succeeded in taking them ashore, they also had to pull one member of the jolly quintet out of the river.

INCURABLES' HOME GROUND IS BROKEN

Mrs. Archibald Hopkins Is Presiding Officer at New Wing Rites.

Mrs. Archibald Hopkins, president of the Washington Home for Incurables, broke ground yesterday for the 38-room addition to the home. The new wing will be completed in November for admission of patients already on the waiting list.

Mrs. Hopkins, president of the home for 34 years and the only surviving member of its original board, performed the ceremonies before a group of the institution's officials and some of the residents. The Rev. Charles E. Warner, rector of St. Alban's Episcopal Church and a frequent visitor to the home, invoked the blessings of God upon the new undertaking.

To meet the increasing demands on the home, funds have been borrowed to erect the new wing. The foundation was used as collateral for the loan. The unit will cost approximately $8,000.

Besides affording 38 additional rooms, the new structure will provide basement space for a laundry for the home.

Coal Dealers Outing.

The annual outing of Washington coal merchants will be held June 27, at Annapolis Roads Country Club. Washington B. Williams, chairman of the outing for the past two years, will again be in charge.

FEDERAL-AMERICAN WINS $125,000 SUIT

Appellate Court's Decision in McReynolds Case Is Held Favoring Bank.

The Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co. yesterday gained a victory in the District Court of Appeals that will, in the opinion of Leon Tobriner, the bank's attorney, relieve the institution of the possibility of having to pay out approximately $125,000.

The bank had lost last year in the District Supreme Court a suit that was brought by Joseph McReynolds and his wife, Mrs. Ellen T. McReynolds. Damages of $125,000 minus a set-off of $50,737.21 had been given the McReynolds together with $8,300 that had been charged by the bank for its services in negotiating a real estate deal.

The Federal-American Bank was sued as successor bank to the Merchants Bank & Trust Co., which it had taken over. The decision actually gave to the McReynolds $82,563, plus interest for a period in excess of three years. This sum, together with the court costs, brought the liability of the bank up to $125,000, Mr. Tobriner estimated.

Apartment House Deal.

The suit arose through a transaction in which McReynolds traded an apartment house at Eighteenth and G streets northwest for several parcels of land and two promissory notes for $125,000. These notes formed the basis of the allegation by McReynolds that the deal was tinctured with fraud, in that the maker was insolvent at the time of the deal.

The trial court found that the McReynolds were entitled to a judgment for $125,000 minus $50,737 which had been borrowed with the notes as collateral. The higher court, however, held that this was error for the reason that at the time of the signing of the contract the notes were the property of the bank, which was not a party to the contract nor bound by its terms.

The higher court pointed out that to complete the transaction, the D. C. Realty Co., Inc., which was a corporation acting as holding company for the real estate owned by the Merchants Bank Investment Co., which had the same officers as the Merchants Bank & Trust Co., purchased the notes from the bank for $125,000 and they were then delivered to McReynolds in compliance with the terms of the contract.

Decision Was Reversed.

"It is clear," the Appellate Court said, "that the notes did not become the property of McReynolds until the time of their delivery to him, and that the price realized by the bank from the investment company for the notes can not be recovered by him as money had and received for his benefit."

The notes were "not his property when they were sold and for which consideration was received by the bank" which sold them so that the real estate deal could be carried out.

The decision was reversed and the case remanded for further proceedings. Costs were taxed against McReynolds. The attorneys for Federal Bank, besides Mr. Tobriner, was Abner H. Ferguson, while Attorneys George A. Berry and Joseph J. Malloy represented the McReynolds.

Potomac Claims Youth's Life at Eighth Street

John Holland, 21, colored, 3432 Second street southwest, was drowned late yesterday in the Potomac River at the foot of Eighth street at L street southwest. He dived into the river from the wharf for a swim.

The body was recovered by Frank McGovern, of the Fire Rescue Squad, and was identified by the man's brother, Benjamin Holland. Resuscitation efforts were unavailing, and the man was pronounced dead by an interne on the Casualty Hospital ambulance, which was called.

BANK SUES DEBTORS OF $455,678 NOTES

As a result of seven suits filed yesterday in the District Supreme Court, depositors in the closed Commercial National Bank may receive $455,678.92 to augment the "dividends" they may receive from the bank.

Robert C. Baldwin, receiver for the bank, filed the suits. Six of them were based on long overdue promissory notes and the seventh was a 100 per cent stock assessment against Rudolph B. Behrend, of the American Building.

Mr. Behrend, according to the allegations of the suit, was, on February 28, the date of the closing of the bank, the owner of 255 shares, with a par value of $100 per share. As a stockholder he is being sued on the full amount of his holdings. In this way, there being a $1,000,000 capitalization, depositors and creditors may eventually get back $1,000,000 through other similar assessments.

Ayoob M. Rizik, of 1213 F street northwest, was the largest alleged debtor in the suits filed yesterday. Mr. Rizik is listed as owing $126,299.26 on five promissory notes. The notes were for $100,000, $5,545.76, $11,359, $5,500, and $3,500.

F. H. Duehay, Inc., and Francis H. Duehay, also known as F. H. Duehay, were named defendants in a suit aggregating $103,298.11. That amount was made up by eleven promissory notes that are allegedly overdue. The notes ran from $35,000 and $31,000 down to $100. Mr. Duehay, personally, also was sued in another suit that charged he owed the bank $15,025 on two notes. The Duhay Co. is located at 1624 I street northwest.

R. Golden Donaldson, former president of the bank, of Wardman Park Hotel, was named as owing the institution $92,584.48, which he borrowed on two promissory notes that were payable on demand. Harry M. Crandall, also known as H. M. Crandall, was sued on a note amounting to $27,072.07, and Eugene A. Smith, 923 Fifteenth street northwest, was listed as owing $85,900 on four notes.

B. & P. W. Club Holds Dinner.

Miss Nelle Ingals, president of the Business and Professional Women's Club, was presented with a gavel at the annual dinner of the club last night at the Willard Hotel. The feature of the evening was a play presented by Miss Elizabeth Haney, Dr. Florence Eberhart and Miss Norma Hughes.

ABLEST ARCHITECTS ARE SOUGHT BY U. S.

Institute Is About to See Its Goal Attained in Recovery Act.

The Nation's ablest architects and engineers are being enlisted for design and construction of Federal buildings under the national industrial recovery act, Ernest J. Russell, president of the American Institute of Architects, said yesterday.

This action will cause the Federal Government to recognize the private practitioners in architecture and engineering, an objective which the institute has been endeavoring to reach for several years through an act of Congress, Mr. Russel said.

L. W. Roberts, jr., Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of public buildings, has called upon the institute and engineering council to furnish him with lists of competent architects and engineers throughout the country.

"There has been full and friendly discussion of the whole question of Federal employment of private architects and engineers and the Treasury intends to recognize the professions to the fullest extent," Mr. Russell said.

Tucker Is New Collier's Capital Correspondent

Ray Tucker, of the Washington staff of the Scripps-Howard newspapers, has resigned to be the Washington correspondent of Collier's Weekly, succeeding the late Clinton W. Gilbert.

Mr. Tucker is a Yale graduate, who began his newspaper career on the Springfield Republican and Hartford Courant. He has been located in Washington for 12 years and is the author of two recent books on the National political scene, "Mirrors of 1932" and "Sons of the Wild Jackass."

Baby Smothers to Death When Entangled in Bed

Becoming entangled in the bed clothing when she turned over on her face, 2-month-old Agnes Cornell was found smothered to death late yesterday at her foster home at 1454 Lawrence street northeast.

According to police, Miss Nellie Walter, who lives at the address, said she had been away from the child only about a half hour. She was keeping the infant for the Catholic Charities.

Rats in City Dump To Be Fed Poison

The District Health Department yesterday sponsored a modern Pied Piper's mission to Thirty-seventh and Albemarle streets, where a community of rats had taken up residence in a city dump. An expert from the Department of Agriculture spread poison over the dump.

Residents near the dump had complained that the rats were becoming impudent in their search for food. Health Officer William C. Fowler at first hesitated to spread the poison for fear of endangering children.

The poison is similar to that used in driving out the army of rats that occupied the old Center Market site several years ago and will not endanger other animals or humans.

Two Held for Jury In Auction Racket

David Herman Cohen, 53, and Max Graiman, 36, were ordered held for the grand jury yesterday by United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage on charges of bringing stolen property into the District. They were arrested in an alleged "auction sale racket" on June 2.

The two are said to have opened a "dummy" furniture store in Lexington, Ky., after establishing a credit status in that city. They are then alleged to have ordered merchandise from four national concerns. When it arrived there it was reconsigned to Washington. The men were arrested when they claimed it here.

Lunsford Hamner, representative of the firms, and a member of the law firm of Loving & Hamner, declared that a "racket," by which manufacturers are robbed of large quantities of goods, which are sold at hurried auctions, costs millions of dollars each year.

Wardman Park Official Marries in New York

Charles Devault Prather, 45, of the Wardman Park Hotel, where he is assistant manager, and Mrs. Mae King, 32, of Silver Spring, Md., were married yesterday in New York. It was learned last night. The marriage was performed in the municipal chapel at New York City Hall.

Both the bride and bridegroom have been married before. Mrs. King was divorced from Caulvert B. King last November at Rockville, Md. Mr. Prather's first marriage to Mrs. Margaret H. Prather was dissolved by divorce in November, 1930, at Alexandria, Va.

Transfer Company Is Sued for $15,000

The George Transfer Co., Inc., of 911 South Capitol street, yesterday was named defendant in a suit for $15,000 damages. The suit was filed by James I. Coffey, of 1214 I street northwest, through the law firm of Welch, Daily & Welch.

Mr. Coffey alleged that he was driving his automobile on the Bladensburg road northeast, last October, when a truck of the defendant struck his machine, causing him to sustain serious injuries.

Mickie Monk Bites Girl; Surprises All Concerned

Prized as a pet and always the center of an admiring group of children, "Mickie" may now be classed as a rogue monkey. The animal forgot himself and the respect due to human beings and bit a member of the family homosapiens.

Seven-year-old Jean Brown was the victim of the monkey's assault while she was playing in a park at Seventeenth and S streets northwest yesterday. She ran to her home at 1825 New Hampshire avenue and recited her experiences to her father, Steuart Brown. She was treated at Emergency Hospital for lacerations to her hand.

Al Burke, of 1733 Seventeenth street, told police that he had taken a liking to the animal and bought him at Atlantic City, N. J., during a recent visit. He stated that Mickie's misbehavior came as a surprise to him.
